This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW-HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers and committees for the year for which they are chosen, the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person, the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions, the Secretaries and Treasurers of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New-Hampshire Bible Society and the Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund, a representation of the Faculty of Dartmouth College, and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this State, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches, or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world; and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath of September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and be notified by the Secretary, and opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service the preacher shall take the chair, and preside until a Moderator is chosen. The Secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members; when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a Moderator, a Scribe, and, if necessary, an Assistant Scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the times and places of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches, and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body, and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either one of the permanent officers, or his removal from the State, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting, who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session, including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each; to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic, respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the minutes to each church connected with local Conferences, to each minister connected with a local Association, both within the State, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning, the Moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the Moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The Moderator may speak on points of order, in preference to other members; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members. But he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question—namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any members may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member, when speaking shall address himself to the chair and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly, it shall be the duty of the Moderator, and the privilege of the other member to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us, and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other States.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several Conferences uniting in this organization, according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the Treasurer of each Conference shall be responsible to the Treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the Associations and Conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. Prayer.

Hon. Jonathan E. Sargent, of the Committee to whom was referred the subject of the taxation of churches, made a report, reading letters, showing the conflicting views of the Committee, and recommending the adoption of the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, There is much diversity of opinion among the clergy and membership of our denomination upon the subject of taxing churches and church property, and

WHEREAS, We are informed and believe that the several religious societies in the city of Manchester, have commenced proceedings with a view to have such legal and constitutional questions as may arise in connection with this subject, settled by the Supreme Court of the State, Therefore,

Resolved, 1st, That we deem it expedient, before taking definite action upon the subject, to wait until the Court shall have decided the legal questions in the case.

Resolved, 2d, That a Committee of five be appointed to obtain the opinion of the Court when delivered, and make report to the next annual Association, recommending such action as they may then deem expedient and proper.

On motion, the resolutions were adopted, and the Committee of last year was re-appointed. (See Minutes 1879, p. 18.)

3 o'clock. Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D.D., read an essay on "The Evils of Divorce and their Remedy."

That to section V, article 4, there be added the words, "and in addition, the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars."

That section V, article 5, be changed so it shall read, "Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the Narratives of the State of Religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom the narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year."

That section V, article 6, be stricken out.

That section VII, article 4, be changed in its first sentence so it shall read, "The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association and the Secretary of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication;" in its last sentence, so it shall read, "The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with the local Conferences, to each minister connected with a local Association within the State, to other similar ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership."

That section VIII, be stricken from the Constitution, and that, in its substance, it be appended to the Constitution under the head of "Order of Business."

That section IX, article 7, be stricken out.

Rev. Samuel L. Gerould, Rev. George B. Spalding, D.D., and Rev. Franklin D. Ayer were appointed a committee to report next year on what should constitute a Congregational minister in good standing, in this State.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1881, which was adopted:

Discussions—1. Church Discipline. Primary, Rev. Abram J. Quick; Substitute, Rev. Frank D. Sargent.

2. Infant Baptism. Primary, Rev. Frederick Alvord; Substitute, Rev. Quincy Blakely.

3. Sunday School Literature. Primary, Rev. Frederic T. Perkins; Substitute, Rev. Alfred E. Tracy.

Essay—The Ecclesiastical standing of the Stated Supply. Primary, Rev. George I. Bard; Substitute, Rev. John W. Lees.

Voted, That the thanks of this Association be hereby expressed to this church and its pastor for the great kindness so bountifully shown, to the U. S. and Canada express and to railroad companies, for their special courtesies, and to the people of Portsmouth for their kind liberality.

The minutes of the session were read and approved.

Voted, To adjourn sine die at the close of the communion service this afternoon.

Adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. The Sermon before the Sacrament was preached by Rev. E. G. Selden. Text, Ephesians ii: 20—"And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone."

Rev. Isaac C. White and Rev. John O. Barrows officiated at the Communion Table.

Adjourned.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

ı looking over the reports from our churches, that have come in the year ending the thirty-first of May, I find the view a dif-nt one from any I have ever seen. More report "no revival rest," and no additions to the churches, than I have ever wn. In itself it is a very discouraging report. One might empted to say that this must have resulted from remissness on part of the ministry or churches; that, if there had been faith-pastors and praying churches, there would have been conver-s. But I presume these same pastors have labored just as l and Christians have prayed just as fervently as in other years, n there have been large ingatherings. The lack cannot be ', altogether. The methods of the Spirit, which bloweth where steth, must be better understood before we can pronounce with rtainty as to the cause of this state of things.

otwithstanding the general lack of ingathering, there is hardly sound of discouragement in all the state. Other work, of ost equal importance, has been accomplished, work that shall ollowed with a harvest, by and by. It is, of course, the first g to bring a person into the kingdom, but when he is in he must trained for the Master's work. The man who enlists in the y, at first is hardly more than a soldier in name; he must be ed and disciplined before he is fit to fight his country's battles. uspect that though, in numbers, our churches have not in-ased very much, nevertheless they are stronger and in better lition to battle for the Lord, when he shall sound an advance. otwithstanding what has been said, we have not been left without ns of the Spirit's presence and power. There have been no sweeping revivals, as in some years, but several churches report a quiet work of grace in which Christians have been quickened and more or less souls born again. The most remarkable instance was in Merrimack. There were few extra meetings held, no evangelist employed, no outside help save from a few neighboring pastors, and yet the church was greatly blessed and forty souls, it is hoped, were born again. The Spirit came, literally, as a still small voice, whose sound was scarcely heard. From the churches in Hampstead and Hopkinton almost the same report comes as in several years previous, a report of continued interest and activity in the church and of souls saved. How is it, brethren, that these two churches seem always to be in a revived condition? Have they or their pastors any secret unknown to the rest of us by which they retain the working power of the Holy Ghost? Pastor Stone says: "We now expect the annual visit of the Spirit as we do the former and latter rain." He numbers about twenty-five among the converted. Pastor Watson says: "We cannot avoid a sameness in our reports as long as God continues to bless us in the same way year after year." Would that all of us might be placed in a similar dilemma. The church in Marlboro', too, has had its almost annual refreshing. A revival this last year began in the Sabbath school, and was so extensive as to include "nearly all in the congregation who had not previously thought themselves Christians." Pastor Bard of Meredith Village says: "During the winter, and as a result of the temperance reform, we experienced a large increase in attendance on the prayer-meetings; several hopeful conversions of marked interest occurred, including some quite advanced in years. Convictions were, in some instances, quite deep and relief decided." The new pastor at Troy has been cheered by a revival in which there were twenty or thirty conversions. The work began with the labors of Messrs. Folger and Jackson, and the converts were mostly from the Sabbath school. Several pastors, as usual, refer to the aid received by the above gentlemen in their canvass of the State. Among them we may mention the churches at Orfordville, where, "a number of the young people were led to Christ;" at Piermont, where, as fruits of the work, thirteen have been added to the church; at Keene, 1st church, where, after these labors and the Week of Prayer, "there was more interest than for several years;" at Ossipee Center, where "many young men who had wandered were reclaimed."

From the churches in Alstead, 2d, Amherst, Antrim, Atkinson, Greenville, Hancock, Hudson, Lancaster, Lebanon, Meriden, Milton, North Hampton, Rye, Salisbury, Tamworth, Webster and Windham, there is substantially the same report: viz., "No revival but the church greatly quickened, and some conversions." The pastors of some of these churches write in an exceedingly hopeful strain, betokening even better things for the future. Pastor Street of Exeter says: "We have had no revival, but a gracious quickening, particularly in connection with the study of the Sabbath school lessons, under the superintendance of one of the teachers in the academy." Over sixty of the students attend this church, and all are in the Sabbath school. At Canterbury, Deerfield, Haverhill and Sullivan there was considerable increase of religious interest after the Week of Prayer, and at the latter place the converts range from ten to sixty years of age. At Haverhill twelve united with the church in May, and others were expected to follow. At Orford a very deep interest in foreign missions, extending to the children, has been developed. This is a most hopeful sign for the future of this church.

The little band in Effingham that has had no regular minister for thirty years, and for a long time has been at the point of death, has engaged Rev. Mr. Fawcett as acting pastor, who is strengthening the things that remain, so that the outlook is most hopeful. We have a good many of these weak churches, so much reduced that the inquiry is sometimes raised why report them longer. But we have seen in the case of the church just named, and of others that might be mentioned, that the Lord is able to raise them to life and activity. The stronger churches, for their own safety, need to aid in sustaining them. To suffer them to die is to stop the fountains that feed them with some of their best life. A thoroughly devoted minister, possessing a good knowledge of human nature, could probably obtain a fair support in very many of these places. Lempster is an example in point, though the church had not become as small as some. "The whole town now unite in the support of the minister," and the prospects for the future are very encouraging.

At Boscawen, Salisbury and Webster the labors of Rev. Mr. Garretson, now supplying the former church, were followed by increased spirituality and by a number of conversions. At Goshen, New Boston and New Ipswich there has been more than usual interest, resulting in several conversions in each place. At Goshen nine have been added to the church by confession; at New Boston seven; at New Ipswich twelve.

But, while looking upon the bright side of the picture, we ought not to ignore the fact that there is also a dark side. From many towns comes the report of decreased attendance upon public worship and an increased desecration of the Lord's day. If the only neglecters of the sanctuary, were those who professed no interest in religion the case would not be as bad; but when among these absentees many church members are numbered, it is peculiarly sad. "Poor souls," says one of our pastors, "satisfied with going to a funeral once in awhile, and imagining that such dismal and fitful service will satisfy their Master.

The effect of the Word, whether declared from the pulpit or made known in the Sabbath school depends largely upon the height of the spiritual thermometer. The attendance on, and interest in, these services advances with equal steps. If the Holy Spirit is present, the congregations are large and, the Sabbath school is flourishing. On the other hand, if there is a lack of spirituality, these services are thinly attended. When, therefore, the majority of the reports speak of a lack of religious interest, we may expect to hear, as we do, of a falling off in attendance upon the services of the sanctuary. But with these disheartening statements, there come other reports bringing great cheer. No less than eighteen churches speak of the large increase of their Sabbath schools. Pastor Butler of Lyme has established a Normal Class, which is proving a great help. Acting pastor Beckwith of Harrisville says: "Many are now in the Sabbath school who never attended before." He regards this as the most hopeful department of his work. At Merrimack, Mr. Norris, the acting pastor, has a class of upwards of fifty men, called "the horse shed class." This must give him great joy, as I fancy it would any of our pastors. At Candia, Peterboro' and Tamworth it is reported that nearly the entire congregation are in the Bible school, while in Alstead, 1st, eightninths attend; in Roxbury, five-sixths; in Winchester, ten-elevenths; and in Windham, seven-eights. This is certainly an advance in this direction beyond anything we have ever before heard. God seems to employ, at times, special agencies for arousing his people, and carrying forward his work. If I am not mistaken the social study of his Word is to be one of the prominent agencies in the near future. The new version, a part of which we are soon to receive, will. no doubt, have a tendency to stimulate its study.

With regard to the effect of the preached word during the year, one pastor speaks of a man who became so sorely vexed that he remained away from the sanctuary for a few Sabbaths, but the Spirit met him in his home, and soon he was with God's people, asking their prayers. Pastor Runnels of Sanbornton speaks of a larger average attendance than for a long time, and of still, attentive and devout hearers. The pastor of one of our churches preaches every Sabbath afternoon at the Oil Mill Village in Weare. He began last autumn with an audience of less than forty, which has steadily increased until it now numbers, sometimes, more than eighty. A Sabbath school has been started, numbering about sixty, and sustained entirely by the people themselves. Nine-tenths of this congregation, until this movement was inaugurated, were not in the habit of attending any religious service.

The prayer-meeting is sometimes rightly termed the spiritual thermometer of the church. This being the case it is not surprising that some should tell of thinly attended meetings, almost no brethren present. While many refer, with evident joy, to assistance that has come to them from outside, one pastor says his prayer-meetings have been almost killed by the reaction following such labors. One of our churches, having no minister, is reported by a sister who is the clerk. She says she knows of "no special hinderance to religious work here (there), save the difficulty of getting oftener together and the general want of confidence in any religious movement that exists in the minds of the more thoughtful and sober minded of our people, arising from revival efforts made here in the past, which appealed to the emotions rather than the judgment, making profession take the place of living principle. Any results for good have, of course, been fleeting as the bow in the cloud, and the evil, who can tell? The ground has been burned over so many times by this class, that it sometimes seems almost impossible to kindle another fire on the walls of our Zion, and we have been led to add to the litany, 'From all such helpers, good Lord, deliver us.'"

But while this is the state of things in some of our churches, it is not true of all. The little church at North Groton has had no minister, but the prayer-meetings have been kept up with an average attendance of thirty—nearly four times the number of its resident members. The church in Roxbury keeps the fire burning on its prayer-meeting altars, though it has no preaching except during the summer. Pastor Dutton of Lebanon says his prayer-meetings are more largely attended than for many years, though many of his helpers have left town. So in Jaffrey there is more than an average attendance, though not so much of spirituality as is desired. These churches have much to be grateful for in the larger number that come to the place of prayer. It betokens that helpers are to be raised up, and the spirituality quickened. "Many new faces are seen in the place of prayer" at Pelham; at Exeter, 2d, the meetings are characterized by the presence of men, and men of education and thought. At Hinsdale the book of Acts is made a study at the social meetings, and the monthly concert is called the best meeting they have. At Hancock a ladies' prayer-meeting has been revived which cheers the heart of the new pastor.

At Boscawen nearly as many attend the Sabbath evening prayer-meeting as the preaching service in the morning. At Hopkinton, in an out-district, there is an average weekly attendance of sixty. At Mont Vernon, the Young Men's Christian Association keeps up a weekly meeting in the village, besides two in districts outside the village. At Sanbornton the four neighborhood meetings are still kept up, in one of which there has hardly been an omission of two meetings for five years, and the school-house is usually full. The brethren who sustain these meetings never think of shirking their responsibility. At the time the chapel was erected in Meredith Village many thought it too large, but the prayer-meetings have outgrown it. This is the quaint report from another church—made by a lady: "The men, being out of Christ, do not see the need of prayer-meetings; they claim to own the horses, and, as the population is scattered, and all the women cannot drive, the prayer-meetings are not what they would be otherwise." I suspect that if the truth were known many of our prayer-meetings would die were it not for the sisters. Upon the men in the church and out of the church, the injunction of the apostle should be urged—"Help those women."

If we are to rely upon the reports from the churches, there has been a sad falling off in benevolence,—it being upwards of twenty thousand dollars less than last year. This has a bad look, or would have if it were a fact. But I believe the deficit is more apparent than real. Not a few answer the question in regard to their contributions, "Don't know," or fail to fill the blanks at all. Others, to my certain knowledge, fail to give their churches all the credit due them. I am of the opinion that very nearly as much has been given during the last year as in the average of previous years. Sixteen churches follow the plan of making weekly offerings, and like it, and in some cases it has resulted in a large increase. One has abandoned the plan. The success of the Cent Institution and the Woman's Board of Missions show the value of system. I am convinced that if some system—it matters not much what it is—were introduced into all our churches we could raise one hundred thousand dollars a year for charitable objects outside our own parishes. Doubtless some of us, brethren, are too timid in urging the claims of Christ's kingdom upon our hearers. It might be that a greater boldness would largely increase the revenues of our benevolent societies, and indirectly result in a more liberal support for ourselves. There can be no more dangerous policy pursued than that reported from one of our churches: viz., "We feel that it is all we can do to support the institutions of the Gospel at home." The pastor who encourages his people in such a sentiment as this may be expected to have to resign for the want of support.

Not so much has been done in the cause of temperance during the year as in previous years, yet there is manifest progress. Not many drunkards may have reformed, but the people are being toned up, and the children are being trained to look upon strong drink with disfavor. It is very pleasant to see hard drinkers and moderate drinkers signing the pledge; but it is much more hopeful to have the coming generation possessed of right principles, and wanting the appetite for alcohol. Several churches report that no strong drink is sold in town, while one pastor says, "No interest in the temperance cause, because there is no intemperance to awaken it." Quite a number of towns have adopted the cider and beer clause of the law, notably South Seabrook, whose former position in respect to this subject is known to most of us. The opposition called a meeting to rescind the vote of the previous meeting, but the temperance vote was twice as large the second time as the first. Temperance revivals are reported from Chichester, commenced by John W. Drew; from Keene, Lisbon, Marlboro', where it was carried forward in connection with the religious revival; from Newport, where the work was mainly done through the instrumentality of the churches; from Pittsfield, beginning a year ago, and where one thousand have signed the pledge; and from Wolfeboro'. Pastor Spalding of Dover says, "the cause was never more encouraging than now," and this is saying a good deal. Large public meetings in the interest of the cause are held at Rochester every Sabbath afternoon.

The report from Meredith Village is so interesting that it is reproduced in full: "After almost a year and a half of constant work and a pledge roll of about two thousand names the effort still goes on. No open selling is tolerated or even attempted. We have relied on persuasion, but have, in a few instances, secured convictions and sentences for violation of the law. The principal workers have carried the compaign into the surrounding towns with marked results. Nothing but a deep infusion of the Gospel could have insured the sucess. We endure no tramps; if they come they must take a modest place with the people of our own vicinity. Nothing has ever been attended with so much success as this style of Gospel work by the believers in the Gospel who live and work and pray. We have a preparatory prayer-meeting before every temperance meeting at which the staid elders in the church invoke God's blessing on "the meeting in the hall."

Cider drinking is named by several as a great obstacle, and from one comes this ominous warning; "A former deacon of our church advocated and practiced cider drinking. The result is terrible times among his boys, now grown to manhood."

Not much that is new in the way of obstacles or discouragements is mentioned. The world, the flesh and the devil are still making a vigorous fight, which is to be expected. Not many are so favorably situated as one who reports "no hinderances to religious work; the way is open for personal work in all our homes, whether church goers or not." Emigration is taking from some of our country churches some of the most efficient helpers; it is no wonder the pastors feel the loss. This is the rather remarkable statement of one: "Our church numbers over two hundred members, but there are only two or three to take part in the prayer-meetings." The only new hinderance that is mentioned is that arising from the establishment, in so many of our towns, of other organizations, mostly secret, which somehow secure all the time, attention, and, in some cases, pecuniary contributions, that some of our church members are able to afford. The evil is very serious in some places, and it is a question of no small importance how it can be best met. One pastor states the trouble thus: "The social is placed before the devotional; oyster suppers and parties are prefered to prayer-meetings."

There seems to have been an unusual number of deaths of aged and valued Christians. Among them are Dea. T. S. Robinson of Brentwood, for forty years one the deacons of that church; Dea. N. W. Goddard of Claremont, whose name has more than a local reputation; Jason Miller, the colored sexton, for almost fifty-five y ars, of the church in Goffstown, who was as remarkable for his piety and faithfulness as for his long period of service; Judge Alvah Smith of Lempster; David Wilkinson of Marlboro', who had regularly attended the prayer-meeting for sixty years; Benj. Davis of New Ipswich, ninety seven years of age; Capt. John B. Perkins, Sanbornton, ninety-six years of age, a consistent Christian and church member for thirty-six years. "These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth."

Several mention special causes of thanksgiving; the South Church in Concord that its outside, "Myrtle Mission," Sabbath school, which attained its majority a year ago, is to have a chapel this year; Pastor Bittenger of Haverhill, that their academy has been revived, and has an earnest Christian at its head; the church in Hinsdale in its choir of thirty or forty members; the church in Jaffrey in the establishment of a juvenile missionary society, which is doing much to develope benevolence in the children; Pastor Berry of Pelham, that though his is an agricultural community, the audience is as large and the church larger than at the begining of his pastorate, nineteen years ago; the church in Peterboro', that it has been permitted to celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the settlement of Pastor Dustan; South Seabrook, that it has, according to the report of the report of the committee, the best school in town; Pastor Allen of Walpole, that, several valuable members having moved away, those who remain have been stirred to greater activity; and another pastor that he has in his daughter, eleven years of age, his most efficient helper.

A few items of interest drawn from the statistical tables will complete my report. I find that we have in the State nineteen pastors who have been in office for ten years or over. Of these, the oldest in office is Rev. Edward Buxton of Webster, forty-three years pastor; Rev. Edward Robie of Greenland is the next, twenty-eight years in office; Rev. George Dustan, almost twenty-one years; then comes Rev. Messrs. Berry of Pelham, Leeds of Hanover, and Marden of Piermont, each nineteen years; Rev. Mr. Blakely at Campton, sixteen years; Rev. George Merriam at Greenville, fifteen years; Rev. Messrs. Ayer of Concord and Harmon of Winchester, thirteen years; Rev. M. T. Runnels of Sanbornton, twelve years. The other veterans are Rev. Messrs. Alvord of Nashua, Cochrane of Antrim, Gerould of Goffstown, Haines of North Hampton, Leach of Keene, Peabody of Stratham and Dr. Spalding of Dover. In these days of frequent changes these long pastorates are a very pleasant oasis in the dreary waste.

The number of ministeral changes during the year have been exceptionally large. The vacant churches remain about the same in number. No pastor has died and only one acting pastor—Rev. L. S. Coan of Alton. Three not in the exercise of the ministry at the present time, who have at one time filled the office in this State, have passed away.

The National Council has recommended that once in five years, in addition to the usual statistics, the value of church and society property, the amount of invested funds and salaries be reported.

Several churches have failed to make this report, but from those which have, I find that the aggregate of invested funds (not including parsonages), the income of which is used for the support of the ministry, amounts to $223,305. In some cases this must be a real benefit to a place; in others it is, at least, of doubtful advantage.

What God has in store for us in the year to come, we cannot foresee, and it matters little, if we are only faithful. Our part is to sow beside all waters, leaving it for the Lord of the harvest to cause it to spring up and bring forth furit. If he shall give us an abundant harvest, we will gladly reap it. If he withholds it for the present we will try to labor on in patience, hoping that in due season we shall reap if we faint not.

SAMUEL L. GEROULD.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

It is not often that an organization so small, and doing its work so quietly as this, is called to chronicle in one year the loss of two such men as have been removed from us by death, since we submitted our last annual report. On the 13th of December, 1879, Asa McFarland, Esq., of Concord, fell asleep in Jesus, as we confidently believe; and on the 31st of January, 1880, Shadrach Seavey, Esq., of Concord, followed his Christian friend and brother.

By the death of Asa McFarland the office of Secretary of this society became vacant.

Owing to the serious nature of Mr. Seavey's prolonged illness, he thought it best to resign the office of Treasurer of the Fund; and accordingly he did so, Dec. 26th, 1879.

On the morning of Dec. 29th, a special meeting of the Trustees of the Fund was called at the house of the late Treasurer, to choose a Trustee to fill the vacancy made by the death of Asa McFarland; to choose a Secretary, and to act upon the resignation of Mr. Seavey.

The meeting was called to order by the President, Rev. W. R. Jewett, and prayer was offered by the Rev. F. D. Ayer.

John C. Thorn of Concord was chosen Trustee by the unanimous vote of the members of the Board who were present; and he was subsequently elected Treasurer of the Fund, after the resignation of Mr. Seavey had been accepted.

Rev. F. D. Ayer presented the following resolution which was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, That we express our sympathy to Shadrach Seavey, Esq., in his sickness, and our regret in accepting his resignation as Treasurer of this Fund.

Resolved, That we record our appreciation of the promptness, accurracy, and fidelity, with which he has performed all the duties of his office for more than eighteen years, and express to him our thanks for the same.

In order to insure still greater security to the funds, it was thought best that a Finance Committee should be chosen, consisting of three members. Choice was made of Hon. J. E. Sargent, Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.

The annual meeting of the Trustees of the Fund was held at the house of the Rev. W. R. Jewett, of Concord, Wednesday, June 2, 1880.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. F. D. Ayer.

The Treasurer's Report was read, accepted, adopted, and ordered to be placed on file.

Upon motion, the Trustees proceeded to elect a member of the Board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Shadrich Seavey, Esq. Rufus P. Staniels of Concord was chosen by a unanimous vote. The Trustees then elected, by ballot, officers for the ensuing year as follows:

President—Rev. W. R. Jewett.

Secretary—Rev. C. E. Harrington.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fisk.

At the meeting of the Prudential Committee, consisting of the President, Secretary and Treasurer, held immediately after that of the Trustees, it was voted to continue the appropriations of last year to such persons as were still living, and to add another to the list who had made application for help. Subsequently another, a widow of one who had labored faithfully and successfully in the State, applied for aid and it was granted. There are now two clergymen and eight widows of clergymen who are receiving aid from the Fund.

Two clergymen who have been helped have died during the year, and the question of continuing aid to the widow of one of these is under consideration. Our appropriations are necessarily small—amounting in only one case to eighty dollars.

It would seem as if no object could come nearer to our hearts than that of providing for those who have labored long and faithfully to save souls, upon salaries which made it impossible to lay by anything for old age or impaired health. And yet the fact remains that comparatively few of our churches and societies contribute annually to this Fund.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 9, 1880.

This certifies that I have carefully examined the account of Rev. Samuel L. Gerould, as Treasurer of the General Association, for the year ending Aug. 9, 1880, and find the same correctly cast and supported by proper vouchers, and shows a balance of $402.82 remaining in the treasury.

THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This Society shall be styled the NEW-HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this Society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New-Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen of the members of the Society resident in the State, a President, three Vice-Presidents, a Secretary, Treasurer, Auditor, and nine Trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot, and the President, Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer shall be Trustees, ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the President, and, in his absence, one of the Vice-Presidents, and in the absence of the Vice-Presidents, the oldest man of the Trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the Society and the Trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to conduct the correspondence of the Society and of the Trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the Society and of the Trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the Treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the Trustees, and to make an annual report to the Society of the proceedings of the Trustees, and of their Executive Committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the Treasurer to receive and hold the property of the Society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the Society, when directed by the Trustees or their Executive Committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury, and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the Society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the Trustees or their Committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the Trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the Executive Committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the Society, and to make, through the Secretary, an annual report of their doings to the Society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the Society they shall appoint an Executive Committee of their number, consisting of five, including the Secretary This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the Trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the Society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meetings of the Trustees.

ART. 8. The Society shall meet annually, on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock, A.M., or at such time and at such place as the Society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The Society shall meet annually for business, at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises, appointed and duly notified by the Executive Committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this Society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the Society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the State shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the Society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this State, and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this Society, to invite the attention of his hearers, at least once a year, to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its Treasurer, or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the Society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the Trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church, soliciting aid of the NEW-HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY, should make application to the Trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local Conference committee, or, where no such committee exists, by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church?

2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence and the length of time for which aid is asked?

3. The number of resident members, male and female?

4. The number of families represented in the congregation?

5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath?

6. The number, within the limits of the parish, who do not attend any public worship?

7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church?

8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation but not of the church?

9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church?

10. The amount so subscribed by persons not members of the church?

11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions?

12. Has the church a parsonage and is it included in the above statement, and if so at what rental?

13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?

14. Is the church and society in debt, and if so to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The Trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel, as held and practiced by the Orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry, for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the Treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such references as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of ratable property, that is $12.50 on $1000. The Trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this, where circumstances shall seem to demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the Trustees or the Executive Committee.

The Trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added, as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the Secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only, who report quarterly, shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the Treasury. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August, shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report, definite answers to the following questions are required: namely,

1. Your full name?

2 Name of the church or churches, and of all stations regularly supplied by you?

3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation?

4. Average congregation in each?

5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?

6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above, and to what amount?

7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?

8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.

9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident?

10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter?

11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion?

12. Whole number in Sabbath school?

13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society? To other benevolent objects?

14. Number of Sabbath schools sustained and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendence and results?

15. General remarks, including such topics as, special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the Trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries, and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors, and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the Treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New-Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the State is sent to the Treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The Trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society, or, if preferred, of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive the Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the Treasury to be drawn by the Secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the Trustees is to be at Concord, Tuesday before the first Wednesday in June.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report, strictly according to the rules of the Society. A single delay embarrasses the preparation of the Secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries within or without the State, will confer a favor by sending to the Secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors, whose church contributes annually to the funds of the society, all life members, whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually, to either, are entitled to the Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it. But, as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residence, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it, and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to the Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the Secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the Secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where, for any reason, copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW-HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said Society, and for which the receipt of the Treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the Society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The seventy-ninth Annual Meeting of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society was holden in the Congregational Church in Portsmouth, on Wednesday, Sept. 15, 1880; the President, Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D.D., in the chair.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. F. T. Perkins.

The Annual Report of the Trustees was read by the Secretary, and, in the absence of the Treasurer, his report was read by Rev. C. E. Harrington. These reports were accepted and ordered to be printed.

Addresses were made by the President, by Rev. E. K. Alden, D.D., Secretary of the A. B. C. F. M., by Rev. W. V. W. Davis, and by Rev. A. H. Quint, D.D.

A committee of nominations, appointed by the chair, consisting of Rev. F. Haley, Rev. S. L. Gerould, and Rev. I. C. White, reported the following list of officers for the year ensuing, and they were duly elected: viz.,

Rev. S. C. BARTLETT, D.D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; JOHN BRACEWELL, Esq., Dover; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth, Vice-Presidents.

Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. L. D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, and GEORGE E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

Rev. F. D. AYER, Concord; Rev. QUINCY BLAKELY, Campton, and Hon. I. W. SMITH, Manchester, Trustees for three years.

Rev. C. E. HARRINGTON, Concord, Trustee for one year, in place of Rev. W. R. JEWETT, resigned.

Adjourned to meet for the next Annual Meeting, in connection with the meeting of the General Association, at Manchester, in September, 1881.

TRUSTEES.

The Trustees of the Society are the following: viz., the President, Vice-Presidents, Secretary and Treasurer, ex-officiis.

Rev. E. H. Greeley, Concord.

THE SEVENTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully present the following as their seventy-ninth annual report, being for the year ending August 1, 1880.

THE TREASURY.

There remained in the treasury from last year, $3,482.43. The receipts during the year were—from donations from churches and individuals, $3,841.77; from the Cent Society, $2,210.37; from legacies, $3,463.03; from income of Permanent Fund and from miscellaneous sources, $4,049.07; total, $12,254.66. There were sent from the State directly to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society from donations, $669.31, and from legacies, $7,949.65—making the total amount contributed for home missions in the State, $20,873.52—larger than in any preceding year, with one exception.

The receipts were from donations, $1,440.48, and from the Cent Society, $141.59 less than last year, while from legacies they were $5,202.78, and from permanent fund, $194.90 larger than last year. The total receipts were $3,529.08 larger than last year.

The whole amount disbursed within the State was $9,226.37. By the direction of donors, $359.34 were sent to the treasury at New York, together with a special appropriation of $1,500. There remained in the treasury at the close of the year, $4,010.72.

THE WORK DONE AND ITS RESULTS.

Under the direction of the society, sixty-five missionaries labored in sixty-seven fields, sixty churches, and seven stations with no organized church, performing forty-four years of missionary labor. They preached to congregations averaging, as reported, seventy-nine each, sustaining Sunday schools having an average enrolled membership of sixty-three each, both congregations and Sunday schools averaging somewhat larger than last year. The churches as far as reported show an average membership of forty-four each. They report a gain of fifty by profession, and fifty by letter, and a loss of thirty-seven by dismission, forty-seven by death and one by exclusion, making a net gain of fifteen. The number of fields occupied was thirteen greater than last year, the number of missionaries employed was sixteen more, and the number of years of missionary labor performed, seven greater than last year. The cost to the society of a year of missionary labor averaged $179—eleven dollars more than last year. The average salary of the missionaries, including parsonage at a fair rental, is $600.

The aided churches contributed, as far as reported, to home missions, $313.58, and to other objects of benevolence, $626.89, very nearly the same as last year.

THINGS NOTEWORTHY.

The remarkable expansion of the work within the State will, as it should, at once arrest attention, and call up questions which should be very carefully weighed in their relation to the future work of the society. There has been in a single year an increase of twenty per cent. in the number of churches aided, of twenty-six per cent. in the number of fields occupied, of thirty per cent. in the number of missionaries employed, and of eighteen per cent. in the aggregate amount of missionary labor performed. This expansion has been mainly due to a spontaneous movement of churches and communities. At our last annual meeting the question whether providential indications were pointing to an enlargement of our State work was very earnestly discussed, developing, what appeared to be, a strong and unanimous feeling in the affirmative. In carrying out the will of the society, as thus indicated, something was done in the way of exploring new fields. Little, however, seemed to be required in this direction. The demand for enlargement came spontaneously, quite as rapidly as it could be provided for. The movement, however, was not as new and sudden as it might seem. A large part of this demand would have come in previous years if our treasury had been in a condition to meet it. It was the report that now, at length, we had the means to help, which gave courage to make known a want which had long been felt. The need of aid on the part of churches and of towns where now the gospel is not statedly preached has been steadily increasing in recent years. And this demand is likely still to increase. There are at least twelve of our churches not aided last year that must have aid or die.

But this is not all. The recent census reveals the fact that while the population of the State, as a whole, appears to have increased nine per cent. in the last ten years, showing that, as a State, it is losing none of its present or prospective importance, that increase has been almost wholly in the larger towns. In 1870, forty per cent. of the population of the State was in towns of more than 3,000 inhabitants, now fifty per cent. is found to be in such towns. Of 167 towns in which there are churches of our order, eighty-eight have a less population than ten years ago. And this fact is one of profound significance. It means the draining of the life blood of the churches of those towns into our larger towns, and into the great all-devouring West. It means the going out of the very choicest that these churches have reared, to put their young strength and enthusiasm into churches elsewhere. It means the giving, often in sadness and despondency, on the part of these churches, of gifts whese value to them, and to those also, to whom they are given, is not to be measured by money.

What then of those who remain around these old altars, once so bright, sacred with the memory of scenes over which the angels of God have tuned their harps to more exulting strains, but around which the shadows are thus gathering? What though the number so drained and weakened is increasing? Shall they be left to die? Can the churches of our towns, grown strong at their expense, afford it? Can the West, to which the immigration from these churches has been as rills from the fountain of life, afford it? Can the world afford it? For there is no land where aggressive work for Christ is done where these churches are not represented, no work for Christ and human redemption into which their prayers and alms, and some, at least, of the choicest of their children have not gone. They have not been laggards and deserters from the advancing host that they should be left to die in cold neglect. In the least hopeful view of the case, can we, in fidelity to the trusts clearly committed to us, let these churches die? But there are not wanting indications that this decrease of population is reaching its limit, in many cases, at least. There is an equilibrium which must be maintained between town and country or the towns themselves must decay. If our manufacturing interests are to prosper in the coming years as present signs indicate, the present population of our country towns must for the most part be maintained, and in many cases increased. And it is not to be forgotten that around all our churches, with hardly an exception, there is still a population ample to sustain the church and crowd its sanctuary if they could be interested.

If the constituency of our society decide that the growing burden of sustaining these churches among our hills is becoming too heavy to be borne, or that they are not worth sustaining at such cost, then they must, one after another, be given up. But let the inevitable results of giving them up, of drying up the sources of supply whence our larger churches have so long been nourished, and must still be, if they too are not to be given up to decay, the sources of supply whence such influences have gone out over the West, and into every open door of Christian effort throughout the world, let these inevitable results be first very carefully weighed in the light of our responsibility to Christ.

The question whether our State work shall continue to be vigorously prosecuted assumes a practical importance, greater than might at first seem, if we analyze the receipts of the year. These appear, at first view, eminently satisfactory, being larger than in any preceding year, with only one exception. But it diminishes our satisfaction, and even awakens some solicitude, to find that the increase is all, and more than all, in legacies, a most uncertain source of supply, and one upon which we can never safely depend. It is not pleasant or assuring to find that there has been a falling off in donations, of $1,440 as compared with the preceding year, especially to find that as compared with six years ago, there has been a falling off of more than one half from this source, a falling off of a sum larger than the entire income from our permanent funds. Still more ominous is it, in some respects, to find that the Cent Society shows signs of beginning to falter in this work. If our women fail in their interest in our feeble churches, the day of their doom is not distant. If our legacies for the last two years had not been much larger than usual, and much larger than we have reason to expect them to continue to be, we should not only have been unable to send money, as we have done, to the treasury at New York, but we should have been compelled to contract, instead of enlarging, our State work, notwithstanding the income from the Whitehouse fund.

No doubt this falling off has been due, very largely at least, to an impression that we have funds sufficient for our State work without calling upon the churches for so much as in other years. It may be presumed, that should the exigency again arise, as it seems not unlikely to do, they would go back to their former standard of giving to this cause. But why should they be satisfied with merely meeting the demands of the State work? We have been enabled to do that work with tolerable efficiency for the last two years, and yet send a considerable sum—would that it had been larger—to the treasury at New York for the Western work. Other thousands, all that could be spared, would have been sent, if our churches had contributed with even their former liberality. Why did they not hail the opportunity to do a more effective service in a work whose greatness, whose difficulty, whose urgency, the grandeur of whose issues touching every interest of the church and of humanity in this land, and in all lands, becoming more apparent with every rising sun, are increasing with a rapidity which would be appalling were it not for our faith in the providence and the promises of Almighty God? Have they not failed to watch the moving forward of the pillar of cloud and of fire? Have they not failed to discern this time?

The close of another decade in our history invites to review and comparison with the past. The report of 1870, ten years ago, is of forty-two churches and congregations aided, forty-six different missionaries employed, thirty-eight and one third years of missionary service performed, and of receipts amounting to $9,598.92, the receipts considerably less, however, than for several preceding and succeeding years. The report for that year, of church membership, of additions and removals, of average congregations and Sunday schools and of contributions to benevolent objects is too imperfect to admit of a comparison which would be of much value. The average membership of the aided churches would seem to have been somewhat less than now, the congregations and Sunday schools somewhat larger. The additions, removals and benevolent contributions appear to have been much the same as last year. The donations from churches and individuals and the income from the Cent Society were larger than last year. The most noteworthy difference is in the expansion of the work, twenty-five more churches and congregations aided, nineteen more missionaries employed, and six more years of missionary labor performed now than then.

The gradual increase in the amount contributed to home missions from one decade to another is of interest as showing how strong is the hold which this cause has upon the sympathy of our churches. For the ten years ending in 1840, the whole amount contributed for this cause in the State was $50,958. For the ten years ending in 1850, it was $66,403, a gain of 32 per cent.; for the ten years ending in 1860, $81,622, a gain of 23 per cent.; for the ten years ending in 1870, $116,557, a gain of 40 per cent.; and for the ten years ending in 1880, $149,474, a gain of 29 per cent. In addition to this the McQuesten and Whitehouse funds, amounting to $170,000 or more, the income of which is to be devoted to home missionary purposes, has been given in the last ten years. Of the $116,557 contributed in the decade ending in 1870, $47,468 —40½ per cent. went into the treasury at New York for the Western work, and of the $149,474 contributed in the last decade, $62,904—42 per cent. went to New York.

It is matter for grateful joy that our churches, so many of them struggling with weakness and manifold discouragements, have been enabled to do so much for the great national work, especially when we bear in mind that they have all the while been giving, with a lavish hand, gifts far more precious and costly, and, in every point of view, of far higher value. But, after all, can we rest satisfied without doing more, far more, in the coming years, for this cause? It is one, if any aggressive Christian work does, or can do so, to stir every heart that is loyal to Christ, to an enthusiasm of self-denial in carrying it forward to a complete triumph. No cause does present, or ever has presented, it is hardly too much to say, none can present, stronger claims to sympathy and support, than this makes upon the Christians of America. We would not limit the power of the Almighty to raise up instruments of his will, even from the stones of the field, but, humanly speaking, the conversion of the world, in any period of the near future, depends upon the success of the effort to hold this land with all the power of influence which is concentrated in it, for Christ. And the question of success or failure in this struggle seems likely to be crowded into the next twenty-five years. Within that time the whole land will be occupied. Within that time the seeds of its destiny for good or for ill, will have been planted in all its borders, the forces which are to shape its future will have been everywhere set at work. In this struggle of these fateful years, it is ours to bear a part. We are sent here for such a time as this, if we are wise to discern our privilege and to feel our responsibility. Is it going to satisfy our sense, either of duty or of privilege, to do simply as we have done in the past? How easy in the coming year to double our contributions to this cause, and thus send a thrill of hope and joy through the ranks of those who are engaged in the hand to hand conflict with the mighty forces which are to be encountered and overcome if this is in very deed to become Immanuel's land.

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW-HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations, and those preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers and Conferences of Churches in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers, and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth college; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to coöperate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath of September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderater, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the times and places of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting, who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session, including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial standing with this General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its roll, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly, it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization, according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY A VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

10:30 A. M. Brief reports of delegates to foreign bodies, after which shall be a presentation of benevolent causes, only three of which, in addition to the state auxiliaries, shall be presented at any meeting. No cause shall be presented oftener than once in two years, and the order of rotation shall be: 1st year, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Congregational Publishing Society, Congregational Union; 2d year, American Missionary Association, Tract Society, Seaman's Friend Society.

2 P. M. Business of the Association.

2:30 P. M. Narrative of the state of religion, with additional statements respecting revivals, and other facts of interest.

4 P. M. Discussion of question relating to Sabbath-schools, or a children's meeting.

7 P. M. Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund.

7:30 P. M. Anniversary of the New Hampshire Missionary Society.

Thursday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Presentation of the religious condition of Dartmouth college.

10:30 A. M. Discussion of questions.

2 P. M. The Association will attend religious services, in which a sermon shall be delivered by a minister previously appointed, and our Lord's death commemorated in the Sacrament of the Supper.

All sessions shall be interspersed with devotional exercises, with a morning prayer-meeting each day, at such time as the Committee of Arrangements shall deem best.

MINUTES.

The General Association of New Hampshire met, for its seventy-second annual meeting, at Manchester, in the Franklin Street Congregational Church, Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 8 o'clock P. M.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. William A. McGinley, of Portsmouth. Text,—John 15:5, and Matt. 28:18-20,—"Without me ye can do nothing." "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

After the sermon, the Association was called to order, and the following persons were enrolled as members:

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

8 : 30 o'clock. Devotional meeting, led by Rev. Wm. Clark, D. D.

9 o'clock. Prayer by the moderator.

Rev. John W. Lees was chosen a member of the Committee of Nominations, to serve three years.

Rev. George Dustan, Rev. Frederic Alvord, and Rev. Albert B. Peabody were chosen Committee of Inquiry.

The report of the treasurer was read and accepted.

Voted, To assess at the rate of one and three fourths of a cent a member on the total membership of our churches for the expenses of the Association, including the sum called for by the National Council.

Voted, To print next year 1500 copies of the minutes.

Hon. Jonathan E. Sargent reported for the Committee on the Taxation of Churches. Report accepted, and committee discharged.

9 : 30 o'clock. Rev. Quincy Blakely read an essay on "Church Discipline."

10 : 30 o'clock. Singing.

Rev. Cyrus Richardson reported from Andover Theological Seminary.

Rev. Ephraim E. P. Abbott reported from the Methodist Conference.

Rev. Franklin D. Ayer reported from the Baptist Convention.

Rev. George W. Grover addressed the Association in behalf of the Sabbath-school work, presenting a request from the Sabbath-school Secretary for the appointment of a Sabbath-School Committee to coöperate with himself.

Voted, To appoint such committee.

Rev. William B. Brown, D. D., presented the claims of the American Congregational Union.

Rev. Edmund K. Alden, D. D., presented the claims of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Voted, That the essay and discussion assigned for this afternoon be postponed until to-morrow morning.

Singing. Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Quincy Blakely.

The committee to confer with other ecclesiastical bodies, and memorialize the legislature, to secure needful legislation on the subject of divorce, reported.

Voted, To accept the report, with the following resolutions recommended by the committee.

Resolved, That this Association repeats its testimony in favor of the Divine appointment and exceeding importance of the family relation, and against that very great evil, the frequency of divorce in our state, and that once more it earnestly requests the members of our churches to use their influence for such legislation as may be necessary to place our laws in this regard upon a right foundation.

Resolved, That this Association expresses its profound regret that our legislature, at its recent session, neglected the earnest appeal made to it on this subject from every part of the state, and by thousands of its citizens.

Resolved, That the secretary of this Association provide that these resolutions be suitably published, and also transmit a copy to each of the other ecclesiastical bodies in the state for similar action on their part, if they deem best.

The Committee upon Ministerial Standing reported that ministerial standing with this General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its roll, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor, or acting pastor, within the state, should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

Report accepted and adopted.

Voted, That Rev. Edward G. Selden be appointed a delegate to the Congregational Union of England and Wales.

Rev. W. V. Garner presented the greetings of the Baptist denomination.

2:30 o'clock. Singing.

Prayer by Rev. Sumner G. Wood.

The Narrative of the State of Religion was read by Rev. Samuel L. Gerould.

Rev. Willis D. Leland followed with a paper upon the same subject. After discussion, it was Resolved, That this Association has listened with painful interest to the Narrative of the State of Religion in the Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New Hampshire, revealing, as it does, a degree of depression which calls for prayerful inquiry and earnest efforts, with Divine help, to remove it.

Resolved, That this Association, which exists for the promoting of Christian fellowship and a pure and aggressive type of piety in our churches, and which is the highest ecclesiastical body of our order in the state, can do no better work at this annual meeting than to give this subject most thorough consideration.

Resolved, That we recommend the appointment of a committee of five, to be called a Committee on the Narrative of the State of Religion, which shall, as early as possible, report to the present session of this body such measures as in their judgment will best meet the case.

Revs. Frederic Alvord, Wm. V. W. Davis, John M. Dutton, Ephraim E. P. Abbott, and Franklin D. Ayer were appointed.

Committee on state religious newspaper reported; whereupon it was voted,—

WHEREAS, The plan proposed at our last meeting to sustain a New Hampshire Journal has been successfully inaugurated:

Resolved, That we desire as a body to express our satisfaction that Mr. Joseph Poland has honorably fulfilled his contract, and accepted even better terms than were first proposed.

Resolved, That we recognize the valuable service of Rev. G. B. Spalding, D. D., as editor during the past year, and we call upon all the ministry and friends of Congregationalism in the state to lighten his labors the coming year by a hearty coöperation in sustaining the paper.

Resolved, That we believe that this paper meets a special demand of our churches, that we desire to have it placed upon a permanent basis, and that we will interest ourselves personally to see that the subscription list is enlarged.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

7:30 o'clock. The Committee on Narrative of State of Religion reported:

In view of the depressed state of religion among us, a fact generally admitted and deeply felt, your committee respectfully recommend that the first Sabbath in October next be specially set apart by the Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New Hampshire for the purpose of taking into consideration our spiritual needs, that the ministers preach upon this subject, and that the preaching of the day be followed up in the prayer-meetings of the evening, to the end that we may secure such concert in thought and prayer as shall bring the interests of Christ's kingdom distinctly before the people.

We recommend the inauguration of a system of fellowship meetings within convenient limits for mutual conference and helpfulness, and that the great theme of the need of more spiritual power in our churches, which shall also be fruitful in the conversion of souls, be kept steadily in view.

And we suggest that the scribes of the various ministerial associations be the persons who shall take the responsibility of securing, if possible, such meetings within their respective limits.

We further suggest the importance of more distinctive and thorough pastoral work from house to house, and more especially that the conversion of the children and youth in our families and Sabbath-schools receive more attention from pastors and teachers.

Report accepted and adopted, and ordered to be printed for distribution.

Rev. Charles E. Harrington, secretary of the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund, made a report, which was followed by remarks from Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D., and Hon. Jonathan E. Sargent.

Voted, to take up collection for this cause at the sacrament to-morrow.

The Association then gave way to the anniversary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

THURSDAY MORNING.

8:30 o'clock. Prayer-meeting, led by Rev. Wm. A. Rand.

9 o'clock. Prayer by the moderator. Singing.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1882, which was adopted:

Discussions—1. Do the times demand more doctrinal preaching? Primary, Rev. Albert B. Peabody; substitute, Rev. James T. Jackson.

2. Is the Sabbath-school helping or hindering the religious family training of children? Primary, Rev. Albert Watson; substitute, Rev. Darius B. Scott.

3. Is the church losing its power over the public mind? Primary, Hon. John P. Newell; substitute, Bro. Ezra M. Smith.

Essay—Pastoral Visitation. Primary, Rev. Frank D. Sargent; substitute, Rev. Isaac C. White.

The Committee of Nominations made the following report for 1882, which was adopted:

Place of meeting and Committee of Arrangements to be announced by secretary.

Preacher before the Sacrament—Primary, Rev. Frederic T. Perkins; substitute, Rev. John W. Lees.

Delegate to Andover Theological Seminary—Primary, Rev. Albert B. Peabody; substitute, Rev. George I. Bard.

State Sunday-school Committee—Rev. George W. Grover, Rev. George B. Spalding, D. D., Hon. Jonathan E. Sargent.

A communication from the New England Sabbath-School Assembly at Framingham was read, which was referred to a committee consisting of Rev. Wm. V. W. Davis, Rev. Quincy Blakely, and Rev. John H. Hoffman.

Voted, That the secretary of the Association, in connection with the chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, shall hereafter take in charge the making of special terms with the railroads of the state for the accommodation of delegates.

The religious condition of Dartmouth College was presented by Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D.

10 o'clock. Rev. Albert E. Tracy read an essay on Sunday-school Literature.

10:30 o'clock. Singing.

Rev. Frederic Alvord read an essay on Infant Baptism.

11 o'clock. Singing.

Rev. George I. Bard read an essay on The Ecclesiastical Standing of the Stated Supply.

11:30 o'clock. Mr. C. L. Rhodes presented the greetings of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Rev. Lewis Malvern presented the greetings of the Free-Will Baptist Church.

Rev. A. E. Drew presented the greetings of the Methodist Conference.

Voted, That this Association gratefully appreciates the care and labor which have made provision for the gathering of our body, and hereby extends hearty thanks to our brother, Rev. William V. W. Davis, and others of the committee, for the arrangements made, to the people of Manchester who have so kindly received us to their homes and given us such generous hospitality, and to the various railroads for reduction of fare; also to the United States and Canada Express for favors in the distribution of the Minutes.

The committee, to whom was referred the communication from the New England Sabbath-School Assembly at Framingham, made report, which was adopted, as follows:

Resolved, As an Association, we rejoice in the appointment of Rev. Albert E. Dunning as Sabbath-school secretary, and bespeak for him a warm support, both moral and financial.

Resolved, We believe that the Congregational Publishing Society is worthy of the patronage of our denomination, and ought to receive it.

Resolved, We would emphasize the importance of the Sabbath-school work in all our churches, and heartily commend the work contemplated by our state Sabbath-school conventions, and by the county and town organizations.

Resolved, We learn, with hearty approval, that our theological seminaries are giving special attention to this department of Christian work.

The minutes of the session were read and approved.

Voted, To adjourn sine die at the close of the communion services this afternoon.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. The sermon before the Sacrament was preached by Rev. Joseph A. Leach. Text,—Eph. 1:7: "In whom we have redemption through His blood." Theme: "The Atonement."

Rev. Thomas V. Haines and Rev. Charles Tenney officiated at the communion table.

SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, Moderator.

GEORGE F. MERRIAM, Scribe.

HERVEY GULICK, Ass't Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

The ranks of our ministry have been lightly touched by the messenger of death during the year. Only five within the state, since our last meeting, have been called up higher, and only one of these,—the Rev. Charles Packard,—was exercising the office of minister at the time of decease. He was a good man, faithful in all his work, and we have no doubt he has heard the "Come, ye blessed of my father." Rev. Messrs. Liba Conant, Corban Curtice, Samuel Lee, and Caleb B Tracy, the other four, had served long and faithfully, and through infirmity, some years ago, had been obliged to give up active work. Now "they rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." I have recorded the deaths of eleven others, who had once been with us, but at the time of decease were laboring in other fields, or waiting the summons to their eternal home.

Eight pastors have been dismissed, nine have been ordained to the pastorate, one to the ministry, and two installed during the year; making a gain of two pastors—a gain in the right direction. Upwards of half our churches that are supplied, however, are supplied by acting pastors. Up to the time of writing this narrative, there had been twenty-two who had become acting pastors, and the same number had ceased to act. The names of those thus far mentioned will all be found in the usual place in the Minutes.

Two churches have been added to our list,—one in Andover Centre, the other in Manchester. The latter is a French church, with a pastor of its own, and it has its services in its own tongue. As it adopts our faith and polity, it has been received into the sisterhood of our churches, and should receive our prayers and sympathies. Besides these new churches, several congregations have been gathered, some of which will probably develop into churches in due time. No church has been dropped, though several have only a name to live. Yet we cannot tell what blessings the Lord may have in store for even these feeble churches. The most powerful revival of the year, and perhaps for many years, was in one of these churches, so feeble that a few years ago it was dropped from the roll for a time. Thirty-eight of our churches are without a minister, or only temporarily supplied.

According to the statistical returns of last January we have twenty-one thousand and twenty-one members, a loss of twenty-one members if we compare total membership; but if we compare additions with removals, the loss is sixty-six. This is doubtless nearer the truth, and it is a statement so profoundly humiliating that it should send us first into our closets, and then into our respective fields for more active service. The additions by profession have been three hundred and thirty, and the losses by death four hundred and eleven, showing in this way a net loss of eighty-one. One hundred and forty-five infant baptisms are reported, a gain of eighteen. The average attendance on the Sabbath-school service has been five hundred and sixty-eight less than last year, while one thousand and ninety-nine more families are reported. Last year there was a very large loss of benevolent contributions: this year it is greater by $2,721.84, or upwards of twenty thousand dollars less than two years ago. On the other hand, the parish expenses are increased by more than six thousand dollars, though this comes from the fact that more churches than usual have reported, also that it includes the cost of the new church edifice in Manchester. The truth doubtless is, that, throwing out of the account the latter item, the expenses have been much less than last year, and that the falling off is represented in diminished salaries of ministers.

Notwithstanding what has been said, the outlook to-day is far from discouraging. A much larger number of churches than last year report an increased interest. For many years there have been no more powerful revivals than those enjoyed in Bethlehem and Franconia. In these mountain towns the Spirit of the Lord came with mighty power. In the former place some seventy or seventy-five expressed a desire and purpose to live a Christian life; in the latter place a still larger number. In each place there is a church of another denomination to share in the blessing, and they also shared in the labors. Union meetings were held, and these were followed in each place by services of two weeks' duration, conducted by Rev. F. V. D. Garretson and Mr. C. J. Jackson. The whole town of Franconia, especially, seemed to be moved, and there was hardly a family in town in which there were not some converted. One result of the work in this place was a request from the three churches that Mr. Garretson should become their acting pastor for the present, the churches worshipping and holding all their meetings together. Does not this go to show that when we are one with Christ, denominational distinctions will sink out of sight? A similar spirit of union prevails in Bethlehem, where a union meeting among the young people is sustained solely by themselves. At Littleton, where the same means were employed, as many as one hundred and thirty, in all the churches, have signified their desire to become Christians. At Francestown the same brethren spent a week, and afterwards Mr. Folger was there the same length of time, with the result of stirring up Christians, and, it is hoped, bringing about fifty to accept Christ as their Saviour. Rev. E. A. Whittier labored at North Conway and Rochester for a season, with good results. Already eight have united with the former church. At Rochester the work was preceded, first, by the three evangelical ministers meeting weekly to pray for a special baptism of the Holy Spirit. All Christians burdened by the same desire were then invited to meet with them. This continued two months: then public meetings were held four weeks before the coming of Mr. Whittier. About one hundred went into the inquiry-room, one fourth of them backsliders. Probably a majority of the remainder were soundly converted to Christ. Lebanon, also, has been similarly refreshed. Rev. C. J. Fowler labored for several weeks with the united churches, resulting in many conversions and the quickening of Christians. Thirteen have already united with the church, and more are to follow. A quiet work has been enjoyed at Newport, resulting in the conversion of twenty-five or thirty of the young people. Pastor Chapin, of Alstead, writes that "some of the young people came so easily and naturally into the kingdom that they hardly knew that there was special interest, four of the converts being young children, who have since met the pastor weekly for instruction." Pastor Watson, of Hampstead, says that "a continual refreshing has been enjoyed, which, though not as marked as formerly, resulted in several conversions." A similar report comes from Merrimack, where revival interest continued through the year. Alstead East, Bath, Dalton, Deerfield, Dover Second, Center Harbor, Concord First, Hinsdale, Hollis, Meriden, Pembroke, and Salmon Falls report a quiet work of grace, with more or less conversions in each place. The Second Church in Dover has received two or more at each communion through the year. "No revival," but a very encouraging state of things, varying in each place, is reported from Alton, Amherst, Antrim, Boscawen, Canterbury, Dunbarton, Gilsum, Jaffrey, Hanover, Marlborough, Mont Vernon, Rindge, Roxbury, Tamworth, and Wentworth. At Tamworth its manifestation was in the determination of some to be present at the prayer-meetings and take part. Would that we might have many such revivals all over the state. At Hanover nine young people, at Roxbury three, and at most of the other places some, have united with the church by profession. At Hopkinton there was quite an interest in one of the out districts, where from sixty to ninety attended the meetings. At Hancock, Lempster, and Wilton extra meetings were held, resulting in the growth in grace of Christians and the conversion of a few. At Hancock the enemy held meetings in the ball-room at the same time. Chichester and Sandwich have no minister, but have sustained a prayer-meeting and Sabbath-school, and a blessing has come to some. Atkinson, Candia, Goffstown, North Hampton, and Tilton seemed on the point of a revival, but the hopes of God's people were disappointed.

The additions to the churches by profession during the conference year are reported to be two hundred and eight, but probably all were not reported.

But little requiring special remark is said in regard to the SABBATH-SCHOOLS. A few speak of a growing interest, but most lament a decreasing attendance and diminished interest. The First Church in Manchester have an interesting Chinese department, with eight constantly present. The pastors in Atkinson and Hanover rejoice in "an excellent body of teachers."

At New Ipswich the pastor has an adult class numbering from thirty to fifty. At Tamworth nearly all the congregation remain in the Sabbath-school.

The SOCIAL MEETINGS are in much the same condition as the Sabbath-schools, though more is said concerning them. Some complain of a scattered population or a cold winter as hindrances, while one brother is moved to cry, "And shall we ever live at this poor dying rate?" The means adopted for promoting interest are various. In Acworth a list of topics is prepared for the week-day meetings a year in advance, and the subject of the Sabbath evening meeting is announced with the notice; in Amherst persons are notified to speak on specified topics, and scripture verses are repeated; in Bennington the meetings are led by laymen; in Campton a question-box has been introduced, into which all are invited to put questions, remarks, anything proper to be read or considered. The plan works well. In Concord, Second Church, a pastoral letter, personal appeals, and repeated invitations have been helpful in filling up the meetings. In Hanover the pastor says, "Mainly we go regularly on; when necessary we just lift." At Hinsdale religious selections are sometimes read in the young people's meeting. The subjects of the meetings are previously announced. Notes for Bible study prepared for "Bible Reading and Prayer Alliance" are used for the ladies' meeting (as they are in the First Church, Concord). The missionary and Sabbath-school concerts have become their most interesting meetings. In Plymouth a similar missionary spirit prevails. They have a missionary library. A single mission field is considered at each meeting, which is divided into several topics assigned to as many persons. The mid-week meeting has been made interesting by considering the history of the Apostolic Church. At Marlborough the Sabbath-school lesson for the day is considered in the evening, and it brings out many remarks. In Merrimack the meetings are filled by personal invitation, and people are kept there by having good meetings; and the reporter truthfully adds, "If we are spiritually-minded ourselves, the community soon catch it." At Mont Vernon the attendance has been doubled by holding the meetings in the evening instead of the afternoon.

Pastor Norton, of Bethlehem, gratefully acknowledges help in meetings received from summer boarders. Some other pastors, however, mention summer boarders as a hindrance to religion. Several declare if it were not for the sisters the prayer-meetings would have to be abandoned. Pastor Palmer, of Meriden, says the students support a prayer-meeting and Sabbath-school in an out district, while he preaches in another. Several speak of meeting the children for instruction, with happy results. Lyme sustains four regular district meetings during the summer; at Salisbury two to four a week are held about town. A young people's meeting is kept up when too many are not away teaching or attending school. Tamworth has four meetings a week besides Sabbath evening, two conducted by young people. In Sanbornton two meetings a week are kept up in out districts by lay members of the church, as they have been for six years. They also conduct two meetings a week in the village. During the pastor's vacation of six weeks they also sustained the Sabbath services. Happy the pastor of such a people.

An effort has been made, with very poor results, to ascertain how many of the churches make weekly OFFERINGS. Only twenty-six report them, ten of these being for home expenses. Eleven report penny collections in the Sabbath-school. Besides this method, it is found that collections are made semi-monthly, monthly, bi-monthly, and annually. In one church the offerings are all made at the monthly concert, Sabbath evening; in another the pastor goes around with a paper once a year; in another two lady solicitors do the same. Several confine their offerings to the foreign and home work. Several speak of an increase, but more of a decrease, of benevolence. One pastor asks for a prescription for making church members give. I remember to have heard this from one who had achieved remarkable success in this direction: "Keep pouring the facts of the world's needs into them." May I add, that if we can keep our people near to Christ it will be done. One pastor states that three fourths of their contributions come from three persons: another that six do about all the giving. Another says, "Since weekly offerings were abandoned it is hard to get a yearly contribution"—which might have been expected. In Campton the benevolence averages $3.24 per member. The Juvenile Missionary Society, at Jaffrey, support a girl at school in the Western Turkey mission. One pastor significantly says, "When a home missionary collection is called for, the people say the missionaries receive a larger salary than their minister, which is true. Shall I, then, take up a collection? A church that dries up its streams gets parched itself." This church is respectfully referred to the soliloquy of a colored brother, who declared that when he heard of a church that died from too much giving, in the light of the silvery moon he would climb upon its moss-covered tower, where he would spread out his hands and say, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."

The condition of things in regard to TEMPERANCE is hardly changed from last year. No such interest has been manifest as in previous years, but in very many towns there has been a quiet and encouraging growth. More and more each year our churches are taking hold of this work, and the gospel plan of saving men from intemperance, by bringing them to Christ, is relied upon as the true method. Other organizations are doing something, and must be recognized as helpers, but they would have little power without the church. It is, therefore, a matter of great regret by many pastors that so many Christians leave the church to itself, and devote themselves to forwarding the interests of some outside organization. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which is essentially a church organization, is accomplishing not a little in many places. Cider-drinking is being more and more recognized as the responsible parent of a large amount of the evil. Some towns are so wedded to it that its sale cannot be prohibited. In a few places intemperance is greatly on the increase: in one place the pastor speaks of the need of a temperance work in the church. In most of these towns, however, the confession is made that they are doing nothing for the cause. One pastor quaintly puts it thus: "We are encouraging the devil by giving some of his servants the utmost freedom." Of a few places it is said that no liquor is sold in town; of one, that no liquor has been sold for twenty years. One pastor says their town rum-seller is anxious to sell out: if any one wishes to purchase I can furnish the name of the place.

In Plymouth, seventy of the leading citizens met and pledged their money and influence in enforcing the law, which has wrought a great change in the place, driving intemperance out of sight.

About the same HINDRANCES to the progress of the gospel are met from year to year. Human nature does not very much change. Nearly all could be classed readily under the head of unbelief, though they go by the name of "Delinquencies of Christians," "Scandal in the church," "Isms," "Hatred of Congregationalism," "Too many Perfectionists," "An empty pulpit," "Love of the world," "Cider-drinking," etc. "Emigration," "A floating population," "Summer boarders," "A lack of a suitable place of worship," also come in. Among the isms of one place is Mormonism, and, as I happen to know, it has had a foothold in that town for forty years. Some of our churches mourn the loss of valued members,—among them, Hon. A. Whittemore, of Bennington; Dea. Samuel Morrison, of Hillsborough Bridge; Benj. Davis, of New Ipswich, nearly ninety-nine years of age (wrongly reported last year as dead); and Dea. Franklin McDuffee, of Rochester.

I am sure our sympathies have been with our brothers of the Second Church in Exeter, and of the church in Gilsum, in their being compelled for some months to lay aside their work on account of bodily infirmity; also, with our brother in Lancaster, whom the hand of God hath sorely touched; and with some others of our brethren in their severe domestic afflictions.

If the reports that have been furnished cover the entire ground, our churches are in debt to the amount of $30,470, but about five sixths of it rests upon three churches. One pastor says they have no debt, but he wishes they had instead of their large fund; so those of us who are poor can congratulate ourselves that there is something worse than poverty.

Among the items of special interest not coming under any of the above heads I may mention the ordination, by the church in Campton, of Edwin H. Stickney, a member of that church, who is to go as a home missionary to Minnesota; the pathetic cry that comes from a mother in Israel, past four score years of age, because of the spiritual desolation with which she is surrounded; and the thorough canvass of one of our towns in the interest of Sabbath observance and worship.

This record is not what last year we hoped it would be; but have we not reason to thank God and take courage? Despondency will not build up our churches, but hard, self-denying toil, with God's blessing, will do it.

SAMUEL L. GEROULD,
Statistical Secretary.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

The affairs of the fund have run smoothly during the year. There has been no break in our ranks, by either death or removal, which required a special meeting.

The annual meeting was held in Concord, Wednesday, June 1, 1881, at 2 o'clock P. M. In the absence of the President, Hon. J. E. Sargent was elected President pro tem. Prayer was offered by Rev. M. T. Runnels, of Sanbornton. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Treasurer read his report, which was accepted and ordered to be placed on file.

The following officers were elected by ballot for the ensuing year:

President—Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Secretary—Rev. C. E. Harrington.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.

Prudential Committee—Hon. J. E. Sargent, Rev. C. E. Harrington, John C. Thorn.

Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D., was elected to fill a vacancy in the Board of Trustees, occasioned by the removal of Rev. J. W. Colwell to Massachusetts.

Having attended to all the business presented, the Trustees adjourned.

The Prudential Committee held a meeting immediately after the Trustees adjourned, and voted to appropriate the usual amounts to such persons as were known to be in need of the benefits of the fund.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.—EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks.

* This gain of 23 is offset by a loss of 54, when we subtract "admissions" from "removals." The latter figures probably are more nearly correct; but this difference indicates the inaccuracy of the returns from some of the churches.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to coöperate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the society resident in the state, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-presidents, secretary, and treasurer shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at at all meetings of the society and the trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meetings of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee, or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male and female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount so subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Is the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel as held and practised by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such references as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall seem to demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added, as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasury. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report, definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount?
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York' is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries, and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, or, if preferred, of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, Tuesday before the first Wednesday in June.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but, as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purpose of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eightieth annual meeting of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society was holden at the Franklin Street Church in Manchester, on Wednesday, September 14, 1881, the president, Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D. D., in the chair.

Prayer was offered, led by Rev. A. B. Peabody.

The annual report of the trustees was read by the secretary; and, on motion, it was accepted and ordered to be printed.

The annual report of the treasurer, who was necessarily absent, failed, through a mistake, to be received. Whereupon, on motion, it was ordered that the executive committee examine his report, and, if they find it correct, print it as usual.

After an address by the president, the Rev. Cyrus Richardson offered and supported the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Congregational churches of New Hampshire can, ought, and will make a radical increase in the amount of their contributions for the home missionary work in the state and in the country.

The Rev. F. Alvord and the Rev. Smith Norton followed in remarks sustaining the resolution.

A committee of nominations appointed by the chair, consisting of Rev. E. E. P. Abbott, Hon. J. W. Noyes, and Rev. Lyman White, reported the following as officers for the year ensuing and they were duly elected:

Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth; Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, M. D., Nashua, Vice-Presidents.

Rev. EDWARD H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. L. D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord, and GEORGE E. JENKS, ESQ., Concord, Auditors.

Dea. A. H. DANIELS, Manchester, Trustee for two years.

Hon. DEXTER RICHARDS, Newport; Rev. E. C. HARRINGTON, Concord; Rev. GEORGE E. STREET, Exeter, Trustees for three years.

Voted, That the society adjourn to meet in connection with the General Association in September, 1882, and that the annual report be printed in connection with the minutes of the General Association, as usual.

TRUSTEES.

The Trustees of the society are the following:

Hon. DEXTER RICHARDS, Newport.
Rev. C. E. HARRINGTON, Concord.
Rev. GEORGE E. STREET, Exeter.

The Executive Committee for the year ensuing are the following:

Rev. F. D. AYER, Concord.
Rev. C. E. HARRINGTON, Concord.
Hon. R. L. FRENCH, Pittsfield.
Hon. L. D. STEVENS, Concord.
Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Concord.

EIGHTIETH ANNUAL REPORT.

The trustees of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eightieth annual report, it being for the year ending August 1st, 1881:

THE TREASURY.

There remained in the treasury from the preceding year $4,011.43. There have been received during the year,—in donations from churches and individuals, $3,759.04; in legacies, $2,588.04; in income from permanent funds, $2,958; and from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $2,176.98;—making a total of $11,482.06. There were sent directly to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society,—in donations $928.34, and in legacies. $4,964.41. The total contributed for home missions in the state was $17,374.81.

The receipts from donations were $176.30 larger than last year; from legacies $3,860.23 less, and from the Cent Society $33.39 less than last year. The total receipts were $3,498.71 less than last year. By direction of donors, $356.51 were sent from our treasury to the American Home Missionary Society, in addition to a special appropriation from our treasury of $500. The amount expended in the state was $12,001.04. The average appropriation to each aided church and congregation was $142, and the average cost to the society of a year of missionary labor was $213,—$34 more than last year, though less than in a majority of the other states. The whole amount raised for home missions in the state, including legacies and income of permanent fund, equals one dollar and three cents for each resident church member. The actual donations equal forty-one cents for each resident member. Apart from the income from permanent funds, forty-one per cent. of the total receipts went into the treasury of the national society.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Fifty-nine missionaries have labored under the direction of the society in sixty-eight fields, one more than last year,—sixty of these being churches, and eight stations having no organized church,—performing forty-seven years of labor. The number of missionaries employed is six less than last year, while the years of labor performed are four more than last year, showing a decided gain in permanency.

Fifty-eight of these churches report an average of forty-three members each, sixty-six congregations report an average of seventy-seven each,—two less than last year,—and sixty-two Sunday-schools report an average of sixty-seven each,—four larger than last year: an aggregate gain on our missionary fields of two hundred and forty-five. They have thus done their full share to redeem our churches from the charge of a failing interest in this very important branch of church work. The reported deaths,—less than the actual, since the deaths of absentee members rarely get reported,—amounted to one in fifty-two of the whole membership—a large per centage, yet likely to be increased in the future. The additions by profession amounted to one in twenty-eight of the whole membership. The aided churches report a gain of eighty-four by profession and seventy-five by letter, and a loss of forty-one by death, thirty-two by dismission, and two by expulsion, making a net gain of eighty-five. They contributed, as far as reported, to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society $481.19,—$167.61 more than last year,—and $723.89 to other charitable objects,—$97 more than last year.

The increased permanency of the ministry in these aided churches, their net gain in members,—not large, indeed, yet considerably beyond the average of our churches,—the increase in their Sunday-schools and benevolent contributions, and the harmony and courageous determination to sustain the institutions of the gospel which prevail among them, show that there is no failure of spiritual life and activity on their part, and that the labor bestowed upon them has not been without fruit.

The gradual enlargement of our work will, as it should, attract attention. With no special effort, because it was felt that we had already upon our hands all that, with the means at our disposal, we could do, four additional years of missionary labor have been called for and performed. This enlargement is likely to go on, for the present at least, unless we are willing to see a gradual invasion of religious error and practical heathenism upon our borders. Emigration in full streams, showing no signs of abatement, is still draining the numbers and still more the strength and resources of more than half our churches. The fathers upon whose strong support they have leaned are rapidly falling, and the sons who should take their place are gone. The larger part of our aided churches, and a very considerable number also of those still self-supporting, are steadily growing weaker.

There is a large number of towns in the state, some with and more without churches of our order, in respect of which the problem of sustaining religious institutions, always a very serious one, has become still more difficult, and at the same time more urgent. Reduced to two thirds or even one half of their former population, where one church could with difficulty have been supported, the two, three, or even four that have struggled for existence are virtually dead, without even the survival of the fittest, only to be occasionally galvanized into a spasmodic and often pernicious activity. This state of things calls for the serious attention of all the thoughtful Christians of the state. Some way can and should be devised to end this unseemly struggle of sectarian rivalry and prejudice on fields where the only result can be a mutual death of foul dishonor. That greatest by far of all obstacles to the complete evangelization of the state, the putting of our sect, our church, above Christ and the salvation of those for whom he died, should be brought under the ban of an intelligent Christian public sentiment. In communities where only one church can be sustained, the only course which can save from practical abandonment to religious desolation is for those on the ground who are interested to come together in a spirit of mutual forbearance, and decide what, in view of all the circumstances of the case, that church ought to be, and then, waiving all personal preferences, to heartily unite in sustaining it. The only indispensable stipulation should be that the church be evangelical. In this way, with occasionally a little external aid which could easily be rendered, every considerable community in the state could be supplied with the preaching and ordinances of the gospel. We should hesitate to take the responsibility of preventing such a consummation in any case. Gladly would we give up fields which we are now occupying if we could see that they would be efficiently cultivated by any other evangelical church and ministry.

The large increase of expenditure in the past year will also attract notice, perhaps question. This increase has arisen in part from the enlargement of the work, but more from an increased pressure of demand from the aided churches and missionaries, a pressure seconded, often strongly, by neighboring ministers and by what has seemed to be the intelligent Christian sentiment of the vicinity, and which we have not felt at liberty to resist.

This increased pressure has arisen in part from increased need. It is no doubt true, and a fact which we must face in our plans for the future, that the pecuniary ability of a large part of our aided churches is steadily decreasing. It has arisen also, in part, from a feeling that our missionaries are poorly paid, and in some cases that larger appropriations are needed to secure a more efficient ministry; though it is but simple justice to say that the results on our field, so much better than the general average of our churches, is sufficient proof that we have a devoted and efficient band of missionaries. But quite as potent, perhaps, as any cause of this increased pressure has been an exaggerated notion of the ability of the Society to aid in consequence of its large permanent fund. The amount of that fund strikes the popular imagination as an almost inexhaustless resource, awakening, in some cases, the feeling that we are depriving these churches of their just right in withholding what they ask. It is difficult to get them to realize the sober fact that the entire income of that fund amounts to less than forty-five dollars each for the aided churches. This exaggerated notion of the resources of the society in consequence of its fund is the more noticeable in that it also tends strongly to diminish its income from donations, so that, between an increased demand on the one hand and diminished receipts on the other, it is sometimes a serious question whether that fund is a benefit at all. Whether this increase of expenditure shall go on it is for the churches to say. The unusual remainder in the treasury from last year enabled us to sustain for one year an expenditure of nearly $1,000 more than our income; but this cannot continue. We are simply the servants of the churches in this matter. Their intelligent wish, whether expressed in the amount of their contributions, or in any other way, will be obeyed. We put the facts before them as clearly and exactly as we can, and await their decision.

There is another subject which we wish to bring to the attention of our churches, and which we approach with no ordinary feeling of solicitude and responsibility. The average of forty-one cents for each resident member for such a cause, in such a time as this, cannot be regarded as satisfactory by any intelligent Christian. It does not measure our ability, or the opportunity and responsibility of the hour. We have seen the steady growth and urgency of the work in our own state.

But it is not hence that the only, or even the strongest, motives for a new and increased devotion to the work of home missions are to be derived. Our country, with all the hopes and interests for humanity and the church of Christ with which it is freighted, is in peril, a peril which is fearfully real and imminent. One or two facts will illustrate what is meant. There has come pouring into our borders the last year a number of people greater than the entire population of Vermont and New Hampshire combined, while the natural increase of population amounted to a still larger number. If at the opening of the year we had been with our work fully abreast of the advancing tide of population, as we were appallingly behind it, it would still have required the planting of fifteen hundred new churches to meet the increase it has brought. It would be safe to predict that in the present decade the population of the country will be increased by hardly less than fifteen millions—five times its entire population at the opening of the war of the Revolution. It will require fifteen thousand new churches to provide adequately for simply this increase. And among these teeming millions, planting themselves upon the very seats of future empire in this land, every form of error is rife and rampant, towering in some cases into a colossal strength that threatens the very foundations of our social and civil order. With even apostolic zeal and devotion, the American church of this age could hardly overtake the work to which, by unmistakable tokens of his will, her God is calling her. And yet this work must be done. It can be done, for it is a work to which God calls. But it will not be done by a contribution of forty-one cents each by the members of our churches, and corresponding prayer and effort in other directions. Does any one doubt that He who gave himself for us expects more of us than this? Are we willing to stand in His presence and pass in our forty-one cents each for another year? We are going to do more for this work of supreme privilege and supreme obligation, are we not? The unmistakable signs of a home missionary revival are abroad; we are not going to be the last to catch the sacred impulse. But how much more are we going to do, and how is the increase to be secured? Let us not be extravagant. Let us say that we will double this contribution for the year before us; that in it we will give eighty-two cents each for this cause.

Is that too much? Is there one who will say it is too much? But how shall the churches be brought to do even so much? Not, and let this be emphasized, without vigorous, determined, unrelenting effort, especially on the part of the leaders of the host. There must be system, there must be concerted, intelligent, unyielding purpose and action. The time for relying on pathetic appeals, stirring to a temporary gust of activity, has gone by. What the cause now demands is intelligent conviction, settled purpose, that bears right on through whatever darkness and struggle to victory. The host must have organization, discipline, and the impulse of undying love and fidelity to the Master. Those who have the ear of the churches must hear and obey the call of God: Speak to my people that they go forward.

If this average is to be reached, some must do far more than to give their eighty-two cents. Some will not give at all, it is to be feared, because they have no real interest in the cause. We cannot trust the tares to produce wheat. Some would give if well informed, but how to get them informed is no easy problem to solve. Possibly some cannot and ought not to give as much as eighty-two cents. But there are those who can and will gladly give two, five, ten, fifty, a hundred, or a thousand times that amount, and thus make up for the failure of others. If some churches cannot well come up to this average, others can easily go far beyond it. The smaller churches, as a rule, have less means, and are more heavily taxed at home than the larger. But suppose some such plan as this were adopted: Let, say, every church of not more than fifty resident members see that an average of at least fifty cents each is secured; every church of from fifty to one hundred and fifty members, seventy-five cents each; every church of from one hundred and fifty to two hundred and fifty members, one dollar each; and churches of more than two hundred and fifty members, one dollar and fifty cents each, and the full amount would be secured. Now cannot this be done? That it can easily be done if the will is not wanting is not doubtful. The real question then is, Shall it be done? That depends upon the pastors and leaders of opinion and action in the churches to say. No one can doubt that with an intelligent appreciation of the claims of this cause, our churches would gladly give even much more than this.

And may we not suggest to the members of the New Hampshire Cent Society, whose undying love for this cause has been so fully proved, the inquiry whether the time has not come for some enlargement of their contributions; whether it would not be a fitting thing to enter upon a systematic, earnest effort to secure the average of a half-dollar each from all the women of our churches, those interested and able making up for deficiencies by gifts increased two or even ten fold.

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

This certifies that we have examined the foregoing accounts of Lyman D. Stevens, treasurer of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, for the year ending August 15, 1881, and find the same correctly cast and properly vouched; and there remains in his hands a balance of twenty-six hundred and thirty-five dollars and ninety-four cents.

GEORGE E. JENKS,
JOHN KIMBALL,
Auditors.

August 25, 1881.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations, and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers and Conferences of Churches in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers, and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person: the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth college; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to coöperate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath of September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderater, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the times and places of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting, who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session, including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary sha send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. Ministerial Standing. Ministerial standing with this General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its roll, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

IX. Rules. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly, it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization, according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY A VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

11 o'clock. Singing.

Ezra M. Smith, Esq., opened the discussion of the question, "Is the Church Losing its Power over the Public Mind?"

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, AFTERNOON.

2:30 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Ephraim E. P. Abott.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1883, which was adopted:

Discussions—1. Dangers of superficial instruction in present Sabbath-school methods. Primary, Rev. Franklin D. Ayer; Substitute, Rev. David W. Goodale.

2. How do present methods of caring for social and material interests, through church fairs, affect the spirituality of our churches? Primary, Rev. George B. Spalding, D. D.; Substitute, Rev. George E. Street.

3. Do the present fluctuations in religious opinions indicate any serious danger to the permanency of the Christian church? Primary, Rev. Swift Byington; Substitute, Rev. William A. McGinley.

Essay—The Religion of the Future not a Natural Religion; or, The Necessity of the Supernatural in Religion. Primary, Rev. Theodore C. Pease; Substitute, Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D. D.

The Committee on Nominations presented the following report, which was adopted:

Committee of Arrangements—Rev. George B. Spalding, D. D., Bro. Elisha B. Brown, Rev. William A. McGinley.

Preacher before the Sacrament — Primary, Rev. John Q. Bittinger; Substitute, Rev. George W. Christie.

Delegate to Andover Seminary—Primary, Rev. Swift Byington; Substitute, Rev. Abram J. Quick.

The following, presented by Rev. Joseph S. Cogswell, was passed:

Resolved, That the General Association of New Hampshire hail with delight the great progress of the temperance cause in the West, notably that triumph of temperance in Kansas and Iowa.

Resolved, That we, as members of this Association, will endeavor, both by preaching and personal effort, to do all in our power to secure prohibition in our own commonwealth.

2:30 o'clock. The Narrative of the State of Religion was read by Rev. Samuel L. Gerould.

Prayer by Rev. Moses T. Runnels.

Rev. Franklin D. Ayer made some remarks concerning Rev. William R. Jewett, and Rev. Quincy Blakely concerning Rev. Augustus L. Marden, both deceased.

Bro. Allen Folger made brief remarks on the State of Religion.

3:45 o'clock. Singing.

Voted, To assess at the rate of two cents a member on the total membership of our churches for the expenses of the Association, including the sum called for by the National Council.

9:30 o'clock. Report from Dartmouth college by Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D.

In view of this report,

Resolved, That this Association has heard with great interest and pleasure the report of the President of Dartmouth college in respect to the moral and religious condition of its students, and their manifest good order and manly self-respect and restraint; their unusual freedom from skeptical tendencies and sentiments; and we also wish to put on record our earnest trust that the college, in the future as in the past, will be a sure bulwark against all forms of hostility to the great truths of the Bible, and a sure exponent of genuine, spiritual religion, and will ever look with uncompromising disfavor upon any endeavor to change the direction of the college to any other religious ends.

10 o'clock. Singing.

The discussion, "Do the times demand more Doctrinal Preaching?" was opened by Rev. Albert B. Peabody, and was continued by Rev. Josiah H. Stearns, Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D D., Rev. Cyrus Richardson, Rev. George W. Osgood, and others.

In view of this paper,

Resolved, That this Association expresses and puts on record its earnest desire, and the recommendation, that the ministry should wisely, practically, faithfully, and affectionately present to their congregations all the great doctrines heretofore commonly known as evangelical.

4:45 o'clock. The discussion on Pastoral Visitation was opened by Rev. George Dustan.

Resolved, That this Association greatly appreciate the careful provision made for this meeting by Rev. Sidney A. Burnaby and the committee of arrangements; and we express our hearty thanks to them, and to the people of Lancaster, who have so kindly received us to their homes and given us such generous hospitality; also to the Railroads for reduction of fare, and to the United States and Canada Express for favors in the distribution of the Minutes.

Adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. The sermon before the sacrament was preached by Rev. John W. Lees. Text—John 3 : 16 :—"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Theme: "The Love of God in Christ."

Rev. James P. Stone and Rev. Josiah H. Stearns officiated at the communion-table.

Adjourned.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

One has been added to the sisterhood of churches during the year. A Congregational church of thirteen members was organized at Union, November 25th, 1881. Preaching, and a Sabbath-school, had been maintained for several months previously, and it was found the various religious elements in the place would more easily fuse into a church of our order than in any other.

While we add one to our number, we also drop one,—the old church in Nottingham, which had its birth one hundred and forty years ago. During all this time it has had a pastor only nineteen years, and a stated supply only ten continuous years more. In 1878 the church reported four members living, since which time no returns could be procured. It is said that steps are soon to be taken to organize a new church.

During the year six have been ordained to the pastorate, and the same number have been installed, while seven have been dismissed and one has died, giving us a gain of four pastors. Besides the brother who has died, Rev. Augustus L. Marden, a name we should love to linger on with a tribute of affection, only one other minister within the state has passed away,—Rev. Daniel Pulsifer. In the usual place will be found the names of thirteen who had formerly labored with us, who have gone to their reward since we last met.

We find this year a total membership of our churches of twenty thousand nine hundred and eight,—a net loss of one hundred and thirty-three, if we compare with the total of last year; but, comparing the additions with the removals, the loss is brought down to sixty-four, which is probably the more nearly accurate. One hundred and nine more absentees are reported than last year. Making allowance for those who are in transition, and those who are so situated that it is well-nigh impossible for them to transfer their relations, it would be worth our inquiry if eighteen per cent. of absentees is not too large a number to carry.

The total benevolence reported is $33,928.47, which is $2,117.40 more than last year. As doubt has been expressed in some quarters as to the accuracy of our returns, I have taken some pains to verify them by comparison with the sums acknowledged by the treasurers of the various societies. I find that the six Congregational societies acknowledged $6,255.10 more than we have credit for in our returns. But when we remember that this sum includes all legacies, which seldom come into our reports, as they do not pass through the church treasuries, it will be seen that our returns are substantially accurate.

Revivals. On occasions like this it is natural that our interest should centre around the revivals with which we have been blessed. Not a year passes that we do not hear of the Holy Spirit's work in some of our churches. This year is no exception. The churches most largely blessed are those in Boscawen, Croydon, Deerfield, Hampstead, Newmarket, and Northwood. Pastor Haley, of Boscawen, writes,—"We have enjoyed a good degree of revival interest, beginning with the week of prayer. The pastor was helped by young men from abroad, and the means used were prayer and personal effort. The work was characterized by deep feeling, and the absence of all excitement. The results, so far as we can judge, seem to be good and permanent. Eighteen have been received to the church on confession." The young brother whose labors have been so greatly blessed at Croydon, and who has lately been ordained its pastor, says,—"There has been a marked change in the spiritual atmosphere of the inhabitants of this town within twelve months. One year since, this church numbered eleven members,—seven resident and four non-resident. To-day we have fifty-five members in good and regular standing,—a gain of forty-four. The Methodist church, which had practically occupied this field for the past twenty-five years, was reduced to thirteen members, who procured letters and joined us in a body. Denominational spirit was a little rank at first, but all is serene and harmonious now, united as one. Nineteen have joined the church on confession, mostly adults, and others are to do so soon." Of the work in Deerfield, acting pastor White says,—"Respecting the marked religious interest in this place during the past few months, this may be said: The way, in good measure, seemed to be prepared. Much good seed had been sowed at home, in the Sabbath-school and from the different pulpits in town. Some religious interest began to be awakened last autumn, which was somewhat increased during the week of prayer, which was extended to weeks of prayer. Then Mr. Folger, in response to a unanimous invitation, came and labored nearly two weeks with us. He was assisted to some extent by a few others. This was a new thing for Deerfield. The people came out to the meetings wonderfully. The several pastors and churches coöperated harmoniously and earnestly, and the result is the conversion of about one hundred souls. These embrace all classes, though the larger portion of them are from seventeen to twenty-five years of age. Of this number twenty-eight united with our church the first Sabbath in May, and others are expected to come forward soon." It is getting to be an old story to hear of a revival in Hampstead. May it get to be older still. Pastor Watson writes,—"Can there be said to be a revival in the course of a year in which there has been no spiritual dearth or coldness? Does not the very word revival imply a previous deadness? If so, there has been no revival here during the past year. But fidelity to truth compels us to say there has been considerable religious interest, as in years past. Nine have been added to the church by confession of faith, and one by letter. This continuous work of grace is the Lord's doing, and is marvellous in our eyes." From Newmarket we have the good news that "An unusual religious interest was awakened the fourth Sabbath in April by the preaching of Rev. J. C. Emery, in connection with whose evangelistic labors there was a remarkable revival eight years ago. Union meetings were held every afternoon and evening for two weeks, which were well attended and deeply interesting. During these meetings twenty-five or more expressed a desire to become Christians, nearly all members of the different Sabbath-schools." A remarkable change has been wrought in Northwood, as will be seen from the statements of Rev. Mr. Fay, who has come back to labor in his old parish after an absence of sixteen years. He says,—"A series of meetings was held in March by the executive committee of the Young Men's Christian Association. As the week passed there were marked evidences of the Spirit's presence and work. The number requesting prayers increased daily. Some, who cherished hope during a similar effort three years ago, but who had not identified themselves with the church, were greatly quickened, and others began the new life in Christ. The meetings were continued by the pastors for three weeks more, the attendance varying from one hundred to three hundred. The Free Baptists will probably receive the largest accession to their church of any, but all were blessed. About one hundred hope they have become Christians. Of the eight who came into our church the first Sabbath in May, two were among the most prominent and influential of our business men. That was a precious day for Zion here."

Other places, also, have been blessed. At Acworth, East Andover, Gilmanton, Goshen, Haverhill, Milford, Monroe, and New Ipswich, a series of meetings, conducted by Messrs. Folger and Shaw, resulted in bringing not a few to decide to follow Christ. The hearts of God's people have thus been caused to rejoice. Not unlikely the labors of these brethren have been blessed in other places from which no report has come. If so, the record is on high. At Conway village a quiet work throughout the year has developed eight or ten open conversions. At Hancock, the pastor reported in June that a revival was then in progress. At the May communion six young persons were added to the church by confession. No extra meetings have been held, but a spirit of calm, earnest inquiry is manifesting itself more and more. At Hanover Centre, and Pembroke, the work and results have been much the same. At Hinsdale union meetings were held under the evangelistic labors of Rev. D. M. Stevens, with good results. At Windham special meetings were held for about two weeks, led by Mr. Harris, a conductor on the Old Colony Railroad. A number expressed hope in Christ, and, at the May communion, three were added to the church.

The fellowship meetings, recommenced by this Association at its last session, have been blessed to many of the churches. Doubtless the results are not yet wholly seen, but it is manifest that those who took part in them received an accession to their spiritual strength. Unfortunately, several of the meetings were interfered with by stormy weather, but even in these circumstances they were not without profit.

The week of prayer, as usual, brought many face to face with God, and in a nearer view than ever before; and, as the weeks passed on, some who had long been carrying their burden of sin were led to cast it off on Christ.

The revival reported last year in Franconia has continued through the year. It is believed that fully one hundred have been converted. About fifty have been added to the Congregational church. The church in Lee, from which in past years we so often have had a cheering report, sends word that nine were added to them by confession the first Sabbath in January, though most were persons who had been Christians for some time. Essentially the same report comes from Chichester, with this addition, that there is much thoughtfulness outside the church. Canterbury reports interest and some conversions in out districts where meetings have been held; Cornish an increased attendance upon public worship, and from families not before in the habit of attending. The pastor says he has done more than usual pastoral work among this class during the year, which probably explains the larger attendance. Pastor Stone, of Dalton, rejoices over the conversion of an old man whose case had long been regarded as hopeless. Pastor Street, of Exeter, is looking for fruit from preaching the cardinal doctrines of the Bible.

But this would not be a true picture of the state of religion if I should conceal the cry that comes up from, probably, the majority of the churches, which may be put in the words of the Psalmist,—"Will the Lord cast off forever? And will he be favorable no more? Is his mercy clean gone forever? Doth his promise fail forevermore? Hath God forgotten to be gracious? Hath he in anger shut up his tender mercies?" Only those who have had the experience of a pastorate in one of our smaller towns, where the population, and especially the Christian population, is ever diminishing, can know the discouragements under which many of our ministers are laboring.

Sabbath-Schools. The Sabbath-schools show a gain of seven hundred and seventy-one, and, taking this in connection with the report that comes from many of the churches that the young are showing an increased interest in the study of the Word, it is cause for thanksgiving. More than for many years do the pastors speak of their encouragement from this source: it is the one opening in the clouds that gives them hope. Several report conversions in the Sabbath-school.

Church Work. More and more each year do we hear of work carried on in out-districts and neighborhoods. Several pastors, who have but one preaching service at home, preach regularly in the afternoon in some outlying community, and in some instances this is referred to as being the most interesting feature of their work. In other cases they go from school-house to school-house; in others the brethren do the same. Working bands, or associations, have been formed in some churches for the purpose of sustaining such meetings or Sabbath-schools, or this is done by the church without any separate organization. One good brother says he doesn't understand the question as to systematic church work which was on the schedule sent out, but he evidently understands what such work is, for he goes on to say that they sustain a prayer-meeting Sunday and Tuesday evenings; a teachers' meeting Monday evening; a children's meeting Wednesday afternoon; a ladies' meeting Friday afternoon; a Young Men's Christian Association meeting Friday evening and Sunday morning, with meetings in four out-districts, and in one of the village churches on Sunday afternoon; that they hold a union meeting on the third Sabbath of each month with the Baptists, Methodists, and Episcopalians; that their association held during the year four hundred and forty-six meetings, with an aggregate attendance of fourteen thousand two hundred and twenty-three, and had two hundred and sixty requests for prayer. Well done, Littleton!

In Bath the church is divided into five committees for church work and fellowship, and into two divisions for missionary benevolence and prayer. The monthly concerts for missions are carried on, mostly, by the young people, who read from the missionary periodicals, while the fathers and veterans glean after them by report. In Bedford, and a few other places, the church has a committee of ladies to look after the needy in town. From Croydon comes the report,—"Our system is, to have every member do his, or her, work earnestly." In Franconia a list of all professing Christians in town was made out, and another of all the unconverted. "A name from the unsaved list was then given to a Christian, with the understanding that his prayers and efforts were to be directed to his salvation. To give point and fervor to it, a prayer-meeting for each sex by itself, for prayer only, was appointed. This was in addition to the general neighborhood and young people's meetings. These efforts were supplemented by a series of meetings at which all the services were made to bear on the unconverted, to bring them to Christ." In Groton, with no regular pastor, but where the services of the Sabbath are regularly maintained, each family in the parish was visited, and non-attendants invited to the house of God. In Kingston five ladies were chosen to coöperate with the pastor and deacons in increasing the congregation and Sabbath-school. Pastor Selden, of Manchester, gives to a committee of ladies, once a year, a list of new families to be called upon. Pastor Wood, of New Ipswich, has met at his house, weekly, all who would come, mostly inquirers from the children and youth, with whom he has conducted informal Bible readings on subjects of interest to inquirers and young Christians. Among other things taken up is the confession of faith of the church. In Tamworth misses from twelve years and under have met the pastor's wife, weekly, for biblical instruction and singing. In Pelham interested ones in nearly every district invite children to the Sabbath-school, and people to church, and bring to the pastor's notice cases where he can be of service.

Social Meetings. An increasing number of pastors speak of the helpfulness of having previously-prepared topics for the prayer-meetings, which, usually, are printed. A few refer to enthusiasm awakened in missions by the use of the concert exercises furnished by two or three of the societies. In Concord, First, the female prayer-meeting is better attended than for years. Never before, I think, have so many referred to the benefit and blessing resulting from the ladies' prayer-meetings. A few refer to their church sociables as a means of grace.

On the other hand, very many are regretting the multitude of other organizations that absorb the time, interest, and means of church members, so that little is left for the service of the church. In this way they feel that much harm is wrought.

BENEVOLENCE. Already it has been stated that there has been an increase of contributions over last year. It may be interesting to note the various ways by which these offerings are secured. As to time, they are taken weekly, monthly, bi-monthly, quarterly, and yearly. Some are secured by pledges on cards previously given out; some by the solicitation of the pastor from the pulpit,—in one case, by his personal solicitation from house to house; and some by the solicitation of a committee going about the town. In every case reported where weekly offerings are made, the plan is liked better than any other, and it also secures larger sums. Keene, First, finds that a previous pledge has nearly doubled its contributions. Lebanon increases its benevolence nearly fifty per cent.,—the result of more liberal giving on the part of a few. One church reports its contributions decreased; and, as it is added "No particular plan is pursued," the reason is apparent. Another says, "No contribution taken or solicited." May the Lord have mercy on that church. Since it sent its returns, I learn that its minister has left.

TEMPERANCE. That there has been an advance in the temperance work may be seen from the fact that thirteen churches report that no liquor is sold in their towns, or parishes, as the case may be. In one of these, Lee, none has been sold for twenty years. In addition to these places, the reporter from Milford says,—"If rum is sold in town, it is done very secretly." In Salisbury it was sold in a hotel for a while, but the proprietor was starved out and left town. In Durham "the cause is looking up." In Franconia intemperance is confined to two or three individuals. To offset this, one town of less than twenty-eight hundred inhabitants reports fifteen rum shops.

The means used to promote the cause are various. A very few churches leave all the work to outside organizations; some have a Woman's Christian Temperance Union, or a Sabbath-school organization, both of which may be said to be within the church; many others hold gospel temperance meetings as often as once a month. In Alton and Rochester they are held every week, and gather an audience of one hundred and fifty or more. Some have temperance Sabbath-school concerts; others circulate the pledge in the Sabbath-school, or have a roll of honor where the pledged names are written. In Exeter an effort has been made to prevent the sale to minors; to stop the traffic after nine in the evening, and on the Sabbath. In Farmington the Woman's Christian Temperance Union have taken out search-warrants in their individual names, and, as a result, four rumsellers have been bound over for trial. In this work the women are supported by the men. In Mason the pastor says he preaches total abstinence every Lord's day.

A few state that intemperance is on the increase. In one town the work of temperance is hindered by the fanaticism of a so-called temperance worker. The ugliest foe with which some churches have to contend is cider-drinking. Christians are just beginning to wake up to the fact that this is the parent of many of our sorrows and much of our shame. Lebanon mourns the loss by death of the man who, for forty years, has been the terror of rumsellers.

Sabbath Observance. We are met by the sad fact that the Sabbath is increasingly disregarded. Only five churches speak of an improvement, though one says the day is well observed except in beach season; and another, "We keep Sunday as well as any New Hampshire village in winter; in summer we have nothing to boast of,"—which reminds us of the story of the proprietor of a place of summer resort, who said if he ever went to heaven he must die in the winter. Visiting, driving, and the patronage of Sunday trains by professing Christians, is a greater source of discouragement to some of our pastors than the hunting, fishing, and labor of those not Christians. A story is told of one female church member who picked berries for sale during the week, and was found picking on Sunday, and, when remonstrated with for it, replied, "I am not picking these to sell, but to can for my own use." The requirements of corporations are mentioned, in one place, as working to the prejudice of Sabbath-keeping. Two thirds of the inhabitants of a town with a population of less than twelve hundred never go to church. Is not New Hampshire, indeed, missionary ground?

As a silver lining to this dark cloud, Pastor Cochrane, of Antrim, says,—"No one is well thought of here who does not attend church;" and Pastor Dutton, of Lebanon,—"There are very few families of pronounced non-church-goers in town." Lee, with a population of less than eight hundred, has an average congregation, in summer, of two hundred and fifty. In Henniker the fathers and mothers remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy, and the children do the same.

HINDERANCES. I notice a few hinderances to the progress of the kingdom of Christ, named this year, that never before have been mentioned, if my memory serves me. These are, the infidelity of leading men, the growth of doubt and distrust in regard to the fundamental doctrines of Christianity, the lack of old-fashioned orthodoxy, secret societies, dramatic entertainments, an intoxicating passion for promiscuous dancing, the use of tobacco, Sabbath-breaking. The devil never is at a loss for weapons with which to fight the church, and if his old ones are not good, he is generally more willing to try new ones than is the church.

The church in Winchester has lost, during the year, eleven by death, and nine by dismissal. This must be an extreme case, but it is a process that is seriously depleting many of our churches, reducing not only the number but the means of supporting the gospel. The report from Barnstead says,—"The strength of our church is in Concord, Portsmouth, and other large towns." From Tamworth there is a similar report. On the other hand, in Antrim there has been an increase of members, notwithstanding many deaths and removals.

DEBTS. I am glad to say that our churches have been reducing their debts. Fifteen churches report debts aggregating $15,615,—a reduction of nearly one half. These debts range from $150 to $5,000. Four range from $1,000 to $5,000; five from $500 to $1,000,—the remainder being less than $300.

OTHER MATTERS OF INTEREST. Death, as usual, has invaded the ranks of the laity, and claimed some of our most valuable men. Bath has lost Mr. Daniel Patterson, not a church member, but an active and useful member of the society. In the death, by accident, of Mr. George Robertson, of Hinsdale, that church has indeed been bereaved. Claremont, also, mourns the loss of Dea. Charles N. Goss; Newport, Dea. Joseph Wilcox; Swanzey, Dea. William Read, and Mr. Enoch Howes.

While our missionary secretary is endeavoring to yoke some of the feebler churches in sustaining the gospel, some are yoking with churches of other denominations, alternating between them in the service of pastors: thus, Goshen and Loudon join with the Methodists. If this process could be carried still further, doubtless it would be for the benefit of all parties concerned.

Cornish is rejoicing in the settlement of difficulties that threatened the peace and welfare of the church. All is now harmonious. In Henniker many parents are bringing their children to be baptized; and the pastor and people have been brought very near each other by sickness in the pastor's family. Keene, first, has a literary gathering for the purpose of forestalling bad reading. Pastor Sawin, of Lyndeborough, takes heart because three children have been born within the limits of the parish during the year,—"a thing that has not occurred before for many years." This fact shows more loudly than words how many of our hill towns are running out. Mont Vernon rejoices that its meeting-house was spared from the flames when its destruction seemed imminent from the burning of an adjoining building and the horse-sheds. Conway and Franconia are building new meeting-houses.

The Outlook. Evidently there is a more encouraged feeling on the part of many of the pastors than last year. The Lord has given tokens that he has not forgotten to be gracious. The signs of an approaching harvest are already discerned by not a few: a little more of culture, a little further patient waiting, and the sickle shall be thrust in. In some cases, it may be, we have had no harvest, because, expecting none, we have spent all our time in cultivating, when we should have been reaping. May the Lord of the harvest grant, this coming year, a large ingathering.

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held at Concord, June 7, 1882, the President, Hon. J. E. Sargent, presiding.

Prayer was offered by Rev. F. D. Ayer, of Concord.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved. The Treasurer's report was read, accepted, and ordered to be placed on file.

Rev. C. C. Sampson, of Pembroke, was elected Trustee to fill the vacancy occasioned by the removal of Rev. C. A. Stone from the state.

The following officers were elected by ballot for the ensuing year:

President—Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Secretary—R. P. Staniels.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.

Prudential Committee—Hon. J. E. Sargent, R. P. Staniels, John C. Thorn.

No other business being presented, the Trustees adjourned.

The Prudential Committee held a meeting immediately after the Trustees adjourned, and voted to appropriate the usual amounts to such persons as were known to be in need of the benfits of the fund.

This certifies that I have carefully examined the account of Rev. S. L. Gerould, as Treasurer of the General Association of New Hampshire Congregational Churches, and find the same correctly cast and sustained by satisfactory vouchers, and that there remained in his hands at the close of the fiscal year four hundred and four dollars and six cents.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.—EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to coöperate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the society resident in the state, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-presidents, secretary, and treasurer shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and the trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees of their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meetings of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male and female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount so subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel as held and practised by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such references as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall seem to demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added, as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasury. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report, definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount?
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries, and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, or, if preferred, of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, Tuesday before the first Wednesday in June.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A REQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purpose of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eighty-first annual meeting of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society was holden in the Congregational church in Lancaster, on Wednesday, September 13, 1882.

The meeting for the choice of officers was called to order at half-past four o'clock P. M., the President, S. C. Bartlett, D. D., in the chair.

Rev. Quincy Blakely, Dea. Isaac Willard, and Rev. E. E. P. Abbott were, on motion, appointed by the chair a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The committee reported the following, who were duly elected :

Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth; Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, M. D., Nashua, Vice-Presidents.

Rev. EDWARD H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. L. D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord, and GEO. E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

Rev. JOHN M. DUTTON, Lebanon, Trustee for two years, in place of Rev. C. E. Harrington, removed from the state.

Rev. GEO. B. SPALDING, D. D., Dover; Hon. R. L. FRENCH, Pittsfield; Rev. CYRUS RICHARDSON, Keene, Trustees for three years.

At eight o'clock P. M. the President took the chair, and called upon Rev. T. P. Sawin to offer prayer.

The annual report of the Treasurer was read, accepted, and ordered to be printed.

The Hon. L. D. Stevens spoke upon the relation and duty of the churches to the treasury.

The annual report of the trustees was read by Rev. F. D. Ayer, accepted, and ordered to be printed.

The Rev. F. D. Ayer spoke upon the opportunities offered to the society.

The president then addressed the society, as did also Rev. Cyrus Richardson and Rev. Geo. B. Spalding, upon the importance of the Home Missionary work.

Voted to adjourn, to meet in connection with the General Association in September, 1883.

Adjourned.

EIGHTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT.

The trustees of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-first annual report, it being for the year ending August 1st, 1882:

THE TREASURY.

The balance in the treasury from the preceding year was $2,635.94. There was received, in donations from churches and individuals, $4,932.51; from legacies, $1,400; from income of permanent fund, $2,972; from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $2,277.97; and from miscellaneous sources, $99.46;—making a total of $11,701.94. By direction of donors, $637.51 of donations and $1,070 of legacies were sent from our treasury to that of the national society. In addition this there was sent from the state directly to the treasury at New York,—in donations, $1,150.36, and in legacies, $5,050.37,—a total of $6,200.73. The whole amount contributed from all sources for Home Missions was $17,902.67,—$527.66 more than in the preceding year.

The receipts from donations show a very gratifying increase, being $1,395.49 larger than for the preceding year. The receipts from the Cent Society were also $100.99 larger. The receipts from legacies were $1,168.04 less. Of the $6,470.37 received from legacies, only $350 were available for the work within the state. If the receipts from legacies available for the state work had equalled the average of the three preceding years, the expenditures of the last year would not have exceeded its receipts. As it is, the expenditures have exceeded the receipts by the amount of $1,736.88. The amount expended in the state was 11,714.31, —$286.73 less than the preceding year. The average appropriation to each aided church was $141.30, and the average cost to the Society of a year of missionary labor was $207.23,—$5.77 less than the preceding year. The whole amount raised for home missions in the state, including legacies and income of permanent fund, equals one dollar and four cents for each resident church member. The actual donations equal fifty cents for each resident member,—nine cents more than the preceding year.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Sixty-four missionaries have labored under the direction of the Society in sixty-six fields,—two less than the preceding year,—fifty-nine of these being churches, and seven stations having no organized church,—performing forty-six years of labor. The number of missionaries employed was five more than the preceding year, while the years of labor performed were one less.

Fifty-three of these churches report an average of forty-eight members each,—five more than the preceding year; sixty-six congregations report an average of eighty each,—three more,—and an average of seventy in their Sunday-schools,—also three more than the preceding year. The aided churches report a gain of eighty-one by profession and forty-three by letter, and a loss of forty-one by death, thirty-nine by dismission, and three by exclusion, making a net gain of forty-one. They contributed, as far as reported, to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society $421.45,—$59.26 less than the preceding year,—and $811.73 to other charitable objects,—$87.84 more.

It will be noticed that apart from the income from permanent funds, fifty-three per cent. of the total receipts for home missionary purposes in the state went into the treasury of the national society. This is a much larger percentage than ever before, leaving the amount which could be expended in the state work nearly $2,000 less than was required, compelling us to nearly exhaust the balance on hand at the beginning of the year. It is manifest that the state work cannot be carried on on its present scale, if this is to go on. That work must be materially curtailed, or larger funds furnished for carrying it on. We wait the decision of the churches on this point.

The illness of the Secretary compels the omission, for the present, of other matters of interest and importance which it was intended to bring to the attention of the churches.

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state, and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers, and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widow's Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth college; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath of September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4 These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting, who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session, including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial standing with this General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its roll, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly, it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization, according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

10:30 A. M. Brief reports of delegates to foreign bodies, after which shall be a presentation of benevolent causes, only three of which, in addition to the state auxiliaries, shall be presented at any meeting. No cause shall be presented oftener than once in two years, and the order of rotation shall be: 1st year, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Congregational Publishing Society, Congregational Union; 2d year, American Missionary Association, Tract Society, Seaman's Friend Society.

2 P. M. Business of the Association.

2:30 P. M. Narrative of the state of religion, with additional statements respecting revivals, and other facts of interest.

4 P. M. Discussion of question relating to Sabbath-schools, or a children's meeting.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D.

Elected Rev. John M. Dutton Secretary for three years.

Elected Rev. Samuel L. Gerould Statistical Secretary and Treasurer for three years.

The following, presented by Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D. D., was adopted:—

"In this, the four hundredth anniversary of Martin Luther's birth, this Association would express its most hearty appreciation of the man and his work. He was a great gift of God to the church and the world. By his heroism, his labors, and his piety, he introduced and established a blessed reform in both doctrine and life. He has won an immortal place among the illustrious benefactors of the race, and we thank God for his memory. We would praise our Heavenly Father, too, with renewed thanksgivings for those truths of justification by faith alone, and salvation through Christ only, which are forever indentified with the name of this later Paul."

Resolved, That a copy of this minute be sent to the proper ecclesiastical authority of the American Lutheran Church.

2:30 o'clock. Prayer.

The Narrative of the State of Religion was read.

Prayer and remarks on the state of the churches.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1884, which was adopted:—

Discussion—1. The claim of the Sabbath-school upon the entire membership of a church for active interest. Primary, Rev. George Dustan; Substitute, Rev. D. Herbert Colcord.

2. Is there in our day a decay of conscience? Primary, Rev. Alfred E. Tracy; Substitute, Rev. Frank D. Sargent.

3. What kind of worship, and how many services are needed to answer the requirements of Sabbath observance, to establish a community in the Christian faith, and to further the interests of Christ's kingdom? Rev. John L. Merrill, Primary; Rev. Theodore C. Jerome, Substitute.

Essay—The Religion of the future not a Natural Religion; or, the necessity of the Supernatural in Religion. Primary, Rev. Theodore C. Pease; Substitute, Rev. William H. Hubbard.

4 o'clock. Rev. Cyrus Richardson opened the discussion on "The dangers of superficial instruction in present Sabbath-school methods."

Amended the Constitution to read as follows:—

Art. VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the State, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

Art. VII. Sect. 3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangement therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the Communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

7:30 o'clock. In the absence of the Secretary, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens made some statements, in regard to the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D., also presenting the claims of the society. A collection was taken for the cause, amounting to $55.60.

The Association then gave way to the anniversary of New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

THURSDAY MORNING.

8:30 o'clock. Devotional meeting led by Rev. John C. Rollins.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Charles B. Strong.

The Committee on Nominations presented the following report, which was adpoted:

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

We have dropped from our list the churches in Gilmant East, Hill, Manchester, French church, and the Presbyter church in Londonderry. The former two had become so v small, and having no prospect of any increase, or of taking new life in any form, it has been thought best to take th from our roll. The French church in Manchester had bu brief existence. The French Protestant Canadians natura go where they can find the most of their own number, and nearly all the members of this church removed to Lowell, W cester, and Fall River. The Presbyterian church in Lond derry have voted to withdraw from the Rockingham Conf ence, and so this has been taken from the list. A Germ Presbyterian church has been organized in Manchester, unc the most favorable auspices. It has not yet joined the Conf ence, but we have taken it on our list among the other churc es of that order in the State. A small church was formed Randolph July 23d, and as it is the only one in town much go is hoped from it.

Five pastors have been ordained, and one has been ordain to the ministry, as a Home Missionary, during the ye Seven have been installed. Sixteen pastors have been d missed. We therefore have four less pastors than last ye Thirty-two have acceded, and twenty-six retired as acting p tors, and one has died since the last report.

Our aggregate membership is four hundred and eight le than last year, and yet the removals are only eleven more th the additions. This shows the careless method of keeping, making reports. Doubtless the additions and removals a approximately correct. The total membership must be a good many out of the way. Some of the churches are so elastic that, from year to year, their membership is increased or diminished thirty-three per cent. without the addition or loss of an individual.

I am glad to be able to say that our benevolent contributions have been increased by upwards of seven thousand dollars. But it does not yet average two dollars and a half per member.

The religious history of the year does not disclose any very marked differences from the few preceding years. Some of our churches, especially those on the hills and away from the centers of trade, are running down. They have been useful in their day, training up some who are now pillars in the stronger churches. But their glory has departed. I find eighteen where, so far as I can learn, no regular religious service is kept up during the year. In a few others students are employed during the summer: in some a Sabbath-school or a prayer-meeting, or both, are maintained by the members of the church throughout the year. In two of these weak churches lay preachers have been employed. But it may be that God has blessings in store for some of these churches that appear to be almost extinct; we have previously seen what He has done for Bethlehem, Franconia, and Croyden. Now Bradford and Chesterfield, long without Congregational worship have been so far quickened that they have ministers, and there is hope that they are yet to exert a strong influence for good.

It has not been a year of revivals, though these tokens of Divine favor are not wanting. Pastor Richardson of the First Church in Keene says:—"We have felt that in many respects we have had one of the best seasons, spiritually, that we have had for many years. The converts have been faithful in their attendance at prayer-meetings and have been active in trying to win souls to Christ." It is hoped that twenty-five or thirty were converted. At Tilton a similar work of grace has been enjoyed in connection with union meetings, and helped by our own State evangelists, whose work is most highly spoken of. A great refreshing has been enjoyed in the little church in Brentwood. No extraordinary means were used. The pastor says, "The aim, in the first place, was to induce Christians to make a full consecration of themselves to Christ, and encourage them to believe that He would thus sanctify them and use them in His service. At the same time sinners were invited to seek the Savior, on the ground that they were guilty and lost by reason of sin." This blessing has greatly strengthened this little church. At Derry a revival began among the Methodists, the influence of which reached the Congregational church, where, it is hoped, about a dozen were converted. In Milton Mills, the pastor says, "The Lord laid it on two of us to take His promise that 'if two of you will agree,' &c., and acting on it in confidence the work began." Delightful union meetings were kept up for twelve weeks, with the result of strengthening Christians and bringing several to Christ. At Milton there has been a most encouraging work of grace. In Sanbornton a good work has been enjoyed, in which many of the children and youth have been brought to the Savior. The means employed were faithful instruction and discipline, especially by the superintendent among the younger classes in the Sabbath-school, the faithful labors of a day-school teacher, who established prayer-meetings among her pupils, and the series of meetings held in the autumn by Messrs. Folger and Jackson. Among the results is the maintenance of a meeting for prayer by the children, and the organization of a juvenile missionary circle, and these from no suggestions from others. At Meriden it became evident during the Week of Prayer that God was with them. Union meetings with the Baptist were held. The work was mainly confined to the students in the academy, but as a result ten have been added to the Congregational church.

Messrs. Folger and Jackson have canvassed the State as heretofore, and their help is spoken of by some of the pastors in the strongest terms of appreciation. I do not know how extensive their canvass has been, but fewer than usual have spoken of their work, though this may be because they have been where there were no Congregational churches. But from the words which our pastors have written I infer that most of them are coming more and more to feel that, if there is to be an increase of strength and permanent growth, it must come from the ordinary means of grace; that the church itself should carry on the work. Outside help is by no means to be despised, for without it we should have been in a much worse condition than we are, but it is felt that it cannot be depended on. And is not this the correct theory? If the members of our churches would put on Christ in their lives, and speak of Him with their lips, would not many more be likely to believe on Him?

We are told by one pastor that they have had no revival, but that sixteen have been added to the church by profession; by another that his church has never had a revival since it was organized in 1840. The former is one of the stronger, the latter one of the weaker, country parishes, but both are exerting a strong and healthful influence in the communities where they are situated.

Without mentioning names I may say that, besides those already spoken of, fourteen pastors report that their respective parishes have been quickened. These give few particulars as to means used or as to results. Eight others report conversions aggregating one hundred and three, with no extraordinary means used. Faithful pastoral work, and faithful work on the part of the members of the church, seems to be blessed in these days as well as in the days of the fathers. May it not be that a great blessing has been kept from some of us because we have lost sight of this fact?

The churches in Franconia and Hampstead are reported, as last year, in a continued revival state. This means, simply, that pastor and people feel the worth of souls and are laboring to save them. In Hampstead the revival has been going on seven years, and of course there are not so many converts, for two thirds of the congregation are already in the church. In Franconia forty or fifty converts are reckoned.

A few of our pastors have organized "Young People's Christian Endeavor Societies," after the plan of the one started a few years since in Portland, and these seem to have been productive of good, as anything must be that shall set the church at work. Pastor Taintor of Milford preaches illustrated sermons and holds frequent Bible readings, and with good results, as we may judge from the fact that during the year twenty-seven have been added to his church by confession and eighteen by letter. In another church, inquiry meetings and neighborhood meetings have been held, and their good fruit has been seen. Two churches report that the religious interest was so great that daily meetings were kept up for three months, and yet there were few conversions. It may be there was too little work outside the prayer-meetings, that, had this been attended to as faithfully as the praying, there would have been different results.

But all the story will not be told if the other side of the picture be not shown. There is a good deal of meaning in the report of one that "this is camp-meeting ground and the church suffers." So it seems that extraordinary religious meetings and excitement do not always result in good. A layman reporting for one of the churches says: "It seems more difficult than twenty years ago to produce a deep and lasting impression on the hearts of hearers, as if they were questioning or doubting the truth and reality of the gospel which produces an anxious revival interest. The preacher himself seems not to have that power of the Spirit which enable him to hold or subdue the hearts of those who hear, and which convinces of sin, of righteousness and of judgment." He claims that a church, to do its legitimate work, "needs the constant interest of those who are regular attendants upon the services, shown in their courtesy and kind invitations constantly given to neglectors. These should have the most favorable report possible of the preacher as an able and faithful man."

ORGANIZATION FOR CHURCH WORK.

More than usual seems to have been done during the year in trying to reach neglectors of the sanctuary. A remark of President Bartlett at the last anniversary meeting of our missionary society, at Lancaster, to the effect that our churches ought to feel that they are called to be missionary churches and so evangelize the outlying masses, even the foreign element among us, seems to have taken root. In some places there are organizations within the church for this purpose, in others the church acts as a committee of the whole. At Lyme there is a special committee that has this matter in charge, besides other committees on benevolence and temperance. Lancaster has a "Benevolent Union" whose object is to look out for neglectors of church and Sabbath-school; to promote mutual acquaintance among regular attendants, and to welcome strangers. In Marlboro' the changing population makes it necessary that strangers be looked after and made to feel at home. At Greenville cards of invitation are distributed to outsiders. In Manchester, First Church, there is a committee of ladies for systematic calling on those who come as strangers to the services. For the purpose of giving encouragement and the right turn to the young people of the Franklin Street Church, Manchester, a "Wednesday Night Club" for social and literary culture is maintained. It also has a reading room, open every evening, for all the young women of the city who choose to patronize it, including the mill hands. This is well supplied with books and papers, and has a piano and sewing machine. Several churches have a benevolent society to look after their needy ones.

In the way of outside meetings Gilsum has a working band that holds meetings weekly. Mason has about twenty church members who have volunteered to keep up Bible services in three outside districts. At Hillsboro' Centre a Sabbath-school and meetings in an outside district have resulted in buildiug a thousand dollar hall for their accommodation. Many others, that I need not stop to name, are doing good work in this line.

I cannot leave this subject without quoting the excellent advice of Pastor Taintor, which we all shall do well to take as a maxim. It is "Do not neglect the neglectors of the sanctuary even if they neglect you." Pastor Norcross gives us another: "The best way to get an increase of a congregation is for all who belong to it to go for outsiders. Outsiders like to go with the crowd."

SABBATH-SCHOOLS.

It is evident that the Sabbath-school is coming to have a larger place in our thoughts as a means of educating in religion the rising generation. In many cases, evidently, it takes the place of home instruction, and is all the religious training that is received. This ought not so to be, but we must take facts as we find them. As a means of interesting and keeping in the Sabbath-school those who ought to be there, the library is no small factor. By the reports I should infer that more has been done in the last year, than for some time before, in the way of increasing libraries, enlarging their scope, classifying and arranging. This is well, for it makes a vast difference what our children read. It seems to be understood that a better class of books than formerly must be provided, and that it is wiser to give our youth a healthy secular book than a dull and weak religious one. One superintendent gives the younger members of his school an annual ride or picnic, which attaches them to him and to the school. In one place there is a weekly half-hour prayer-meeting especially for the school, and there we find many from it have come into the church. In another town twenty-seven have come from the school into the church, and in several others less numbers. Several speak of largely increased attendance. One pastor says his school is his most hopeful field. Why should it not be so everywhere? In one school the classes make special reports on subjects previously assigned. In this exercise much interest is taken. One church appoints a committee of six to cooperate with the superintendent in caring for the interest of the school.

A beginning has been made this year in the collecting statistics of our schools, as recommended by our Sabbath-school Secretary. These will be found in the printed report. Another year these reports ought to be improved.

TEMPERANCE.

If the reports may be trusted the interest in temperance is on the decline. If this results from the fact that there is no need of work, as one pastor says is the case in his parish, we have reason for gratitude. But this we know is not generally true. As might be expected when nothing is being done to check the evil it will increase. The devil takes no vacations.

But though a lack of interest is deplored by many, in other places there is activity. Two towns are spoken of where the sale of all intoxicants has been prohibited by vote, and the authorities see that this order is enforced. Our great hope in this work is with the young, and I find that large attention is being given to their instruction in the Sabbath-schools and by the members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. These two organizations seem to be doing the most effective work that is reported. The example of the school in Colebrook is commended to the others in the State. Nearly all the scholars are there pledged to temperance, and on the last Sabbath of each month the pledge is put before the whole school and recited in concert. At Hillsboro' Bridge they have a Roll of Honor in the school on which they endeavor to get signers to the triple pledge against strong drink, tobacco and profanity.

In Stratham prizes are offered in the day schools for the best compositions on the subject. In Lancaster and Littleton liquor dealers have been prosecuted, in the former place the women being the instigators; in the latter place three hundred and seventy-five have signed the pledge during the year. In Mason eighty-three have done the same, but some cider drinkers, even in the church, refuse to do it.

THE SABBATH.

Our pastors report and deplore the alarming increase of Sabbath desecration. The suggestions for remedying the present state or things may be classed under five heads. First, ministers should preach more frequently, pointedly, yet discriminatingly upon the subject. Second, Christians should keep the day better. They are mainly responsible for the present state of things. It should be a matter of principle with them to attend the regular services of the Sabbath, and every Sabbath. If they take the Sunday newspaper, or drive for pleasure, or visit, they must expect that the world will go a little further. Third, the children should be taught, in the home and the Sabbath-school, to reverence the day. Teach them to love a quiet day. Show them the physical need of the day of rest. Fourth, fill the day with religious work. Spiritual indolence is at the bottom of much of this evil. Under this head many suggest that we need to return to the afternoon preaching service, yet if there be but one such service get the people to go out and hold district meetings, or Sabbath-schools. A layman says: "Two services, morning and afternoon, is especially recommended. Of course the sermons must be of surpassing interest; to say the least, as interesting as an opera, or concert, or literary lecture." Permit me to suggest to the brother that the Lord will have to raise up a new class of ministers before all of us are able to do this. Probably it will be found as difficult to interest Christians in this work of reform as any one, hence, Fifth, we need genuine revivals in which the Holy Spirit shall convince of sin and show that Sabbath desecration is sin.

One brother would have tithing men appointed to enforce the law. Another suggests that the strong hand of the law be brought to bear on those who openly violate the Sabbath in pursuit of pleasure or business. One of our most successful pastors says it would be well for the General Association to recommend a day for all the ministers in this State to preach upon the subject.

BENEVOLENCE.

Not much that is new is reported concerning the benevolence of the churches. An increasing number are coming to the plan of weekly offerings in some form. Quite a number speak of an increase of giving. One brother says he is converted to the need of admitting agents into his pulpit, and that hereafter he shall welcome them. Another says that his people are discouraged by so many calls and they get over it by giving very little to any of them. In two places regular contributions are taken, and then applied to repairing their own meeting-houses.

To meet the situation of some of the poorer churches one brother suggests as a good plan to select certain causes for definite years, and in this way take all they feel they are in duty bound to help. Or, if it be preferred, two or more causes could be combined for a given contribution.

OTHER MATTERS OF INTEREST.

Only one in the active work of the ministry has been called away by death during the year,—Rev. Franklin Davis, for two years at Alton, eleven years at Newington and six years at Tamworth. His death was sudden, taking place on the cars at Ipswich, Mass., while on his way home from Boston. He was with us at our last session, probably little thinking it was his last. Rev. Jesse Page of Atkinson, retired, is the only other minister within the State whose death I have noticed. In his case the saying is disproved that a prophet is not without honor save in his own country, for he was for twenty-four years the loved pastor in his native town, where he quietly passed away, being full of years.

The church in Gilsum mourns the death of Rev. A. J. Howard, one of its deacons. For twenty-three years he was a minister of the Christian denomination, but some years since united with our church in Gilsum where he has had his home. "He was a man of sweet spirit, active, benevolent, gifted in prayer and exhortation, the leading man in the church." The church in Jaffrey has lost valued helpers in the deaths of Dea. Spaulding and Miss Wheeler; Sanbornton, in the deaths of Dea. Joseph Emery and Capt. Jonathan B. Sanborn; Stratham, in the death of Dea. George Lane, aged ninety-one; Winchester, in the death of William Smith, its "loved and venerable prayer-meeting worker."

Several churches have adopted new books of praise, much to the benefit of this part of public worship.

The interesting statement comes from Franconia that in that place there are very few people who do not attend Sabbath worship. Often three fifths of the entire population may be seen in the house of God at one time. In Lisbon the Congregational and Methodist ministers alternate in preaching at the town hall in the afternoon, thus reaching many who could not be persuaded to go into the meeting houses. In Enfield a "Look-up Legion" for youths under sixteen was started, and has accomplished good. Bedford has a church paper published monthly, and ably edited by its pastor. Goffstown has secured the pictures of all its pastors within this century. Concord, West, celebrated its jubilee with appropriate exercises last April. The forty-fifth anniversary of the settlement of Father Buxton of Webster, the oldest pastor in the State, was celebrated December last. He retires from active service, though still nominally the pastor. The church in Epping, after expending $7,000 on their house of worship, and paying the last dollar of indebtedness were so unfortunate as to loose it by fire last October. A new one is in process of erection. In Alstead a new house has been dedicated, in place of one burned. A new house is being erected in Conway.

According to our statistical returns our churches are carrying about thirty-five hundred absentees, while the narrators report only three hundred and eighty-eight members of other Congregational churches as living in their parishes. Not all reported, but enough did so to make it evident that a very large proportion of our absentees are living outside our own State.

THE FUTURE.

The outlook for the future seems to me most hopeful. The brethren seem not to have lost heart. In all the hundred and sixty-four papers I have read, very few speak in a discouraging strain. Not one of them make an allusion to what is called the New Departure, or if they do I have overlooked it. The revivals that have occurred during the year, though not so powerful as in some previous years, indicate that the Lord of the harvest has not forgotten us. I verily believe that God has better things in store for us. They may not come this year, but the harvest is as certainly promised as the seed time. I am sure that good seed has been sown, that it has been scattered in the by-ways, on the hills, in the sparcely settled communities, and this seed, in God's good time, will assuredly spring up. Some of us may not live to see it, but what matters that, since the work is of and for our Divine Master.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 1, 1883.

The affairs of this organization are in a prosperous condition, and it is rendering such assistance as comes within its province and means.

Several new applications for aid have been made to the Prudential Committee during the past year, and moderate sums donated.

Rev. Wm. R. Jewett, for many years a Trustee, has been removed by death during the year just closed. By the death of Mr. Jewett, this society loses one of its most steadfast and earnest friends, and one who contributed largely of his own means to increase its memorial membership, and much thought and labor in advancing its usefulness.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held at Concord, June 6, 1883, and was called to order by the President, Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Prayer was offered by Rev. E. H. Greeley.

Minutes of the last meeting read by the Secretary and approved. The Treasurer read his report, which was accepted and ordered to be placed on file.

Rev. C. B. Strong, of West Concord, was elected Trustee to fill vacancy caused by the death of Rev. Wm. R. Jewett.

Rev. W. H. Hubbard, of Concord, elected Trustee, in place of Rev. C. E. Harrington, removed from the State.

Dea. A. S. Hammond, of Concord, elected Trustee in place of Rev. E. G. Selden.

President—Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Secretary—R. P. Staniels.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.

Prudential Committee—Hon. J. E. Sargent, R. P. Staniels, John C. Thorn.

There being no further business to come before the Trustees, the meeting adjourned.

The Prudential Committee held a meeting immediately after the Trustees adjourned, and voted appropriations to such persons as were known to be in need of the benefits of the fund, to the amount of seven hundred and thirty-five dollars.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included. In the right hand tables, under contributions, the dotted lines indicate that there was no contribution to that object; a blank space, as before, meaning no report.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-presidents, secretary, and treasurer shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and the trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meetings of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male and female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount so subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel as held and practised by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such references as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall seem to demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added, as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regularly employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasury. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report, definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount?
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession: by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete, and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries, and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, or, if preferred, of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-anuual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, Tuesday before the first Wednesday in June.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eighty-second annual meeting of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society was holden in the meeting house of the First Congregational church in Dover, on Wednesday, Sept. 26, 1883.

The meeting for the choice of officers was called to order by the President, who assumed the chair at five o'clock P. M.

On motion it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The chair thereupon appointed Rev. Elijah Harmon, Dea. E. P. Kimball and Rev. A. E. Tracy upon that committee. They reported the following list of officers who were duly elected, viz.:

Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth; Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, M. D., Nashua, Vice-Presidents.

Rev. EDWARD H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord; GEORGE E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

Rev. F. D. AYER, Concord; Rev. QUINCY BLAKELY, Campton; Dea. A. H. DANIELS, Manchester, Trustees for three years,

At eight o'clock the President took the chair for the public services of the Annual Meeting, and called on the Rev. Charles Tenney to offer prayer.

The annual report of the Trustees was read by the Secretary, and his annual report by the Treasurer. On motion it was voted to accept these reports and order them to be printed.

The President addressed the meeting upon the value and importance of the churches in our smaller towns, as illustrated by the number and character of missionaries, ministers and other Christian workers that go out from them.

The Rev. L. H. Cobb, D. D., Secretary of the Congregational Union, gave an address on the relations of the Home Missionary work in the State to that in the West.

At the suggestion of the Trustees, through the President, it was voted to appoint a special committee to have in charge an effort, by conference with other ecclesiastical bodies in the State, and by any expedient means, to remove the great obstacle to any thorough evangelization of the State, which has arisen from the multiplication of churches in our smaller towns, the committee to be named by the President. A committee consisting of Rev. E. H. Greeley, Rev. Cyrus Richardson and Dea. A. H. Daniels were appointed.

On motion it was voted to adjourn to meet in connection with the General Association in September, 1884.

Adjourned.

EIGHTY-SECOND ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-second annual report, it being for the year ending Aug. 1, 1883.

THE TREASURY.

There remained in the treasury from the preceding year $899.06. There was received into it during the year just closed, in donations from churches and individuals, $3,852.35; from legacies, $4,357.17; from the New-Hampshire Cent Society, $2,158.19; from income of permanent funds, $2,932, and from miscellaneous sources, $43.25, making a total from all sources of $13,342.46. Of this $410.06 of donations and 1,127.45 of legacies were, by the direction of the donors, sent to the treasury at New York, leaving $11,805.51 for use in the State. There was sent from the State directly to the treasury at New York, in donations, $1,161.79; and in legacies, $1,625.88. The total amount raised in the State from all sources for home missions was $16,129.38. This does not include boxes of clothing and other valuables sent to missionary families, for an accurate estimate of which no data have been furnished.

As compared with the preceding year there was a falling off, in donations, of $1,068.73; in receipts from the Cent Society of $119.78; and in legacies of $468.12, and in the total from all sources of $1,772.84. The whole amount that went from the State into the treasury at New York for the work upon the frontier was $4,324.38—26 per cent. of the whole. We regret the falling off in donations and in the income of the Cent Society. We trust that it does not indicate a falling off of interest and sympathy in the struggle of our weaker churches, but is only one of the temporary eddies from which the main current will speedily recover itself.

THE WORK DONE.

Sixty-four missionaries have labored under the patronage of the Society in sixty-four fields,—sixty of which have organized churches and four have not,—performing, in the aggregate, forty-seven years of missionary labor. The number of missionaries is the same as in the preceding year, the number of fields occupied two less, and the years of labor the same.

Fifty-seven of these churches have, as reported, an aggregate of 2,616 members, an average of forty-six each, but of these 478, an average of eight and one half each, are non-resident. Sixty congregations report an average attendance of seventy-six each, and fifty-nine Sunday-schools report a membership of seventy-one each. The reported additions to these churches are sixty-six by profession and fifty-four by letter; the removals, thirty-nine by dismission, forty-seven by death and one by exclusion,—making a net gain of thirty-three. The benevolent contributions were, to the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society, $525.83—$104.38 more than last year; and to other objects, $1,355.63—$543.90 more; making an aggregate increase of $648.28, an advance of more than fifty per cent.

Twenty-seven missionaries occupied each the same field for the entire year, the others for a shorter period. Sixteen of the churches aided are "yoked"—ten in pairs, two with fields in which is no church, and two with churches out of the State.

The spiritual results according to the estimate, very partial at best, which we are now able to make, have not been all that could be desired, not all that was at one time hoped. There was a time in the early winter when, in many directions, the clouds seemed to be gathering for a plentiful rain, but these indications passed away like the signs of rain in a period of natural drought. But it is not a light thing that in their often peculiarly trying circumstances these churches have fully kept up their congregations and Sunday-schools and that they have made even a small gain in their membership. It is especially gratifying that, while taxing themselves quite as severely as ever before to sustain their own institutions, they have made a gain of fifty per cent. in their benevolent contributions. For the most part it requires a constant, often heroic, struggle on their part barely to live. They are in communities from which the currents of young life and enterprise and hope are constantly flowing out not to return. The most hopeful elements in the community about them are speedily drawn away. They can not be brought in to add to the permanent strength of these churches. The young who come into them are soon gone. The main dependence of many of these churches is on those who came into them a generation ago, and who are now fast going over to the better land. Our column of removals by death tells to these churches a tale of which those who simply read little dream. Churches contending with such obstacles and discouragements, of which such a record even as that of the last year can be truly written, are not dead. They are not dying. They are not going to die, most of them certainly are not going to die.

Lapse of time discloses no reason why they should be permitted to die for want of the warm, glowing sympathy and fraternal help of the more favored churches. If they were simply brothers of the old household, fallen into misfortune, every generous, fraternal feeling would prompt to run swiftly and gladly to their help. To minister to the humblest of the brethren of Christ in distress is a service peculiarly grateful to him and is not to lose its reward. But these churches are not the victims of misfortune. They have exhausted themselves but it has been for others. They have become poor that others through their proverty might be rich. Their children are everywhere, and everywhere among the foremost in every good work. They constitute very largely the vital force of the churches in our towns and of those—the hope of our country—which are springing up in the centers of future population and power. The very fact that these churches are giving of their best to such a work and that this process is likely still to go on, is one of the strongest of possible reasons why they should be sustained. It is through those who go out from our hills, animated with some measure, at least, of the true Christian spirit, that the strongest and most healthful influence is exerted upon the future of our country. As a base of supplies and also as a moral force the importance of keeping our New England churches in vigorous life is not easily overestimated. There was the truest wisdom in the recent counsel of one of the prominent pastors of the northwest—"Whatever else you in New England do, or fail to do, take care of your own churches." To send money abroad and leave our own churches to decay is very poor economy.

But if they are to be sustained the time has surely come when the work should be taken hold of with a more fixed purpose, in a more systematic way, and under a vastly higher sense of Christian obligation. It is a work to which the Head of the church calls his people. If not let it be at once abandoned. It is a most ungracious task to be dinning into reluctant ears the appeal for money to help in such a work, as if we were beggars, asking an alms, and to do this is liable, if not likely, to leave a false and injurious impression. No force of cunning persuasion or pathetic appeal should ever bring a dollar in the treasury which the Master does not plainly call for. No representations prompting to this work should ever be made which are not in full accord with the clear indications of His will. But the facts in the light of which that will is revealed should be known and carefully weighed by all our churches. When known the question not of temporary impulse but of duty, of duty guiding into a settled purpose and a permanent course of action, becomes plain. The work becomes recognized as one for the Master, to be done for him and under his eye, a work whose obligation rests alike upon all. It is a work in which all in our churches have a common interest and a common responsibility, one in which all alike should engage heartily and permanently.

It would be difficult to form an estimate which should be more than approximately correct as to the exact pecuniary demands of this work in the near future. Its exigencies are liable to vary somewhat from time to time. But all present appearances indicate its gradual enlargement. There will probably, almost certainly, be more churches requiring aid five years hence than now, to say nothing of the more than possible opening of new fields. As to the amount which should be appropriated to each field, a question in many cases not easy to adjust wisely, probably no one well acquainted with the facts would expect it to be less than now. The ability of the aided churches to pay their part is, in most cases, diminishing, and it would surely be neither just nor wise to diminish the salary of our missionaries.

Two courses are often suggested, sometimes with a tinge of impatience as if there were thought to be some remissness in the management of affairs, for diminishing the expense of the work. The one is to push forward the "yoking" of the churches, putting two or more under the care of one pastor. This process has not been carried so far as might, probably wisely, be done. The churches are generally reluctant to come into the plan, each greatly preferring, and properly, its own pastor, and to attempt to impose it by force would be manifestly unwise. But if carried to the utmost practicable extent the relief from it would be very partial. In most cases our aided churches are so remote from each other, or their circumstances are such in other respects that such "yoking" is impracticable, unless we adopt something like an itineracy or system of district missionary work. Something of this sort has often been thought of and considered, but has not commended itself as feasible at least for the present, though it may be at some future time.

The other plan suggested has at least this merit, that it ought to be much more easily carried out, and more fruitful in good results. The plan is to unite the little strife-begetting churches that are distracting and wasting the religious forces of our smaller communities into one church that shall do genuine Christian work. Would God it were done in scores of our towns whatever name the resulting church might assume. There is very little to-day that ought to divide the body of evangelical Christians in such places into contending fragments. We should repel the charge that to any considerable extent the responsibility for the existing condition of things is with us. We can claim, we think justly, to be in the true apostolical, at any rate Pauline, succession, in this at least that it is not our habit to build on other men's foundations. It is a significant fact that in a majority of cases our aided churches are the sole occupants of their respective fields, with either no other church upon the same ground or none which sustains regular preaching or any active manifestations of church life. It is our misfortune that our polity is such that members of different churches can hardly unite on a basis such as not to make them virtually a Congregational church. In many cases we wish it were otherwise. Heartily should we rejoice to see the Christian people of these smaller towns united, under whatever name, in a way to afford reasonable promise of a permanent and effective preaching of the Gospel. We are sure that the time is coming, that it cannot now be very much longer delayed, when, however it may continue to be in communities large enough to sustain several churches, in our smaller towns there will be such a cordial union of Christians of every name in one church of Christ to do the one work of Christ. We should dispair of the ultimate triumph of the cause of Christ if we could not indulge this hope. But in this respect the signs of the time are, on every hand, auspicious. It is the scandal and shame of our common Christianity that this has not long since been done. Our State would to-day exhibit a widely different religious aspect if it had been done. It is a special scandal and shame that such a movement cannot now be inaugurated with the hearty consent of all Christian people among us.

But we cannot reasonably expect any considerable lessening of our work to come about in this way, certainly not for years to come. Even if our most sanguine hopes were realized, the work would still be likely to be so much enlarged in some directions as to require as large an expenditure as now.

We cannot therefore expect, for a long time to come, to carry on this work on the scale which the providence of God is clearly pointing out as the true one, at a cost of less than $12,000.00 a year.

What we wish is to commend to the very serious attention of our pastors and churches the question whether they will not, one and all, take hold of this matter in such an earnest, systematic, persistent, way that the required amount shall be forthcoming year by year with the regularity of seed time and harvest, given cheerfully, heartily, out of genuine loyalty to the Master and to his cause. It would be a libel on the members of our churches to say that they would not contribute this amount in this spirit if only their attention were properly turned to the claims which this work of evangelizing our State has upon them. The amount required is not large, the tax would not be burdensome. If every church will see to it that its direct contributions to this cause are not less than an average of fifty cents for each of its members,—churches of larger ability contributing a proportionately larger amount—the full amount will be reached. Surely this amount is not so large as to constitute an oppressive burden, or even as at all to impair the ability to give liberally to other good objects.

Shall not this be done? Does not the Master expect at least so much? A considerable number of our churches, and those by no means the most able, have for years been doing more than this. What churches will pledge themselves, what pastors will give a pledge for their churches, for a yearly contribution to our Society that shall at least equal the average of fifty cents for each member?

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state, and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations in this state. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers, and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath of September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial standing with this General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its roll, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9 : 30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

10 : 30 A. M. Brief reports of delegates to foreign bodies, after which shall be a presentation of benevolent causes, only three of which, in addition to the state auxiliaries, shall be presented at any meeting. No cause shall be presented oftener than once in two years, and the order of rotation shall be: 1st year, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Congregational Publishing Society, Congregational Union; 2d year, American Missionary Association, Tract Society, Seaman's Friend Society.

2 P. M. Business of the Association.

2 : 30 P. M. Narrative of the state of religion, with additional statements respecting revivals, and other facts of interest.

4 P. M. Discussion of question relating to Sabbath-schools, or a children's meeting.

7 P. M. Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund.

7 : 30 P. M. Anniversary of the New Hampshire Missionary Society.

Thursday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9 : 30 A. M. Presentation of the religious condition of Dartmouth college.

10 : 30 A. M. Discussion of questions.

2 P. M. The Association will attend religious services, in which a sermon shall be delivered by a minister previously appointed, and our Lord's death commemorated in the Sacrament of the Supper.

All sessions shall be interspersed with devotional exercises, with a morning prayer-meeting each day, at such time as the Committee of Arrangements shall deem best.

MINUTES.

The General Association of New Hampshire met, for its seventy-fifth annual meeting, in the Congregational church at Newport, Tuesday, September 16th, at 7 o'clock, P. M.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Franklin D. Ayer. Text —Isa. 52:1:—"Awake, awake, put on strength, O Zion." Subject—The Church's Strength.

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

8:30 o'clock. Devotional meeting, led by Mr. Allen Folger.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Albert Watson.

Rev. Edward G. Selden, Hon. George E. Jenks, and Rev. Albert B. Peabody were chosen Committee of Inquiry.

Rev. Moses T. Runnels was chosen a member of the Committee of Nominations, to serve three years. Rev. George Dustan was appointed on this committee pro tem in the absence of Rev. John W. Lees.

The report of the treasurer was read and accepted.

Voted, To assess at the rate of four cents a member on the total membership of our churches, for the expenses of the Association, the sum called for by the National Council, and the deficit of this year that arises from the fact that the Council's assessment was not made until after the sum was voted by the Association last year.

Voted, That the treasurer be directed to borrow the sum of one hundred fifty dollars, that the amount due the National Council may be paid at once.

Voted, to print next year 1,500 copies of the Minutes.

The committee on the Protection of the Family Institution reported through the chairman, Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D. After discussion, Voted, That a committee of five be appointed to act upon the recommendations contained in this report.

Appointed Rev. George B. Spalding, D. D, Hon. Isaac W. Smith, Rev. Edward H. Greeley, Hon. John J. Bell, and Hon. Lyman D. Stevens.

10:30 o'clock. Singing.

Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D.D., as delegate to the Baptist Convention, and Rev. George W. Grover, as delegate to Andover Theological Seminary, reported.

Miss Alice C. Merriam presented the claims of the Woman's Home Missionary Association.

Rev. Stedman W. Hanks presented the claims of the American Seaman's Friend Society.

Rev. Marshall M. Cutter presented the claims of the American Tract Society.

Rev. Charles L. Woodworth, D. D., presented the claims of the American Missionary Association.

Rev. John W. Scribner presented the fraternal greetings of the Free Baptist Yearly Meeting, Rev. Frank T. Latham those of the Baptist Convention, and Rev. James Noyes of the Methodist Episcopal Conference.

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Charles L. Woodworth, D. D.

Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D., Mr. Allen Folger and Rev. William A. Rand, previously appointed a committee to draft resolutions on temperance, reported the following, which were adopted:—

Resolved, That we, the General Association of New Hampshire, extend to the citizens of Maine our congratulations for the noble stand taken by them in the cause of prohibition, by the passage of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and we wait in hope that a similar step will be taken ere long in our own State.

Resolved, That we regard the enforcement of the prohibitory laws of this State as indispensible to the triumph of the cause of temperance, and we hail the formation of Law and Order Leagues as a promise of great good.

Resolved, That we, as members of this Association, will keep the questions of temperance and prohibition before our people by frequent preaching and personal work.

Communications were read from the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and from a committee appointed by the National Council on Sunday-schools. The latter was referred to Rev. George W. Grover, Rev. Albert Watson and Dea. William G. Brown as a committee.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1885, which was adopted:—

Essay—The unity of the Scriptures to be found in the mission and character of Jesus Christ. Primary, Rev. George E. Hall; Substitute, Rev. Gabriel Campbell.

Discussion—1. How far can families safely delegate to the Sunday-school the religious training of children? Primary, Rev. Daniel H. Colcord; Substitute, Rev. Edgar T. Farrill.

2. Shall we endorse the new creed? PRIMARIES:—Rev. George W. Grover, Affirmative; Rev. Albert Peabody, Negative. SUBSTITUTES:—Rev. Charles F. Carter, Affirmative; Rev. Theodore C. Jerome, Negative.

3. Can the church do more to develop a temperance sentiment and practice in our families and communities? Primary, Hon. George E. Jenks; Substitute, Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D.

2:30 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Edward G. Selden.

Rev. Samuel L. Gerould read the narrative of the state of religion. This was followed by remarks upon the state of the churches.

3:30 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D.

Rev. Theodore C. Pease read an essay on "The religion of the future not a natural religion; or the necessity of the supernatural in religion."

4 o'clock. Rev. George Dustan opened a discussion on "The claim of the Sabbath-school on the entire membership of a church for active interest."

4:30 o'clock. The Committee of Nominations reported the following, which was adopted:

Place of Meeting in 1885—Nashua, First Church.

Committee of Arrangements—Rev. Cyrus Richardson, Hon. Edward Spalding, M. D., William W. Bailey.

Preacher before the Sacrament—Rev. Charles N. Flanders, Primary; Rev. Charles A. G. Thurston, Substitute.

Delegates to Andover Seminary—Rev. George I. Bard, Primary; Rev. Moses T. Runnels, Substitute.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

7 o'clock. In the absence of the secretary, Rev. Franklin D. Ayer made some statements in regard to the Minister's and Widow's Charitable Fund, and he was followed by Rev. Cyrus W. Wallace, D. D. A collection was taken for the cause amounting to $46.38.

The Association then gave way to the anniversary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

THURSDAY MORNING.

6 o'clock. Prayer meeting, led by Rev. Samuel L. Gerould.

8:30 o'clock. Prayer meeting, led by Rev. John Bragdon.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Benjamin Merrill.

Adopted the following:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, two of whom at least shall be residents of Concord, to take into consideration and report next year, what can be done by way of providing rooms in Concord that shall be the office of publication of the New Hampshire Journal, the office of the secretary and treasurer of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the Female Cent Institution, the Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund, and the depository of the New Hampshire Bible Society, if possible; the rooms to be regarded the head quarters of the denomination of this state, and to be kept open during business hours.

Rev. Samuel L. Gerould, Hon John Kimball and Rev. Franklin D. Ayer were appointed the committee on the above resolution.

Voted, That the secretary be requested to send to each active minister in the state, before the annual meetings of the Association, a notification of the time and place of the meeting, the principle exercises thereof, and arrangements that may be made for reduced fare on the railroads.

Adopted the following:

Resolved, That the Association hereby expresses its gratitude to the people of Newport for their hearty and generous entertainment of the visitors at this meeting; to the Congregational Church for the use of its house of worship; to the choir for its assistance at the various services; to the railroads granting special favors to those attending this meeting; and to the United States and Canada Express for favors in the distribution of the Minutes.

9:30 o'clock. Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D., reported the condition of Dartmouth College. He was followed by Rev. Gabriel Campbell.

The committee to whom was referred the communication from the National Council, concerning Sunday-school work, recommended the following, which was adopted:

First, That a State Committee on Sabbath-school work be appointed, whose duty it shall be to consider the requests made by the National Committee, and, if in their judgment it may be deemed expedient, provide information to be laid before the churches on topics relating to Sunday-school interests, and to suggest ways and means by which the requests of the National Committee may be put into material execution. If not overstepping the limits of our duty, we would venture to suggest that the committee be composed as follows:—Rev. Cyrus Richardson, to serve three years, Hazen Bradley of Concord, to serve two years, and Rev. John M. Dutton, to serve one year; a member of the committee to be chosen hereafter each year, the term of office, except as above provided, to be three years.

Second, That so far as practicable the first five of the questions proposed in the letter of the National Committee be incorporated in the annual report of the State Committee to the General Association.

Third, That the second Sabbath in June be observed as Children's Day.

10:30 o'clock. A discussion was opened by Rev. Alfred E. Tracy on the question, "Is there in our day a decay of Conscience?"

11 o'clock. Rev. John L. Merrill read a paper on "What kind of worship and how many services are needed to answer the requirements of Sabbath observance, to establish a community in the Christian faith and to further the interests of Christ's Kingdom?"

Adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. The sermon before the Sacrament was preached by Rev. Elijah Harmon. Text—Gen. 5:24.—"And Enoch walked with God." Theme—"Walking with God."

Rev. Cyrus Richardson and Rev. Cassander C. Samson officiated at the Communion table.

Adjourned.

JOHN J. BELL, Moderator.

EDGAR T. FARRILL, Scribe.

JOHN C. ROLLINS, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

"By their fruits shall ye know them," is the test the Master left by which men, and the acts of men, are to be tried. It is to be applied in no narrow, bigoted manner, but in the spirit of charity that thinketh no evil. But in the application of this test we often misjudge men, for the reason that our post of observation is not sufficiently commanding. No one of us is able to discern all the fruit that may be borne by those around us; He who is to be our final Judge alone is able to see it.

As we judge of men so we do of associations of men. Even the church of the living God must be subjected to the same test. The question is asked concerning it, what has it accomplished for God and humanity? What has it done that should commend it to us, and as a reason why we should commend it to the world? If we discover nothing of good we judge it to be a dead church, of no value to its members, or to the world, and like all dead matter we deem it fitting to have it buried out of sight.

At this our annual gathering it is our custom to review the work of our churches, and look at what has been accomplished during the year. But we must remember that the fruit is not of any one kind. Doubtless nothing would give greater joy and encouragement than to hear that sinners, in large numbers, had been gathered into the Kingdom of Christ. But if such a showing cannot be made, it does not follow that our churches have been idle, or that they have borne no fruit that was good. The farmer rejoices in his bounteous harvests, but he neither spends, nor expects to spend, all his time and strength in gathering ripened sheaves. More time must be given to preparation for the harvest than in reaping it. So far the analogy holds true in the spiritual world, but it does not follow that the sheaves are all to be gathered in the course of a few weeks, and no more to be expected for months or years. There ought to be constant ingatherings, and if these are looked for doubtless they will come.

I have thought it might be well on this occasion to review more than the single year just closed. The work of a church cannot all be seen in a given year; to see its real fruit we need to survey a number of years, and so I have engrossed the statistical summaries, as given, back to 1850, and from this array of figures will give such items as may go to show our real condition.

The first thing we notice is that there has been a slight increase in the number of churches. This, surely, is encouraging when we take into consideration the fact of the decrease of population in many of the towns. Eight churches have been dropped and eleven have been organized during this period. I find the Baptists have organized the same number, and it may be presumed the Methodists have added as many more, to say nothing of other evangelical denominations; how many they may have dropped I have no means of knowing. All these are, or ought to be, centers of Christian influence from which the state should receive good. Another picture is revealed, however, in the fact that the vacant churches have just doubled during the period under consideration.

In some quarters a good deal is said about the decrease of ministers. So far as New Hampshire is concerned there has been an increase, there being thirty-two more than in 1850. Following the revivals of 1857–8 there was an increase from an average of about one hundred fifty to one hundred eighty-five, just the number last reported. Of ministers employed, however, there were twenty-two more then than now.

In this connection I would say it is becoming more and more difficult for a minister to find a people, and for a people to find a minister. Some of our churches, notably the very weakest in the sisterhood, are crying out for ministers, and yet when they are sent the people are not satisfied with them. The churches desire ministers of large brains who can live on small salaries; and not unlikely ministers with small brains desire churches that pay large salaries. The system of "candidating," as now carried on, is working injury to the churches and destroying the manliness of ministers. Some of our churches, however, have already learned a better way than trusting a smooth face and a glib tongue, and these have nothing to do with an army of candidates.

In regard to membership I find we have twelve hundred fifty-seven more than ten years ago; five hundred seventy-nine more than twenty years ago, and one hundred and twenty-three more than thirty years ago. If other denominations are making similar progress, and I believe they are, this is cause for encouragement. We are not declining as rapidly as some have thought. Situated as we are it is no small thing to hold our own, and this we have done and more. Since 1850 the largest number reported was in 1879, when we had twenty-one thousand, four hundred sixty-eight members; the next largest number was in 1858, following the general revivals, when we numbered twenty-one thousand, two hundred forty-four. In the same period, with the exception of the years 1850, 1851 and 1869, we do not fall below nineteen thousand.

By the same comparisons I find that our additions from year to year are relatively the same, excepting, of course, the periods of general revivals. There have been twelve years out of the thirty-five under review when there were fewer additions than in the year just closed. There were, however, more additions by confession last year than in any year since 1879. If our statistics are worth anything they conclusively show that the "good old times," we sometimes hear about, if they existed at all, must have been before 1850.

By these statements I would encourage no one to feel that we are doing all we should do. Much of New Hampshire is real missionary ground, and, so far as the population is concerned, as much in need of the gospel as the west. Home evangelization has occupied too little of our thought. Our strength has mainly been spent in nursing our churches. It may be if we had thought less of ourselves, and more of bringing in those outside the sanctuary, and in carrying the Gospel to outlying communities, giver and receiver alike would have been blessed.

Since the general abandonment of the second preaching service more attention than before has been given to out-district meetings, but with varying success. In most instances, not all that was hoped has been accomplished. According to the reporters, themselves, the reason for failure, where there has been failure, has been that they were entered on with little of real expectation, or faith, that they would be attended with a blessing. It has been hoped for and prayed for, yet has not come. "According to your faith be it unto you." Does not this just about exactly measure the spiritual fruit we have gathered?

As we are making a retrospect let us pursue it a little further. Under the head of removals I find that for the last twenty-five years, if I except two years, the deaths vary but little from year to year. The range of dismissals are greater, being from one hundred ninety-seven to six hundred forty-four. The smallest number of excluded is nine; the largest two hundred thirty-one, but nearly two hundred of these were simply dropped from the rolls of three churches. The total removals run from four hundred fifty-six, the year of fewest deaths, to ten hundred ninety-five, the year of largest additions and dismissions.

Under baptisms it is shown that the additions to the churches from the revivals of 1857–8 included more in proportion who had been baptised in infancy than that of 1875–6; that is, the latter revival reached more of those outside Christian families. Infant baptism is steadily declining. The first named revival gave it an increase, but the latter did not. The report of 1883 gave us the smallest number; that of this year is equalled in fewness by only three years. It is probably true that the decrease is partly occasioned by the fact that there are fewer children in Christian families than formerly, a fact that may have some relation to the low state of religion.

By many the Sunday school is looked upon as the future hope of the church. I am sorry to say that the last report gives us a less number in it than any year since the returns were made. In 1878 we had the largest number, and we are now thirty-four hundred and eighty fewer than then. Since that year there has been a steady falling off, which can be no cause for encouragement to us to-day. But this does not tell all the story. There is little doubt that the quality of the instruction, and the amount of Bible truth conveyed in the teaching of to-day, is greater than that of twenty-five years ago. But there is still a large opportunity for improvement. One of the greatest difficulties now encountered in Sunday school work is in obtaining suitable teachers. We are getting to feel that one is not competent to teach in a district school who has not made the art of teaching a study. If it is important in secular instruction, much more is it in that which pertains to spiritual interests. And this is becoming recognized. That they may qualify themselves for the position, some are pursuing the Chautauqua course of study; others are availing themselves of the normal instruction furnished at the Framingham assembly. Though not distinctively fitting for Sunday school work, many reading clubs have been formed, after the plan sent out by the New England Reading Circle. In time we shall have a better trained corps of teachers than now.

Our charitable collections were first reported in 1855, but were not again mentioned for ten years. In the mean time they had more than doubled, going from twenty-one thousand, to forty-four thousand dollars. We must remember, however, that the purchasing power of the latter sum was but little more than the former. Last year, on a gold basis, we gave nearly thirty-nine thousand dollars. What is given for the great missionary enterprises of the day is a very fair register of the spiritual condition of the church. It is a matter of regret, therefore, that these returns are not more carefully given; ministers and church clerks sometimes writing against the question "don't know," even when the church has made liberal offerings. My experience in the collection of statistics has convinced me that less reliance can be placed on these returns than on any of the others.

Having concluded our longer retrospect let us now look at what has been done during the year. Reports of REVIVALS of more or less power come from fifteen or more of our churches. In one of the places there had been serious misunderstandings in the church; the members were divided among themselves, the ill feeling being very strong. This might have continued, but certain ones felt that their duty was not done until they had made an effort to bring about a reconciliation. This was entered on carefully and prayerfully, and the result was that the breaches were healed, the people came together with one heart and one mind, they sought God's blessing, and it came. Herein is a lesson to all, that if we would have a revival we are not simply to pray and wait for it, but pray, labor and wait. Wisely directed, prayerful effort is sure to be followed by spiritual quickening. In many of our fields there are difficulties in the church that are keeping away the Holy Spirit. The history of God's dealing with the church under review is worthy their consideration.

In one of the revivals reported the conversion of one of the most notoriously wicked men in the place, and a drunkard withal, is mentioned. He is now an active member of the church. The Gospel ought to reach more just such cases as this. Why does it not? Are we expecting it will? Our Lord's answer to unbelief and unfruitfulness is, "This kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." I have already stated that efforts in outdistricts in many cases had not been attended with that measure of success that was desired, yet this has not been the universal experience. Some of the revivals have been in these obscure parts of the towns, and from them a blessing has come to the home church. East Alstead, Brentwood, Derry First Church, Exeter, Fitzwilliam, Franconia, Hampton, Henniker, where five family altars have been set up, Hillsboro' Center, Hollis, Hopkinton, Kensington, Nashua First, and North Hampton, with others, perhaps, not reported to me, are the churches that have been specially refreshed. Besides these there are nearly as many more where the Holy Spirit's presence has been manifest in the quickening of Christians, and in the conversion of some. Apparently the most powerful revival of the year has been in Winchester, the Methodist church working with ours, and both sharing largely in the blessing. Public services were maintained for several weeks by three different evangelists following each other. About one hundred have expressed a hope in Christ.

In this connection I must not fail to mention the tribute that is paid to Messrs. Folger and Jackson by pastors who have been encouraged, and churches that have been helped, by their labors. They have held a series of meetings in many of our towns, and often with cheering results,—never with harm either to pastor or people, so far as reported.

There are those, also, whose names are not mentioned in public, of whom, perhaps, the Lord says, they have done "more than they all." A pastor bears this tribute to one in his parish, a domestic in one of his families, that she has been the means not only of bringing her whole Sunday school class to Christ, but also the twelve or thirteen others in the congregation who have expressed a hope.

Under the head of NEW METHODS I find one church enjoining on those who attend the prayer-meetings that every one shall take some part, and as a consequence nearly as many attend as are found in the preaching services of the Sabbath. I am sure you all will bear me out in saying that activity in a prayer-meeting usually will keep the Christian's armor bright; but if he attends simply to listen when he ought to speak it will not be long before he stays away. There is hardly anything human so much needed by us pastors as the ability to set our church members to work. One church has tried the plan of staying away from the prayer-meeting altogether, but it was not found that abstinence produced hunger, and they were resumed. In Deerfield the three churches hold union meetings on Sabbath evenings, alternating between the three meeting houses. On Tuesday evening they all meet together at the town house, and once in two or three weeks they meet at the same place for union Bible study. Societies of Christian Endeavor have been found helpful in several places. One pastor refers to his monthly concert as arousing interest; another mentions a book club, and still another the organization of a young people's meeting in connection with a class in botany.

Some of us will remember that when the Second Church in Keene was organized it was on the plan of free sittings. Sixteen years' trial has proved it a failure, and it now rents its pews, largely gaining in income by it, though losing a legacy of $1000 by so doing. Many of us, I think, will regret the necessity of abandoning this plan, though not doubting the wisdom of the church in coming to this decision.

It is apparent that there is a growing interest in the spiritual welfare of CHILDREN. More and more is done to lead them to make an early decision to become followers of Christ. Child piety is believed in as once it was not. Not a few of the additions to our churches during the year have been of children under twelve years of age; in one case a child of eight was received. "For a week before the communion," her pastor says, "she thought and talked much about joining the church, and not being encouraged she insisted on it, saying 'I love Jesus and Jesus loves me.' Believing her mother to be the best judge of her fitness to join the church, the case was submitted to her decision; and from her report and the subsequent examination it was voted unanimously that she be received."

Sermons to children are preached by an increasing number of pastors. Children's Sunday is coming to be observed, when a special effort is made to reach them. It is submitted if it would not be well to make every Sunday a children's day. Meetings for young people are held in several parishes. Two or three pastors speak of Sunday school teachers aiming personally to reach and influence their scholars to become Christians.

In the way of increasing general interest and activity, the Sunday school of the First Church in Keene supports a pupil in a mission school in Turkey; in one or two places prizes are offerred those who bring in, and keep a year, the largest number of new scholars. One pastor has induced many of his young people to plant missionary gardens, the avails of which are to be used for benevolent purposes. They are taught that every stroke of work, every weed pulled or kept down, is done for God.

This year, for the first time, I have called for the CONTRIBUTIONS BY THE SUNDAY SCHOOL. The amount contributed by the school in Hinsdale was so exceptionally large that I wrote the superintendent to learn how it had been brought about. His reply may be summed up in these words: Having an object for which to give, and pledging the individuals of the school to give systematically. The school numbers one hundred seventy-five scholars, its average attendance is one hundred fifteen, and it has contributed $135.35,—a model school. Had the giving in the other schools been in the same proportion our Sunday schools would have contributed $16,715.93.

The methods pursued by the church in this place to reach the NEGLECTORS OF THE SANCTUARY is so unusual, as reported, that it is worth repeating, and copying by other churches. A visiting committee is appointed whose duty it is to call on and invite those not attending worship elsewhere; to call on strangers coming to town to reside, and invite them, and to visit the destitute and churchless sick. When a new face appears the person is cordially welcomed and made to feel at home. The last item is quite as important as the others.

This question among others was submitted to the churches for their report: "Why have you gathered so LITTLE FRUIT during the past year?" The answers are various. Some pastors blame themselves; some blame their churches; some express the idea that when the fruit is ripe it can be gathered, not before; others that the people have the idea that revivals and ingatherings must be periodic, and the last year was not their period. I should be glad to quote what many say under this head, but the major part of the replies can be no better expressed than in the words of pastor Richardson, of Nashua, who says, "Failure to obtain better results is due to the fact we have not done a sufficient amount of aggressive work, with the Holy Ghost's presence and power." Another pastor, whose church has been greatly blessed during the year, says, "Among the unconverted there is a strong undercurrent of scepticism, sufficient to lead them to feel that they are all right as they are, good enough, good as many Christians, hence they need no religion, no Savior. Often they are offended if strongly urged to flee from the wrath to come. The fact that some professed evangelical ministers preach smooth things, and an easy religion, makes them very impatient when they hear the old fashioned arguments and appeals, based on their guilty and perishing condition."

Evidently there has been but little gain on the whole in the cause of TEMPERANCE and good morals. Some towns have succeeded in suppressing the sale of strong drink, in some its use seems to be on the increase. The children in a few Sunday schools have been pledged against its use. In one of the larger towns the citizens have banded to suppress the traffic. From the tone of the reports I learn that the feeling is quite common that the day is not far distant when this cause is to make a decided onward movement.

OUTSIDE ORGANIZATIONS are acting as a grevious hindrance, sapping the life of many of our churches. Inasmuch as the members so generally feel that their first obligation is to their lodge, they are making a draft on the time and means of Christians that ought to be devoted to the church. Some of our pastors think if they could only see the same interest in the gatherings and work of the church, they should feel that the dawn of the millennium could not be far off. On the other hand one brother, whose church work is almost blocked by the demands of another organization, philosophically congratulates himself that it is better for his people to be at their lodges than at the saloon. It is very certain that these orders would not long survive if as little interest was manifested in them as in the church.

The outlook, on the whole, though not all that could be desired, is encouraging. There ought to have been aggressive Christian work, with faith that will not let go until the blessing comes. I think it true that great revivals come only by periods; but it is equally true that God is willing to add to the church each year. It should be expected. We dishonor God, and defraud ourselves, by our small ingatherings. May another year give us a better showing.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 1, 1884.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held in Concord, June 11, 1884, the President, Hon. J. E. Sargent, presiding.

Prayer was offered by Rev. F. D. Ayer.

Minutes of the last annual meeting, and also of meetings of the Prudential Committee during the past year, were read by the Secretary and approved.

The Treasurer read his report, which was accepted and ordered to be placed on file.

Officers for the ensuing year were then elected by ballot as follows:

President—Hon. J. E. Sargent.
Secretary—R. P. Staniels.
Treasurer—John C. Thorn.
Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.
Prudential Committee—Hon. J. E. Sargent, R. P. Staniels, John C. Thorn.

There being no further business to be transacted the meeting adjourned.

At a meeting of the Prudential Committee held in Concord upon the 19th day of July, such appropriations were made to beneficiaries as seemed wise and prudent, and the Treasurer was authorized to pay over the sums voted to the persons named.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included. In the right hand tables, under contributions, the dotted lines indicate that there was no contribution to that object; a blank space, as before, meaning no report.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1 This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-presidents, secretary, and treasury shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male or female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel held and practiced by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such references as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added, as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regularly employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected

The attention of churches asking aid, and of missionaries is respectfully but very earnestly called to these rules. Mistakes causing much perplexity and loss of time, and often great disappointment, are constantly made for want of attention to them. All church committees and missionaries have access to them and are without excuse if they do not consult them.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasurer. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount?
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete, and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be address to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, and a payment of $50 into its treasury to become a life member of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, in the month of May at the call of the secretary.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Society held its eighty-third annual meeting in the meeting-house of the Congregational church in Newport on Wednesday, Sept. 17, 1884.

The meeting for the choice of officers was held at five o'clock P. M., the President, Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D. D., in the chair.

On motion it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to nominate officers for the ensuing year. Rev. Elijah Harmon, Dea. W. W. Russell and Rev. Albert Watson were appointed upon that committee. They reported the following list of officers who were duly elected, viz.:

Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth; Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, M. D., Nashua, Vice Presidents.

Rev. EDWARD H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord; GEORGE E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

Hon. DEXTER RICHARDS, Newport; Rev. JOHN M. DUTTON, Lebanon; Rev. GEORGE E. STREET, Exeter, Trustees for three years.

At half past seven the President assumed the chair for the public services of the annual meeting. Prayer was offered by Rev. G. I. Bard.

The Treasurer, Hon. L. D. Stevens, read his annual report, and the annual report of the Trustees was read by the Secretary. On motion it was voted that these reports be accepted and the usual number be printed.

The President then addressed the meeting upon the importance of sustaining the churches in the country towns of the State, illustrating by historical references to the work accomplished by them in the past. He was followed by the Rev. A H. Clapp, D. D., Treasurer of the American Home Missionary Society, who spoke of the relations of the work in New England to that in other parts of the country, and of the present condition and needs of the Home Missionary work at large. At the close of his address it was voted to adjourn to meet in connection with the General Association in Nashua in Sept. 1885.

EIGHTY-THIRD ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-third annual report, it being for the year ending Aug. 1, 1884.

THE TREASURY.

The remainder in the treasury, from last year, was $1,481.91. There was received into it during the year, in donations from churches and individuals, $4,229.42; from the New-Hampshire Cent Society, $2,173.37; from legacies, $2,837.93; from income of permanent funds, $3,005.00, and from miscellaneous sources, $118.16. There were also received in donations, paid by direction of donors, to the American Home Missionary Society, $1,018.40, and of legacies intended for the same object, $25.00. The total amount received into the treasury was $13,407.28. In addition to this there was sent from the state to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, in donations, $1,845.18, and in legacies, $1,758.91. The whole amount contributed for home missions in the state for the year was $17,011.37.

The aggregate amount of donations was $2,098.86 larger than in the preceding year; the income of the Ladies' Cent Society was $15.18 larger than last year; the receipts from legacies were $1,361.21 less than last year, and the aggregate receipts from all sources $882 larger than last year. Apart from legacies the increase over last year was $2,243.22. This result demonstrates a considerably increased interest in home missions on the part of our churches. The amount expended within the state for all purposes was $10,904.27,—$298.33 less than last year.

THE WORK DONE.

Sixty-eight missionaries have been in the employ of the Society for a longer or shorter period during the year,—twenty-seven for the entire year. These have labored in sixty-four different fields, in three of which there is no church, and have performed in the aggregate forty-three and one-half years of missionary labor. The number of fields is the same as last year, the number of missionaries four greater, and the years of labor three and a half less. The larger number of missionaries employed, and the less number of years of labor performed, have grown out of the impossibility of finding a sufficient number of acceptable permanent laborers, compelling a resort to such temporary supplies as were available.

Fifty-four of these churches report an aggregate membership of 2,456, an average of forty-five and one-half each. Fifty-five Sabbath-schools report an aggregate of 4,009, an average of seventy-three each. Fifty-nine congregations report an aggregate average attendance of 4,700, seventy-nine and one half each. Fifty-three churches report an aggregate of one hundred and six additions by profession, and fifty-two by letter, one hundred and fifty-eight in all, and forty-five removals by death, twenty-four by dismission, and one by exclusion, seventy one in all, making their aggregate net gain eighty-seven,—3½ per cent. of their total membership. This is not certainly a large gain, not as large as at one time there seemed to be good reason to expect, but it is much larger, relatively, than that of the stronger and more favored churches. No churches prize such privileges as they have more highly, or make a better use of them; none are more ready to make personal sacrifices to sustain the institutions of the gospel; none are more vigorously and earnestly aggressive in their efforts to bring the surrounding population under the influence of the gospel; none show a better right to live as churches, or a better claim to the hearty fraternal sympathy of other churches.

The reported benevolent contributions of fifty churches, are to our society, $371.80, and to other objects, $1,466.77, a falling off from last year of $42.89.

THE FUTURE OF THE SOCIETY, AND ITS WORK.

It may not be amiss to attempt, so far as we can in the light of the past and of present providential indications, to forecast the place and work of our society in the coming years. A brief survey of the past may serve to throw light upon the future. It was in the revivals which swept over the state, and in fact over a large part of our country, from 1830 to 1835, that the work of our society received a new impulse, and the society became inspired with a settled purpose which it has never lost. Of the annual meeting in 1832 it is recorded that, "at the close of the missionary sermon, in the afternoon, a missionary spirit broke out, and pervaded the great congregation, and such a scene opened as never before was witnessed in New Hampshire. It was resolved to raise the ensuing year $6,000 for the New Hampshire Missionary Society, and a large portion of it was pledged on the spot. The collection, including money and jewelry, was liberal beyond the expectation of the largest hearts. Old Testament times seemed to have returned when they came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted, and brought bracelets and ear-rings, and rings and tablets, all jewels of gold, and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the Lord."

Under this impulse the society in 1834, just fifty years ago, touched its high water mark hitherto, in the number—seventy-seven—of fields occupied, and also in the number—fifty—of years of labor performed, though the number of its missionaries —sixty-two—was less than were in its employ last year. But soon we hear the old complaint, "The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few." Competent men in sufficient numbers for the work could not be found, and the enthusiasm of that memorable meeting evidently, as the years went on, abated somewhat, but an impress was then and there stamped upon the society, which it has not lost yet, and, please God, shall not lose till its mission is fulfilled and its work done.

In 1844 the Society occupied forty-five fields, employing forty-three missionaries; in 1854 it occupied forty-nine fields, employing forty-six missionaries, and performing thirty-six years of labor; in 1864 it occupied forty-one fields, employing thirty-eight missionaries, and performing thirty-four years of labor; in 1874 it occupied forty-three fields, employing forty-three missionaries, and performing twenty-seven years of labor; and in 1884, as we have seen, it occupied sixty-four fields, employing sixty-eight missionaries, and performing forty-three and one-half years of labor.

It will be seen that there has been, especially in the last ten years, a very considerable enlargement of the work of the society. Has it been called for, and is the demand for it likely to continue? A brief but careful survey of the field will help to answer these questions. Of the 191 churches of our order in the state, as reported, seventy-five are unable to sustain the permanent preaching of the gospel, without aid from abroad. In the case of nearly all this inability is, for the present at least, such as to admit of no doubt or question. No reasonable man, knowing all the facts, would expect these churches to raise the money requisite for self-support. Of the seventy-five churches in this condition, ten seem likely to become extinct, from various causes, the principal one being the dying out of the communities about them. In the case of nineteen there is some hope, rising in a few cases to a probability, that they will become, in no very long time, self-supporting. Of the churches now self-supporting there are twelve which, as things appear to-day, can hardly fail to be compelled, within the next few years, to call upon our society for aid.

It is therefore evident that there is no reasonable ground of expectation that there will be, within the next twenty years at least, less than sixty of our churches, which ought by the clearest right to live, churches which form a vital portion of the religious forces of the state, which have done, and are doing, and will do, for the cause at home and abroad, work of the highest importance. Sixty such churches at the least will continue to be dependent on the aid of our society to enable them to sustain the institutions of the gospel. Probably the number will be considerably more than sixty.

But this is not the whole of the field which the society is called upon to occupy. Of the 267 towns of the state, 166 have Congregational or Presbyterian churches, leaving 101 which have no churches of our order. Most of these latter have only a small, many of them a quite small population. Most of them have at least occasional preaching of some sort. A large part of them have churches, in name at least, and, in some cases, vigorous and well sustained churches. So far as the religious wants of these communities are even tolerably well supplied with any evangelical preaching of their own choice, our society has no call or disposition to interfere. We gladly leave such fields to our evangelical brethren, of whatever name, who have the occupancy of, and are ready effectively to cultivate them. We have no disposition to engage in the unholy and baneful strife to multiply churches on fields whose every additional church would be only a source of weakness, or a scandal and shame to our common Christianity. Our society does not exist for denominational propagandism. Its one grand purpose is to secure the evangelizing of the state. We are Congregationalists indeed, and by a preference as intelligent, and based on a conviction as profound, as that which binds our brethren of other names to the denomination of their choice. In the division of labor necessary for the present, at least, we have some special care of Congregational churches. We purpose to stand by their right to be, and to continue Congregational, if they so choose, and to help them to live, and to do the work entrusted to them. But when it can be said that the whole state is in any true and permanent sense evangelized, the work of this society will be done, whatever name any or all of the churches, of that happy period, may assume.

But while we have no purpose to build on other men's foundations, to plant rival churches, or to enter in any way into a struggle for denominational mastery, it is very evident that in this class of towns there is much, and important work, probably a constantly increasing work, for this society to do in the coming years.

This survey of the field makes it evident that, large as are the proportions of the work of this society for a State no larger than our own, they are not likely to diminish in the near future. They are more likely to increase, though the increase will probably not be very large. There is one thing which might, to some extent, lessen the demands of the work, namely, the prevalence of a spirit of interdenominational comity and courtesy, for the coming of which we hope, and fervently pray. But the fact that thirty-five of the sixty-one churches, aided last year, are virtually sole occupants of their respective fields, shows that, even under the most favorable circumstances, much less is to be hoped for in this direction than is often supposed. There is nothing apparent in any direction to justify the expectation that this society will be less needed, or have a less important work to do, for a score of years to come than at any time in the past.

This condition of things needs to be understood and appreciated by the churches. The work is theirs, laid upon them by unmistakable tokens in the providence of God. No duty is plainer, in no respect is the will of the Master more clear. The burden is by no means a heavy one, if all will cheerfully bear their part. The expenditure of money necessary to carry on the work in the near future is likely to be much the same as in the past four or five years. If all the churches, acting upon high Christian principle, would say the work must be done and we will gladly bear our part in it, it would be very easily done, and abundant ability remain for the demands of other great benevolent causes.

But our State is only a part, and a small part of our whole country. Its churches are to be cared for, indeed, sacredly, under a high sense of responsibility. To these churches have been intrusted a place and work not yet fulfilled, and whose value has hardly yet been duly appreciated, a work more for others than for themselves, that of raising up those who should be a fit seed with which to plant in prairie and wilderness, where are the seats of future population and power, the seed of churches and of all good institutions. Of silver and gold they have had little, but they have been rich in sons and daughters, second to none in their fitness to build churches and states. Of these they have given, and are giving, freely, and they are not to be left to die because they have given in many cases to the point well nigh of utter exhaustion. They are not to be left to die while they are still engaged in such a work. But our just care for them cannot, and should not, make us oblivious of the calls which come from other parts of our country. The work of the American Home Missionary Society rises with each succeeding year into grander proportions, presenting issues of vaster reach and significance. More and more it is impressed upon us as the great Christian work and responsibility of the age to hold this land for Christ; and it is one of the most hopeful signs of the times that the greatness of the work, and of the obstacles to be overcome do not seem to appal, as they well might, the heart of our churches, but rather to rouse to a loftier courage, and a more unflinching determination that under God the land shall be saved from all the foes which threaten it. There are no signs of quailing, or of drawing back, on the part of the Home Missionary Society. The question, can the work be done? is not asked. The only question is, how can it be best and soonest done? The society is entering this year, with renewed vigor and enlarged plan and purpose, upon two special lines of work, which only a very strong faith in God can give courage and hope to encounter, work for our cities and for the millions among us of foreign birth. At the same time it is greatly enlarging its field of operations, breaking forth on the right hand and on the left, as legitimate calls for aid come to it from whatever quarter.

The signs that these calls are meeting a hearty response from our churches are cheering. They ought to meet such a response. We want a part in such a work, a part in its struggles and conflicts, and self-denials, and in the glorious triumphs which it is destined to reach. We can have a part in it. We can do all that ought to be done at home, and yet do largely for the regions beyond. We could double our contributions for home missions, and yet, in the light of the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, hardly presume to claim large credit for self-sacrificing benevolence. We are certainly not likely hereafter to regret anything done in such a cause.

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state (though some of them may be connected with Associations in other states), and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations in this state. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

NOTE. For officers of Associations and Conferences, and times of meeting, see pp. 37–46.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers, and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath in September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon; and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interests of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussion on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial standing with the General Association, entitling a person's name to appear upon its rolls, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a membef of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts in the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

THURSDAY MORNING.

8:30 o'clock. Prayer-meeting led by Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D. D.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. John M. Dutton.

A communication was received from the committee of the National Council on the Pastorate, which was referred to a special committee, consisting of Rev. George E. Hall, Rev. Isaac C. White, and Rev. Albert B. Peabody.

Adopted the following:—

Resolved, That we will use all legitimate effort to pre-occupy the minds and hearts of the young with a love for temperance and abhorence of the liquor traffic.

The Committee of Inquiry made the following report for the meeting in 1886, which was adopted:--

Essay:—The teaching of Scripture in reference to the resurrection of the body. Primary, Rev. Cyrus Richardson; Substitute, Rev. Frank D. Sargent.

Discussions—1. Ground of obligation to keep the Christian Sabbath, and how to secure its observance. Primary, Rev. Charles E. Harrington; Secondary, Hon. John J. Bell.

2. The Church responsible for Home Evangelization, and how most successfully promoted. Primary, Rev. George F. Merriam; Secondary, Rev. Lewis Goodrich.

3. Temperance work in the Sunday-school, and how it should be conducted. Primary, Rev. Thomas V. Haines; Substitute, Rev. Geo. E. Street.

The Committee of Nominations reported the following, which was adopted:—

Place of meeting in 1886.—Not determined.

Delegate to Andover Seminary.—Primary, Rev. Charles Tenney; Secondary, Rev. Henry M. Penniman.

Preacher before the Sacrament.—Primary, Rev. Charles A. G. Thurston; Secondary, Rev. George E. Hall.

Sunday school Committee.—Rev. D. Herbert Colcord.

Adopted the following:—

Whereas, We have watched with increasing alarm, the disposition of many in our churches and Christian families, to secularize the Lord's day by reading Sunday papers, driving for pleasure, visiting and receiving visits, patronizing railway trains, and, while on our vacations, joining excursion trains, and, in general, turning our holy day into a holiday.

Resolved, That we record anew our solemn convictions that the command to "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy," is still of binding force, and that the spiritual growth, both of individual character and of our churches, requires us to maintain the sanctity of the Christian Sabbath inviolate, and that we deplore all inroads upon the peace, quiet, and religious observance of our blessed Lord's day of rest and worship.

9:30 o'clock. The religious condition of Dartmouth College was presented by Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D., and Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D. D.

10:30 o'clock. The question, "Shall we endorse the new Congregational Creed?" was discussed by Rev. George W. Grover in the affirmative, and Rev. Albert B. Peabody in the negative. Rev. Samuel P. Leeds, D. D., a member of the committee drafting the Creed, remarked in the way of explanation.

Hon. George E. Jenks opened the discussion on the question "Can the Church do more to develope temperance sentiment and practice in our families and communities?"

Adopted the following:—

Resolved, That the thanks of the Association are returned to the First Congregational church in Nashua for the use of their house of worship in our sessions; to them and other citizens who have opened their homes to us; to the choir for their service of song; to the railroads favoring us with special rates, and to the United States and Canada Express Company for favors in distributing our Minutes.

The committee to whom the communication from the National Council on the Pastorate was referred reported the following, which was adopted:—

Resolved, That in the judgment of this body the term "acting pastor," and abbreviation "a. p." ought not to be dropped from our nomenclature and statistics.

Adjourned.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. The sermon before the Sacrament was preached by Rev. Charles N. Flanders. Text—Gal. 2: 20—"I am crucified with Christ." Theme—"The Duty and Privilege of Fellowship with our Lord in his Death."

Rev. Elijah Harmon and Rev. Charles E. Milliken officiated at the Communion table.

Adjourned.

WARREN R. COCHRANE, Moderator.

ROBERT FORD, Scribe.

JOSIAH H. HEALD, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

Dealing with facts, as we do in this paper, and the facts from year to year being much the same, it is not easy to give much variety to the statements, or so to present them that all shall be equally interested. Yet it is well that as churches we review our situation from year to year, that we may know just about where we stand, even if the process be not particularly interesting. The business man who failed to take any account of the past would soon have his business taken from him by those who pursued better methods.

As will be shown farther on, we have enjoyed the tokens of God's presence during the year, but notwithstanding this, in our summing up, we find our total to be forty-six less than last year. It is not for me to complain of the want of accuracy in making returns, but the fact that, in deducting the admissions from the removals during the year, there is a difference of only six, indicates an error somewhere. As usual about one fifth of our members are enrolled as absentees, by far too many after making all allowances. Evidently some church rolls need revising. Some have been within the last year, the result being that the names of persons were found as carried who had been dead for years. Some churches do not report their absent members at all, though it can hardly be that they have none. It should be borne in mind that our statistics would be far more valuable if they could be relied on as strictly accurate, and so each church ought to be willing to take the necessary pains to make its report accord with the facts. Most do this, and there is a steady improvement on the part of others, but there is an opportunity for a good deal of improvement on the part of a few. It ought not to require six months to get in all the reports, but it does require it every year, notwithstanding monthly reminders are sent out

Sixty more than last year are enrolled in our Sunday-schools, but our benevolent contributions have fallen off upwards of thirteen hundred dollars, doubtless caused in part by the business depression.

A series of questions was sent out this year, as usual, that, from the answers thereto, this narrative might be made up. These questions will be re-produced, to-day, with the answers, as far as I am able to condense them.

FIRST.— What has been the state of religion in your parish during the year?

More than for some years our churches seem to have been refreshed from the presence of the Lord. Many speak of increased religious interest, and a very hopeful state of things in their parishes, with more or less additions to their churches by confession, who are not quite prepared to speak of revivals. It would be invidious to name these churches, because there might be others as fairly entitled to be mentioned. This seems to be certain that the spiritual drought is broken. I find that twenty-six churches, aside from those which I hereafter mention by name or otherwise, report religious interest, with conversions in each place, numbering from six to eighteen in each. One pastor says, "we have had no revival, but thirteen, we hope, have been converted;" another, in one of our smallest towns, says, "we have had a good interest, with fourteen added to the church." Antrim, Franconia and Hampstead seem to have settled into a state of chronic revival, though the respective pastors do not speak of it in this way.

Bath has enjoyed a work of grace, the first fruits of which were ten added to the church, seven being heads of families. Lyme has been blessed with a wide spread religious interest under the use of the ordinary means of grace. "God's Spirit and the Word were seen to be the mighty and only essential forces in the revival." Piermont, in the same locality, has been greatly refreshed, and numbers among the converted a physician, a merchant, and one of the board of selectmen. Littleton, also, has been quickened since the coming to it of its new pastor.

There has been a good work in Hollis, particularly among the young people, notwithstanding they have been without a pastor since December. At Hillsboro' Bridge the coming of a new pastor has been signalled by the conversion of many, sixteen of whom have already joined the church. Pastor Ayer of Concord and Pastor Goodrich of Danbury, each, report twenty conversions. At Salmon Falls, where so short a time ago the very life of the church was threatened, there has been interest throughout the year, resulting in doubling the resident membership of the church. At Nelson nineteen have united with the church on confession.

The most marked revivals have been in Nashua and Milford, where evangelists Pratt and Birdsall were employed, and at Hanover where Mr. Sayford was called to assist. The latter gentleman was also employed at Lancaster for ten days, where twelve have already been added to the church by confession. The church in Milford has received fifteen from among the converts. At Hanover the blessing was shared by the college and the village, there being about twenty converts in each. The pastor believes the revival, in no small degree, grew out of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, previously organized. "The moral tone of the college has been changed by it" he says. At Nashua the revival begun in December. At the beginning of the year our churches united with others for a series of union meetings, continuing them for two weeks under the leadership of the evangelists, and afterwards by themselves. About sixty were hopefully converted in the First church, and thirty have already united with the Pilgrim church, to say nothing of its great uplifting influence on Christians. The converts ranged in age from twelve up to eighty, and there were about as many adults as persons in early life, and about as many men as women, quite a large number of them being young men, who have already become efficient helpers.

The labors of Messrs. Folger and Jackson are spoken of as having been greatly blessed in not a few places, and the labors of Rev. John Bragdon in Strafford Conference are spoken of in an appreciative way. The need of a revival is shown from the report that comes from one town to the effect that it is not known that there is a single man in it, besides the minister, who ever prayed in the presence of others.

SECOND.—Have any new methods of work been tried?

On the part of some there seems to be a fear of new methods, but doubtless it was because the intent of the question was not understood. The preaching of the Word on the Lord's day, the work of the Sabbath-school, the maintenance of the prayer meetings, and pastoral visitation, may be called the "old methods," and yet it is possible so to carry out these duties that they shall be essentially new methods. It is not so much new methods as new life in old methods that is needed.

It may be helpful to some of us to know what others have done, and what others regard as new methods, so I cull from the reports. Some have attempted to develope a spirit of activity by giving the laity more to do, as in one church where the pastor has assigned different fields of Christian benevolence to some member who is expected, when the time comes, to lay out the exercises for an evening's instruction, assigning to others the work he wishes them to do. "The vestry will not hold those who attend," the pastor says. A similar plan is pursued in other churches. In Hampstead the pastor sent out a circular, inviting responses from those who would agree to enter upon one of the named branches of Christian work, to which eighty per cent. of the members gave a favorable reply.

More and more is done for the children. Pastor Colcord of Bedford has organized a meeting for children and young people, where all who attend are expected to take some part, at least repeating a verse of Scripture, and all answer, by rising, the question, "Have you prayed every day this week? Have you read at least one verse of Scripture daily?" The preceptress of the academy in Mont Vernon started a prayer-meeting for girls, which has borne most excellent fruit. In Concord, First church, a young people's prayer-meeting, to follow the the Sunday-school, was started in the winter, and has proved very helpful, from sixty to eighty attending. In Dunbarton and in Pittsfield a mission band has been started by young ladies. Pastor Butler of Lyme formed a class of child Christians for instruction. At Lyndeboro' and at Warner short sermons to children have been preached before the main sermon of the day.

As adding to the interest of public worship on the Sabbath, several have adopted a responsive service, consisting of reading Scripture selections, with the offering in concert the Lord's prayer. Pastor Merrill, of Marlboro', has pledged fifty of his people to a simultaneous and connected reading of the Bible, and this reading is often reviewed in the Sunday evening meetings. He also meets the young lads in his study for prayer and instruction. At East Jaffrey the Pilgrim's Progress is made the subject of the Sabbath evening meetings. At Brentwood and Durham illustrated sermons have been preached.

As heretofore a good deal that is not new has been done in the way of sustaining neighborhood meetings, or Sunday-schools, which, in some cases, are kept up entirely by laymen. One pastor has set aside two afternoons a week which he sacredly reserves for visiting among his people, announcing on the previous Sabbath the neighborhood where he will go, and asking the people to be at home. During those calls the conversation is mostly religious. Another pastor is very sure there would be better results, judging by his own experience, if there were more personal work by the ministers.

The church in Lyndeboro' reports the adoption of the New Creed, the only one so reporting, though others doubtless have so done. One pastor says he found his people were much interested in the exposition of the creed of their church.

THIRD.—Interesting and encouraging incidents that will help others.

This question was sent out this year for the first time, and the answers that have come in cover a wide range, and in some of them there is much to stimulate and encourage.

As illustrating the fact that God is a hearer and answerer of prayer, we have the following: "A mother requested prayer for a son away at school, and her request so touched other's hearts that there was special and united prayer for him. In a few days she was made glad by hearing that he had become a Christian. In another town the pastor records the conversion of a man in mature life for whom special prayer had been made many years. At Franconia the first Wednesday evening in June was devoted to home improvements, of a secular character, with special prayer for means to carry them on successfully, and that they might redown to the glory of God. The next day the pastor received a check for $2,000 for these objects; which teaches not only the lesson named, but that it is proper to carry our secular interests to our Father.

As showing what may be accomplished by personal work we have these facts: In one church a lady member has been active in inviting, and successful in securing, attendance at the prayer meetings from former neglectors. She made it her business to invite them, and to continue it, until they came. The pastor at Hampton invited four hardened men, non-church goers, among others, to attend his church. One of them had not been inside the church for many years, though once a leading member. The invitation was frequently repeated, and finally accepted, and all four were converted. In East Jaffrey the pastor had an earnest talk with a young lady several months ago, who seemed just ready to become a Christian, but greatly to his disappointment did not. Months after she came out clear as a Christian, and owned that it was her pastor's faithful talk that led her to Christ. In one place the pastor visited the Universalists of his town and gave them a cordial invitation to attend church, many of whom are now constant attendants.

As showing what the Holy Spirit can do we have this: A veteran soldier who had been a professor of religion, but had so far backslidden as to become intemperate and profane, was arrested by the Spirit, and asked the forgiveness of the people, and sought the mercy of God, and now is leading the life of a sincere and humble Christian. One of the prominent men converted in Piermont, heretofore spoken of, declared it was not sermons, or religious talk with others, that arrested his attention, but purely the work of the Spirit. In Dunbarton a boy of fourteen was brought to the Saviour in the same way. There was nothing in his home or surroundings to encourage him. He had not been inside the church for a year. His reputation was bad; no one spoke to him of duty. But all at once he appeared among Christians giving the strongest proof of conversion. At Milford a Roman Catholic became a Protestant and a Christian, and another person who had been a hard drinker was converted at his forge. At Kingston a lady of eighty-two, who had long resisted the Spirit, was converted, and in Winchester two men of about seventy, one of whom had been sunken very low in bad habits. In Greenland a young man was converted five years ago, but would not unite with the church. The Holy Spirit at last has led him to see his duty, and he did it at once.

Of a different character we have these items: In one place several Baptists have united with our church, there being none of their own in the town. In another place the pastor says: "All denominations of Christians sit down with us at the Lord's table." To the Franklin street church in Manchester "there have been additions from the Sunday-school at every communion, as something natural and normal." In Hollis the young people have sustained a prayer meeting since the pastor left in December, and it increased in numbers until they had to go from private houses to the vestry. The church in Candia has lost a beloved member, one who was crippled from childhood, so that he had to work on his knees. Yet he always manifested a cheerful, Christian spirit and great interest in the welfare of the church and society. For many years he blew the organ in church. He did what he could, making the best of life, and has left behind a most excellent example to others. The church in Sanbornton has met a great loss in the death of Joseph W. Sanborn, who was one of its most effective workers. For twelve years he had been the main supporter of one of the social meetings held in a distant part of the town twice each week. He was remarkably gifted and was always so thoroughly prepared that the meetings never dragged. Pastor Merriam, of Greenville, gives the following report, which, it seems to me worth quoting in his own language. He says: "I do not remember in any previous narrative reference to the service of song in our public worship. I am happy to record my own experience, that the devil is not always so lively in the church choir as is sometimes represented. For almost twenty-one years, the singing in my church has been an unspeakable inspiration. It has been all the while under the direction of a single chorister, a member of the church and a graduate of at least one hundred and eighty singing schools, of which he has been the teacher. Such service with all the unnumbered ministries of sacred song in the funeral hour and the various gatherings of society, deserves this passing notice. And I may add that my experience with the old church in New Ipswich has been scarcely less felicitous. A veteran chorister always at the prayer meeting, and always ready for any Christian work, cannot be too highly commended. Both these brethren, I think, have been leaders in the choirs in the churches where they have been worshippers for more than forty years."

After much tribulation the church in Epping is rejoicing in a new house of worship, all paid for except $1,000. North Conway has dedicated one of the most beautiful and convenient houses of worship we have in the state, which is paid for.

FOURTH.— What is felt to be your greatest need that more satisfactory results shall be reached?

It is a most hopeful sign that Christians seem to be feeling, more than usual, their dependence on, and need of, the Holy Spirit. It is brought out in the replies to the above question. Nine-tenths, perhaps, in some form, declare this to be the essential thing wanted. It is interesting to notice the language of some with reference to it, as showing some obstacles that seem to the writers to be in the way of good. One says they need an outpouring of the Spirit on Christians, so they will fully and finally consecrate themselves to Christ, and thus be made willing to witness and work for Him. Another says: "A deeper sense of individual responsibility, a watchfulness over besetting sins, more self-denial in maintaining the institutions of the church, and a fuller appreciation of a life above all reproach, less worldly-mindedness, and more prayer and the cultivation of brotherly love is what we need." Another says: "A better understanding of what it is to be a Christian;" another, "The conversion of unconverted church members;" another, whose church has been blessed with a most interesting revival, says "their greatest need is another revival, to reach where the last one did not, the hearts of a majority of the church." "A burning zeal for souls," "a love for the church on the part of its members," "a profounder realization of the value of things unseen and eternal," "thorough consecration," "some way to rid those in middle life, and old age, of the idea that they have nothing to do," "hand to hand work," are other needs that have been mentioned.

One brother frankly says the greatest need is "a better appreciation of truth on the part of the minister," and another, that it is "more plain preaching and speaking the truth in love;" while a layman as frankly says they need more of Christ in the preaching.

Other needs are expressed as follows: Two or three feel the want of leaders, some of a place for prayer meetings, some of a more compact residence. Two or three want a pastor; as many more a spirit of union between Christians; some a settlement of old feuds. One feels that his church needs the business men of the community; another desires that his people shall have "as great a horror of sin in general as they have of rum drinking and rum selling." One says, what they require is, that those who give good evidence, otherwise, of being Christians, should be willing to confess Christ openly. He says it demands great courage in his parish to join the church.

FIFTH.—So far as you know, what has been done in the homes in the way of religious instruction? Do the members of your church generally observe family worship?

This is a question which it is not easy for many pastors to answer. From the nature of the case it is impossible to ascertain for a certainty what is done. Certain things are seen, or known, from which inferences are drawn, but these may be very wide of the truth. Where we see children growing up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, we suppose they have been well trained; when we see them wildly bent on folly, we suppose they have been neglected at home. Yet this judgment may be incorrect. Divine truth planted in the heart may bear no immediate fruit, but after many days of weary waiting, it may bring forth grand results. Some of our pastors believe that the children of their parishes are well instructed at home; many others think home instruction is neglected. One speaks of knowing some cases where the Bible is not only read daily, but read with a commentary, and the children then questioned. One Christian lady is spoken of who is at the head of a large household, where many laborers are employed on the farm, who is very faithful with all, getting them out to church, and laboring to interest them on the Sabbath in good reading, in which work she has been remarkably successful. Pastor Bard, in his quaint style, says he knows of a few who "look out for wholesome home reading, and machines for the boys and useful toys." One pastor laments, and doubtless others might join him, that there are not many children in the families of his parish to become interested.

Not all have made definite statements in regard to family worship, but of those who have, I find nineteen who say they believe it is maintained in the majority of their Christian families, two who say it is in half their families, twelve who say it is in very few, and two in none. I have no means of knowing that this proportion would hold throughout the state, but it is very pleasant to know that there are nineteen of our churches, and probably there are more, where the family altar is still standing in most of the homes of the church members. Pastor Robie says that most of his members observe family prayer, and that it is easy to see the difference in children, in respect to reverence for sacred things and susceptibility to religious impressions, between those who are under religious influences at home, and those who are not.

SIXTH.—What proportion of your church attend the social meetings of the church, and what proportion do not attend at all?

Seventeen pastors state that nearly all their members, who are situated so they can, attend the social meetings; fourteen think half of those able to be present are there; thirteen say that few are present; and two acknowledge they have no such meetings, because there are none to attend. One says, "more attend the sewing circle than do the prayer meetings." Another says that, among his constant attendants, is one family living four miles away. He says, also, that only about one fifth of his families live within two miles of the church, and over one half live from three to six miles away.

SEVENTH.—Any gain in the cause of temperance and good morals?

Ten report no liquor sold within the limits of their towns. Probably the same is true of other towns not named. Last year these reports indicated but little substantial gain for the cause; this year the condition in many places is represented as much more encouraging. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is becoming a more and more powerful agent of instruction and warning. Something in this line is being done in the Sunday-schools. From two towns, cursed with intemperance a short time ago, comes the report that, within two years, the condition of things there is wholly changed, so that, practically, there is now no intemperance in these places. The pastor in one town says that many have lately left off cider drinking, and there is less of profanity than formerly. On the other hand one says that "cider has its grip on our boys and girls." A brother in one place speaks of a new enemy, called spiritualism, which is getting hold even of the members of the church, and doing much harm.

EIGHTH.—Material improvements.

It has been my custom for several years to note the material improvements in a separate place. But there is one town where so much has been done within a few years that I wish to speak of it in particular in this place. I refer to Franconia. The pastor says, "We have had a revival each winter, bringing into the church eighty-six new members by confession; and since we built the Congregational church there have been such revolutions and progress, materially, educationally, morally, and spiritually that one would hardly believe it unless he saw it for himself. Prior to 1883 no new building had been erected for years; now six are going up, one to cost $15,000. We are just now throwing an iron bridge across our river, and putting up a $700 town clock, and doing several other things, as the outcome of what the Congregational church has done for Franconia."

NINTH.—Ministerial changes.

The usual changes in the ministry will be given in their usual place, in the printed report, but a few of them we will note here. Up to the time of writing this paper five have been ordained as pastors, and ten have been installed. Seventeen pastors have been dismissed. Among these was the Rev. George Dustan, of Peterboro', who had been settled there for twenty-five years, and whose face we all were familiar with, from the interest which he took in the religious affairs of the state. Dr. Robie continues our senior pastor. Dr. Leeds is next to him, with Rev. Augustus Berry but a little after. There have been more deaths of ministers than usual, though none have been taken who were at the time in the active work of the ministry, if we except one who held his position only nominally. The deceased in the state are Rev. Messrs. Aiken, Benson, Buxton, Goodyear, Hills, Leach, and Moody, all well advanced in life, and without doubt now enjoying the blessedness of the saints of light.

Brethren, we a little longer wait. We may well ask ourselves to-day the question: Have we done all we could during the year? Some of us have been unable to report anything encouraging in our parishes. Is it because of our want of faith, or of the Holy Spirit? The latter gift the Master has promised to bestow. We have only to receive Him. Shall our lack of faith prevent us from receiving Him? Great blessings are before us if we will come up to the help of the Lord against the mighty. He who has promised is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 1, 1885.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held in rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, Concord, May 27, 1885.

Meeting called to order by the President, Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Prayer was offered by Rev. F. D. Ayer.

Minutes of meetings of the Trustees and Prudential Committee, held during the past year, were read by the Secretary and approved.

The Treasurer read his report, and the same was accepted, and ordered to be placed on file.

Rev. Charles E. Milliken, of Penacook, was then elected Trustee, to fill the vacancy occasioned by removal of Rev. C. B. Strong from the state.

President—Hon. J. E. Sargent.

Secretary—R. P. Staniels.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, Francis A. Fiske.

Prudential Committee—Hon. J. E. Sargent, R. P. Staniels, John C. Thorn.

No other business being presented the Trustees voted to adjourn.

A meeting of the Prudential Committee was held in Concord, June 16, 1885, and such sums appropriated to beneficiaries as seemed right and proper, and the Treasurer was authorized to pay the sums voted to the several persons named.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATION.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterain ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasury, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasury shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasury to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constition, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male or female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel held and practiced by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such reference as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the excutive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regularly employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected.

The attention of churches asking aid, and of missionaries is respectfully but very earnestly called to these rules. Mistakes causing much perplexity and loss of time, and often great disappointment, are constantly made for want of attention to them. All church committees and missionaries have access to them and are without excuse if they do not consult them. Non-compliance with these rules, especially if repeated, is regarded as a sufficient reason for withholding further aid from the delinquent church or missionary.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasurer. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid.
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount.
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete, and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be address to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries and auxilliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregations contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services is desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, and a payment of $50 into its treasury to become a life member of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, in the month of May at the call of the secretary.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasury shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The Society held its eighty-fourth annual meeting in the meeting-house of the First Congregational church, in Nashua, Wednesday, September 16, 1885.

The meeting for the choice of officers was holden at five o'clock P. M., the President, Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D. D., in the chair.

In the absence of the Secretary, the Rev. F. D. Ayer was chosen Secretary pro tem.

On motion it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The Rev. W. A. McGinley, Rev. S. P. Leeds, D. D., and Dea. W. J. Brown, were appointed upon that committee. They reported the following list of officers, who were duly elected, to wit:—

The Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. J. E. SARGENT, Concord; Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, M. D., Nashua; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth, Vice-presidents.

Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord; GEO. E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

Rev. CYRUS RICHARDSON, Nashua; Hon. R. L. FRENCH, Pittsfield; Rev. C. E. HARRINGTON, Keene, Trustees for three years.

Adjourned to 7:30 P. M.

At 7:30 P. M. the President took the chair and the public services of the Annual Meeting were opened. The Rev S. P. Leeds, D. D., offered prayer. The Treasurer, Hon. L. D. Stevens, read his annual report, and the annual report of the Trustees was read by the Rev. F. D. Ayer, Secretary, pro tem. On motion it was voted that these reports be accepted, and the usual number be ordered to be printed. The President then addressed the meeting upon the necessity of continuing vigorously the work of the society in the state. Addresses were then made by Rev. Smith Norton, Rev. W. A. McGinley, and Rev. Samuel J. Spalding, D. D.

Voted to adjourn to meet in connection with the General Association in September, 1886.

EIGHTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT.

THE TREASURY.

There remained in the treasury, from last year, $2,441.49. There was received into the treasury during the year, from donations from churches and individuals, $4,289.36; from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $1,757.39; from legacies, $465.77; from income of permanent funds, $3,010, and from miscellaneous sources, $59.77. There was also received in donations paid, by direction of donors, to the American Home Missionary society, $757.89. The total amount received into the treasury was $10,340.18. In addition to this there was sent directly from the state to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society, in donations, $2,285.30, and in legacies, $50. The amount of donations sent directly to the American Home Missionary Society was larger than in any preceding year in our history. The whole amount contributed for home missions in the state for the year was $12,675.48.

The aggregate amount of donations was $181.16 larger than in the preceding year; the income of the Ladies' Cent Society was $415.98 less than last year; the receipts from legacies were $4,106.07 less than last year, and the aggregate receipts from all sources $4,335.89 less than last year. The amount expended within the State for all purposes was $10,997.17—$92.90 larger than last year. Contributions were received from 144 churches, a considerably larger number than usual.

This, for a year of financial stringency, felt probably quite as severely in this state as in any other, must be regarded as a favorable showing. The very large falling off in legacies is one always incident to receipts from that source, and could neither be foreseen nor prevented. That the donations from churches and individuals should have exceeded that of the preceding year, and should have fully equalled the general average in recent years, is a very gratifying result, and shows very clearly that there is no falling off on the part of our churches in their interest in the cause of home missions, or their willingness to make sacrifices to sustain it. The increase in the number of churches contributing, fully making up for the falling off in the size of the contributions of some of the churches, is especially gratifying. The unprecedented amount sent directly to the treasury at New York, is doubtless largely due to the urgency of the appeal sent out from the National society in the early winter, when its treasury was empty and there was a prospect that it would be compelled to suspend its payments to the missionaries upon the frontier; but it also shows that our churches are becoming more and more awake to the grandeur and urgency in the great national work. The most discouraging feature that presents itself in this review of the accounts of the year is the falling off in the receipts of the Cent Society. This, the oldest missionary society among the ladies in the country, has held on its quiet, unobtrusive way now for more than eighty years, rendering exceedingly timely and important aid to the home missionary work of the state. We trust that these women who have so efficiently helped us in the gospel, are not going to grow weary in well doing, or to withhold their aid in such a time as this.

THE WORK DONE.

Sixty-seven missionaries have been in the employ of the society some part or all of the year; twenty-eight during the entire year, and these have labored in sixty-three different fields, in three of which there is no church, and have performed in the aggregate forty-three and a half years of missionary labor. The number of fields is one less than last year, the number of missionaries one less, and the years of labor the same. There has been an urgent call for more laborers, which it was found impossible to meet. Only with much difficulty has a supply of ministers so nearly adequate been provided. The scarcity of men acceptable to the churches is one of the most serious obstacles to the successful prosecution of our work, and this obstacle seems likely to increase rather than diminish in the coming years.

These sixty churches report an aggregate membership of 2,588, an average of forty-three each. Sixty Sabbath-schools report an aggregate of 4,380, an average of seventy-three each. Sixty-three congregations report an aggregate average attendance of 4,927, an average of seventy-eight each. Sixty churches report an aggregate of one hundred and seventeen additions by profession, and sixty by letter, one hundred and seventy-seven in all, and thirty-five removals by death, forty-eight by dismission, and eleven by exclusion, ninety-four in all, making their aggregate net gain eighty-three—a little more than three per cent. of their total membership. The benevolent contributions of these churches as reported are to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society $434.96, and to other objects $861.70, a falling off from last year of $541.91.

The Rev. John Bragdon closed a year of labor as a General Missionary on the first of April, last. The state of his health did not permit his continuance in the work. This kind of labor is coming into strong favor both East and West, and experience is proving the wisdom of it. It seems likely to be adopted as fast as men suited to the peculiar demands of the work can be found and brought into service. There are always fields open where one adapted to the work can do very effective service preparatory to something more permanent. There are also fields, missionary and other, where the aid of such a General Missionary in special religious services is likely to result, and as experience often demonstrates does often result, in very great good. It is doubtful whether the society could make a more wise expenditure of its money than by the employment of such a missionary, provided the right man can be secured.

Considerable has been done during the past year in the way of effort to reach neighborhoods remote from church privileges. There are many such neighborhoods scattered through the state, embracing in the aggregate a large fraction of our whole population. These neighborhoods cannot safely be neglected, and their neglect hitherto has resulted in great and manifest evils. The question how to reach them effectively presents one of the great problems which confront us in our plans for a complete State evangelization. The problem is one by no means easy of solution. The day when people will go five, eight, ten miles to attend public worship has gone by. The people who grow up and have their habits of life formed in such communities are not likely to make very much effort to secure religious privileges for themselves. The expediency of holding religious services to any large extent in neighborhoods where access to the public worship of the sanctuary can be had without serious inconvenience, is perhaps doubtful; but the neighborhoods of which we are speaking are so remote that the attendance of the people upon public worship in our churches cannot reasonably be expected. In quite a number of instances our missionaries during the past year have gone out upon the afternoon of the Sabbath and held services in these neighborhoods with success. They have found the people ready if not eager to hear the message which they brought. In some cases they have found congregations even larger than those to which they had ministered in the morning. This is a kind of work which it is hoped will be materially enlarged in the future. It should be, and will be understood to be, a legitimate part of the service expected from the missionaries of our society whenever suitable openings for it can be found.

The year has been one of more than average spiritual prosperity. There have been several very precious revivals, and more than usual religious interest in a large number of the aided churches. The interest in sustaining public worship has not in any direction visibly diminished; on the contrary, the demand for the services of the living preacher, was never more universal or urgent. There are no indications that any of these churches will die out through indifference or an unwillingness to make sacrifices to sustain Gospel institutions. In some respects the year has not been propitious. The general financial stringency has fallen with peculiar severity upon our rural towns, diminishing the pecuniary ability of these churches, and leading to removals which have in some cases seriously weakened them, but everywhere the feeling is manifest,—we must be watchful and strengthen the things that remain, even if they seem ready to die. It is a part of the burden laid upon us in this state, to contend against a process of depletion which is slowly but surely diminishing our strength. But we have the satisfaction of knowing that what is our loss is others' gain, and that we are sending out those, whom we would gladly retain, to do perhaps a more effective service for the common cause, than they could do here.

The Trustees have asked and obtained of the last legislature an amendment of the charter of the Society. The leading object in obtaining this amendment was to put the Society in a position to hold trust funds for churches, or individuals who might wish to devote their property to benevolent purposes. Many churches have permanent funds, and in many cases individuals would be disposed to leave such funds if they could be entirely sure as to the ultimate disposal of them. Some of these churches are small, and their future by no means certain. It has been found by some examination that such funds are very often lost. Churches become reduced in some cases so that there are no male members left, none certainly who are fitted to have the care of funds. A recent investigation in Connecticut developed the startling fact that among the churches of that State, many hundreds of thousands of dollars had become utterly lost. Your Trustees felt that it was very desirable that this Society should be put in a position to hold such funds in trust for the churches, and in such a way as to hold them for home missionary use in case of the extinction of any given church, when asked to do so; and also to give to benevolent individuals, disposed to aid a church in which they were interested, security against a loss of their benefaction, after a few years by the possible extinction of the church. Of course no church will be obliged to entrust its funds to the Society unless by its own free choice. The following is the charter as amended:—

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE.

AN ACT IN AMENDMENT OF THE CHARTER OF THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court convened:—

SECT. 1. The New Hampshire Home Missionary Society is hereby authorized and empowered to take, receive, and hold in fee simple or otherwise, gifts, grants and devises of lands and real estate, and also donations, subscriptions and bequests of money or other personal estate, and may establish funds not exceeding one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, for promoting the laudable and benevolent designs of its institution.

SECT. 2. Said corporation is also authorized and empowered to take and hold any and all tranfers, conveyances, gifts, devises and bequests of real and personal estate, which may be made to it on trust, condition or otherwise, for the support of the institutions, ecclesiastical societies, parishes, churches or missionary work, either general or local, of the Orthodox Congregational denomination of Christians in this state, or for the promotion of the interests of the churches of said denominations in this state; and to execute, perform and carry out any and all conditions, uses and trusts which may imposed upon such transfers, conveyances, gifts, devises and bequests, or may be connected therewith, and to manage, invest, sell, devise and convey or otherwise dispose of such real estate, and to appropriate and apply the net income thereof to any and all of the purposes and objects above declared, subject, however, in each and every case to the specific trusts, directions, limitations or conditions contained in such transfer, conveyance, gift, devise or bequest, provided that such corporation shall not hold property, under the provision of this section, of a greater aggregate annual net income than twenty thousand dollars.

SECT. 3. No misnomer of said corporation shall defeat or vitiate any deed, will or other instrument, so as to prevent said corporation from taking benefit thereof, if it shall appear that it was the intention of the grantor, testator, or other party to name or describe the said society.

SECT. 4. The trustees of said society shall, through their treasurer, make annually to said society a report of the amount and condition of the several funds and estates held by them under section two of this act and of the manner in which the same have been invested and the income has been expended and applied.

SECT. 5. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage.

EDGAR ALDRICH,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

CHESTER PIKE,
President of the Senate.

Approved July 16, 1885,
MOODY CURRIER, Governor.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state (though some of them may be connected with Associations in other states), and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations in this state. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

NOTE. For officers of Associations and Conferences, and times of meeting, see pp. 35–44

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers, and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3 The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath in September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon, and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interest of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussions on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial Standing with the General Association entitling a person's name to appear upon its rolls, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts of the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistant with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

10:30 A. M. Brief reports of delegates to foreign bodies, after which shall be a presentation of benevolent causes, only four of which, in addition to the state auxiliaries, shall be presented at any meeting. No cause shall be presented oftener than once in two years, and the order of rotation shall be: 1st year, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Congregational Sunday-school and Publishing Society, American Congregational Union, New West Education Commission; 2nd year, American Missionary Association, American Tract Society, Seamen's Friend Society, American College and Education Society.

2 P. M. Business of the Association.

2:30 P. M. Narrative of the state of religion, with additional statements respecting revivals, and other facts of interest.

4 P. M. Discussion of question relating to Sabbath-schools, or a children's meeting.

7 P. M. Ministers and Widow's Charitable Fund.

7:30 P. M. Anniversary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

Thursday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Presentation of the Religious condition of Dartmouth College.

10:30 A. M. Discussion of questions.

2 P. M. The Association will attend religious services, in which a sermon shall be delivered by a minister previously appointed, and our Lord's death commemorated in the Sacrament of the Supper.

All sessions shall be interspersed with devotional exercises, with a morning prayer-meeting each day, at such time as the Committee of Arrangements shall deem best.

Rev. Rowland B. Howard, Secretary of the American Peace Society, addressed the meeting.

Adopted the following:—

Having listened with interest and satisfaction to the statements of Rev. Rowland B. Howard, Secretary of the American Peace Society, as to the renewed and hopeful efforts to prevent wars by the establishment of a permanent High Court of Fraternal Arbritration,

Resolved, That we commend the American Peace Society, and its Secretary, to the sympathy and co-operation of our churches, in its philanthropic and Christian work.

Adopted the following:—

WHEREAS, The New Hampshire General Association of Congregational and Presbyterian churches and ministers, convened at Manchester, September 15, 1886, has received, from the New Hampshire Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal churches, resolutions concerning the desecration of the Sabbath by railroad corporations, therefore,

Resolved, That we heartily endorse this timely effort of our brethren to remove a great and growing evil.

Resolved, that a committee of three be appointed to co-operate with them, at such time and place as they may choose, in presenting this matter to the managers of railroad corporations, and to the railroad commissioners.

Dea. Frank B. Eaton, of Manchester, Hon. Joseph B. Walker, of Concord, and Rev. Edward C. Crane were appointed this committee.

A letter was read from the Womans' Christian Temperance Union of this state, asking for continued co-operation, and that Sunday, Oct. 17th, be observed by sermons and temperance meetings as "Temperance Sunday."

The Committee of Inquiry reported as follows for the session of 1887:—

Essay.—The Holy Spirit, the true conservator of Christian Doctrine and Life. Rev. Willard G. Sperry, Primary; Rev. Charles S. Murkland, Substitute.

HERVEY G. PILLSBURY, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

No churches have been added to our number during the year, and none have been dropped. We have on our rolls, however, some that have only a name to live. Of the one hundred ninety-three within the state, including the Presbyterian, there are seventy-two, only, which have a membership of one hundred or more. Sixty-one have a membership varying from fifty to one hundred, and fifty-nine have less than fifty members. It will be seen, then, that about one third of the churches have a membership of less than fifty, one third range from fifty to a hundred, and one third exceed one hundred. Of those containing less than fifty members, there are six, each with a membership of less than ten, only one of which makes any pretence of maintaining religious services, and this only because of its possession of a fund. Here is one of the situations where a limited fund may not be a curse to a people. Of the ten churches with a membership, each, of from ten to twenty, one half have the aid of a minister the entire year, and the other half during some portion of it. It can hardly be possible that any of these will ever be any stronger than now. They are home missionary fields, and must continue to be.

We are apt to measure the importance of a church by the number of its members, but this is not a correct criterion. There are churches with less than fifty members that are really prosperous, and encouraging fields of labor; and there are others with from fifty to one hundred members that are among our most vigorous and thriving churches; while there are others with more than a hundred members that are really weak.

The total membership of our churches has been increased during the year by three hundred and fifty-three, and the comparative accuracy of the report is proved by the fact that this is within ten of the difference between the additions and removals. Eighteen per cent., or nearly one fifth, of our members are non-resident, showing a remissness on the part of some one. Is it not a pertinent inquiry if we have been as faithful in the watch and care of one another as we have agreed to be? Probably many of these absent ones have been so long away that their residence is unknown to the church, some have already passed on to the other life, while a few have joined churches in other places, the home church not being notified of the fact. Does not our theory of church membership need revising somewhat, so that willful absentees should no longer encumber our rolls? The most vigilant watch and care is not able to meet all these cases. One church reports a hundred non-resident members, but this is not so large a proportion of the whole number as in some others, for several acknowledge that one third of their number are away. Some of our churches have cleared their rolls by cutting off, or placing on a separate list and not counting, those who have been long absent without reporting themselves.

There have been added to our churches three hundred seventy-one more than during the year previous, the whole number being eleven hundred eighty-eight. Of this number seven hundred eighty-eight came in by confession. Until last year, for some time, the tide had been setting the other way. Now we have reason to hope that each year will witness larger and larger accessions.

If these reports are correct there is a slight falling off in attendance on the Sabbath-school. The average attendance is only about fifty-seven per cent. of the whole number. Of the total number attending, a little more than ninety per cent. are present at the preaching service. This shows that we are spared an evil of which some of our larger churches complain, or, it may show that we are not doing our duty by the outlying communities, our schools being made up from those families which are regular worshippers. Of the number who have joined the church, six-hundred ninety-four, or eighty-eight per cent., were from the Sunday-school.

In our contributions for charitable objects there has been a slight increase. The largest sum, or twenty-eight per cent. of the whole, goes to the Home Missionary Society; twenty-six per cent. to the American Board; twelve per cent. to the American Missionary Association, leaving forty-four per cent. to be divided among other objects. The smallest sum was given to the Sunday-school and Publishing Society; the next smallest to the College and Education Society, and the next to the New West Education Commission. The whole sum is equivalent to one dollar eighty-nine cents per member, or three and one half cents a week for each one. Is this all the Christians of New Hampshire ought to do, or are able to do, for the giving the gospel to those beyond their own limits? Does this measure their love for the Master? Probably it does not begin to equal what has been spent on even harmful luxuries.

One hundred fifty-two of our churches, or all but forty-one, have contributed to the Home Missionary cause; one hundred thirty-three, or all but sixty, to the American Board; one hundred nine, or all but eighty-four, to the American Missionary Association. This is a gratifying showing, so far, when we remember that of those not contributing the most are among our very feeblest churches. But on the other hand one hundred thirty have given nothing to the Congregational Union; one hundred fifty-seven nothing to the College and Education Society; one hundred sixty-one, nothing to the Sunday-school Society, and one hundred seventy-one, nothing to the New West Education Commission. More even than this have not remembered our own Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund. Among these will be found some of our strongest churches. If all that support public worship had given a little it would have added an encouraging sum to the treasuries of these societies.

The current expenses of carrying on religious work at home, including what has been expended for repairs, improvements, etc., in houses of worship and parsonages, have been nearly three hundred thirty-two thousand dollars, or a sum averaging about twenty-three dollars for the fourteen thousand families reported. Each family is thus made to appear to contribute forty-four cents per week for home work, and five cents, and a trifle more, for work away from home, or, say, fifty cents per family for all religious purposes whatsoever. This is a humiliating showing when compared with the offerings of many of the native churches on missionary ground, and especially so when compared with what would be the result if the giving was in the proportion required of the Jewish church.

The increase in the number of additions to our churches has not been the result of revivals, but by a healthy growth in many churches. Fewer revivals than usual are reported. But more than for several years report a marked increase in the congregation, and, in almost all these cases, more or less conversions are mentioned. At East Andover there has been a good feeling throughout the year, with ten additions to the church by confession. At Antrim, as usual, under the use of the ordinary means of grace, conversions have gladdened the pastor's heart throughout the year, and there have been additions to the church at every communion, sixteen uniting by confession. At Bedford the state of things has been much the same, with ten added to the church. At Boscawen twenty conversions are reported. At Brentwood there have been six added to the church; at Candia four; at Dunbarton eight, all by confession. At Concord, First Church, thirty-five have joined the church, of whom twenty-eight came from the Sunday-school, The heart of the pastor at Farmington has been caused to rejoice by what he has seen of the Lord's doings, where there were from fifteen to twenty conversions, with seventeen added to the church. At Greenfield, among other conversions, were those of two business men with their wives. At Francestown seven have joined the church by confession.

Pastor Watson has nearly completed his first ten years at Hampstead, and as usual reports a goodly number of additions to the church. At Hanover there has been a quiet work, resulting in the addition of twenty to the church. At Hancock twelve young people have confessed Christ. At Hillsborough Bridge, Pastor Mooney is making his church felt in the suppression of the sale of strong drink, so that the people are coming to respect it more than usual. At Milton and Union there has been a good work, the pastor being aided by our state evangelists. In the First Church, in Nashua, there have been from fifteen to twenty conversions during the year. At North Hampton seven have been added to the church; at Portsmouth thirteen; at Rye twelve; at Salmon Falls, so near to death a short time since, four from the Sunday-school have joined the church. At Stratham, Walpole and Wolfeboro' there has been steady growth, and the churches have been strengthened by several additions.

At Conway, North, the interest has extended to the Corner, where a church has been organized, though it has not yet been received to the sisterhood of the churches by recognition of council. Pastor Fay, of Hampton, says of his church: "Everybody comes to the prayer-meeting, the white-haired sire of more than four score years, and the little child from the infant class, and better still, everybody takes part." Eleven have been added to his church on confession. At Hollis the young people's meeting was kept up through the year, nine months of which the church had no pastor.

In none of the cases mentioned have the reporters spoken of the work in their respective places as revivals. But Pastor Harrington, of Keene, First, writes: "As early as September the Spirit of God was evidently present to awaken the indifferent, to deepen the convictions of the thoughtful, and to bring the seed sown in former months and years to fruit. It was the aim of our services to help the church put itself into working sympathy with the Holy Spirit, to camp over against the mulberry trees, and listen for a sound of a going in their tops. Many were moved to do personal work for the Master. They called upon their friends, spoke to them of the meetings, and urged them to attend. These efforts were evidently approved of God, for several who were thus visited were soon converted." The church was aided for a time by some outside help. Fifty-three have been added to the church on confession, besides twenty by letter. A similar blessing has been experienced by the Second Church in Keene, since the coming of its new pastor. Previous to that it had greatly suffered from internal disquiet, but it seems now to be on the high road to prosperity. Forty-four have been added to it by confession, and eleven by letter. At Lyme the revival of last year has extended over into this year. The pastor has been helped by the state evangelists. Many of the converts were men and women in middle life. The little church in Wentworth has rejoiced in the conversion of several souls.

As illustrating the difficulties that some of us do not meet, one brother says: "During the fall, winter and spring months, there has been a great degree of social gayety in the town, in which church members have largely participated and been accepted leaders. Card parties, assemblies for dancing, and other fashionable entertainments, have followed each other in quick succession, these often coming on the very evening of the church prayer-meeting, and once or twice when the preparatory service for communion was being held." This was met by the pastor with prayer and preaching on truths vital to Christian character, and the spring showed a change for the better, with several conversions. Another pastor has been beset with spiritualism. At the beginning of Pastor Merrill's work in Marlboro', sixteen years ago, there was but one Roman Catholic family in the place. Now there are ninety. In Roxbury, one of our missionary churches, where services are kept up only a part of the year, there are thirty families connected with the parish, none of which are within a mile of the church, and to call on all requires a journey of thirty miles.

The pastor at Pelham has summed up the condition of most of our churches in these fitting words: "There are certain churches that a pastor must feel embarrassment in reporting because it is impossible to justly present their condition. They are so peculiar in the elements that constitute them, in the influences that are about them, in the circumstances under which they exist, that they cannot be understood without a knowledge of these, and there can be no true estimate of the work of the year without taking these things into the account."

EFFORTS TO PROMOTE THE EFFICIENCY OF THE CHURCH.

The weakness of human nature is shown by the fact that an exacted pledge often will produce better results than to leave one to himself. This is apparent not only in the temperance work, but in that of the church. Pastor De Bevoise, of Keene, has organized a department of church work, with more than one hundred sixty of his members pledged to special work. In Francestown the members were asked to pledge themselves to pray daily for the unconverted, and three fourths signed and returned this pledge to their pastor. Organized church work is shown to have been successful in Bennington; in Greenfield, where different districts were assigned to different members to visit and invite to church; in Lebanon, where the districts were assigned to the oversight of certain members of the church; in North Hampton, where a committee was appointed to visit delinquent members of the church; and in Northwood, where a committee was appointed to visit every family, to talk and pray with them. In Bennington and Brentwood consecration meetings have been held with good results. In Wentworth meetings for Christians only have proved a help. In Bedford a "church home day" was observed, where the needs of the church were discussed. In Candia the effort to repair their house of worship has increased the efficiency of the church, while the same thing has been done in another place by the election of a new deacon. Societies of Christian Endeavor have been organized in many places, and every where their work has been helpful to the pastors. Pastor McGinley says of it that "it is the livest thing in Portsmouth." Chautauqua circles have been organized in many places, with encouraging results. Never before, I think, has so much been said of the value of a young people's prayer-meeting. It would seem that very many had been started during the year, and always with good resulting. Give the people something to do, says one pastor, and you will have an efficient church.

EFFORTS TO REACH THE UNCONVERTED.

Popular Sabbath evening services, with more than usual of music, a responsive service, and a short sermon, have been adopted in Keene, Hinsdale and Nashua with excellent results. Our state evangelists, Messrs. Folger and Jackson, have successfully labored in many places, the pastors speaking gratefully of their assistance. Rev. E. A. Whittier has been employed by others, and Rev. E. B. Pike by one or more. Much has been made of the week of prayer, and of out-district meetings, as before. In one church the pastor sets apart one evening a week when he invites to his study, sometimes personally, those who would talk with him, or those with whom he would talk, upon the subject of religion. In another case a pastor invites the classes in the Sunday-school, separately, to his study for familiar religious conversation. A young people's prayer-meeting, after the Sunday-school, in the First Church, in Concord, has been a means of grace not only to the young Christians, but to many of the impenitent who have attended.

EFFORTS TO REACH THE YOUNG

are multiplying. The idea that seemed once to prevail that a child could not be converted is exploded. Our fathers let the children grow up without Christ; we are seeking to turn their feet toward him at the earliest possible age. I sometimes try to imagine what a different religious atmosphere we should be living in if the children of a generation ago had been taught as ours are taught. Many ministers are preaching to them with more or less frequency. "Children's Day" is proving to be a means of grace. They are organized into Christian bands, or prayer-meetings, and encouraged to take a part, the pastor leading in some cases, in others a lady.

EFFORTS TO PROMOTE BENEVOLENCE.

That the church as a whole has not yet come to a knowledge of the blessedness of giving is made evident from the fact that our gains, when there are any, are so small. A few pastors, I am sorry to say, perhaps because their own salaries are small, seem to think that all the money that can be raised should be kept at home. But these are few. More, I suspect, are remiss because they believe their people are disinclined to give. But one pastor says, and I know others could say, "I have taught my people not to be afraid of a contribution box."

From the reports I can see that seed is being sown, in this field of Christian work, that shall some day spring up and bear fruit. Less dependence than formerly is had on agents, which, in some cases may be a good thing, but in others may work injury to the cause. More pastors seem to be informing themselves, and then their people, of the needs of the world. Systematic giving is urged, and in some cases the giving of tithes. Several refer to efforts to promote the circulation of missionary publications. One church has taken a colored boy, and another an Indian girl, to educate. Weekly offerings are commended by all who speak of them. Monthly concerts, and children's Missionary Bands are doing a good work in training the people. Give the people information and they will give their money. One or two churches have had their benevolence stimulated by the departure of Pastor Blakely's daughter as a missionary to Turkey. New Ipswich has an annual children's missionary fair, which is one of the grandest affairs in the year for the whole town. In some places there are missionary gardens, the avails of the products going into the Lord's treasury. Campton gives at the rate of two dollars forty-seven cents per member to benevolent causes. How many other churches do as well?

EFFORTS TO PROMOTE THE CIRCULATION OF RELIGIOUS LITERATURE.

One church only, the Second in Keene, speaks of an organized effort in this direction. It has more than fifty of its members pledged to circulate tracts and religious reading. In the parish of Sanbornton there lives a retired English gentleman, who, though not a church member, at his own expense procures and circulates, and furnishes his pastor to circulate, tracts and other religious reading. An increasing number of our Sunday-schools are introducing the circulation of the Well Spring. A few churches speak of special efforts to promote the circulation or the New Hampshire Journal, and the Congregationalist. A few have started literary, or book and magazine clubs, with the idea of furnishing better reading than the people otherwise would have.

INTERESTING AND ENCOURAGING INCIDENTS.

Among those mentioned is this from Litchfield, that "every member of the church not confined at home attends the preparatory lecture and the communion. At the latter service all the congregation remains. During the year six children have been baptized, the first in thirty-four years." In Greenland most of the families in which there are church members, take one or more religious newspapers. In Candia a young girl hoping she had become a Christian, secured the help of another young girl, and they canvassed an out-neighborhood where they picked up scholars for a Sunday-school. In one place a prominent merchant has been led voluntarily to give up the sale of tobacco. Several pastors speak of individuals who have abandoned its use. One good brother who had not as much as he wished to report from his own church, briefly mentioned some encouraging signs in adjoining parishes, and said he was bound to get encouragement if he had to go outside his own parish for it.

There were few homes in this state that were not made sad when the papers announced the sudden death of Pastor Jerome and three of his children, by drowning in the lake whither they had gone for an afternoon sail. What a calamity! we say, for so it seems to us. But God may have purposes of good to reveal of which we have no knowledge, which, but for this, would not have been manifested. Our sympathies for the bereaved family are awakened, and there must have been many prayers that the Father would be very tender and merciful toward them, verifying his promise to those who are situated as they are. Pastor Sawin, too, after a long illness at the home of his son in Medford, Mass., has been called home. It is a singular coincidence that two, whose names have been so long borne on our rolls, and who were associated as teachers in our college, in different places should have been called to their reward within a week of each other. To all of these we have no doubt the Judge will say, "Well done!" The death of William D. Locke, of New Ipswich, whose face has been seen so many times in the gatherings of this body, and who was present at thirty consecutive conferences of his county, is worthy of notice here. When the Master calls us may we all be as ready to respond as, we believe, these brethren were.

REPORT OF TRUSTEES OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held in the parlor of the Young Men's Christian Association, Concord, May 26, 1886.

Prayer was offered by Rev. C. E. Milliken.

Hon. L. D. Stevens was chosen President pro tem.

The resignation of Hon. J. E. Sargent as President and member of the Trustees, was read, and upon motion his resignation was accepted.

The Trustees proceeded to ballot for President, and Hon. Lyman D. Stevens was duly elected.

Record of meetings of the Trustees, and Prudential Committee, during the past year, were read by the Secretary and approved.

The Treasurer read his report, and the same was accepted.

Rev. Chas. E. Harrington, of Keene, and David E. Willard, of Concord, were elected Trustees to fill vacancies occasioned by the removal of Rev. Wm. H. Hubbard from the state, and the resignation of Hon. J. E. Sargent.

The Trustees then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and the following were elected:—

President—Hon. Lyman D. Stevens.

Secretary—R. P. Staniels.

Treasurer—John C. Thorn.

Auditors—Hon. L. D. Stevens, David E. Willard.

Prudential Committee—Hon. L. D. Stevens, R. P. Staniels, John C. Thorn.

David E. Willard was elected member of the Finance Committee to fill the vacancy occasioned by resignation of Hon. J. E. Sargent.

The Trustees voted that an annual salary of fifty dollars be allowed and paid the treasurer for his services.

The Trustees' meeting then adjourned.

A meeting of the Prudential Committee was held at office of the President, July 1, 1886, and the usual appropriations were made to beneficiaries, and the Treasurer was authorized to pay the sums voted to the several persons named, in two semi-annual payments.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATION.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicates that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included. In the right hand tables, under "Contributions," the dotted lines indicate that there was no contribution to that object; a blank space, as before, meaning no report.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the state, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able, and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to their society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to his objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the Trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male or female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad, and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt? and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred?

The Trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel held and practiced by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expences of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the Treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such reference as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regularly employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected.

The attention of churches asking aid, and of missionaries is respectfully but very earnestly called to these rules. Mistakes causing much perplexity and loss of time, and often great dissappointment, are constantly made for want of attention to them. All church committees and missionaries have access to them and are without excuse if they do not consult them. Non-compliance with these rules, especially if repeated, is regarded as a sufficient reason for withholding furthur aid from the delinquent church or missionary.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the Secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the Treasury. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid.
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount.
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the Secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete, and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to Rev. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregation contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the Treasurer, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, and a payment of $50 into its treasury to become a life member of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the Secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, in the month of May at the call of the Secretary.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the Secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the Secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the Secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the Secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasury shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eighty-fifth annual meeting of the society was holden in the meeting-house of the First Congregational church in Manchester on Wednesday, September 16, 1886.

The meeting for the choice of officers was holden at 5 o'clock P. M. In the absence of the President, Hon. Edward Spalding, M. D., one of the Vice Presidents, occupied the chair.

On motion it was voted that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The Rev. C. N. Flanders, Dea. D. E. Willard and Rev. H. P. Peck were appointed to constitute that committee. They reported the following list of officers who were duly elected, to wit:

The Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D. D., Hanover, President.

Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, Nashua; Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, Portsmouth; Rev. WILLARD G. SPERRY, Manchester, Vice Presidents.

The Rev E. H. GREELEY, Concord, Secretary.

Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Concord, Treasurer.

Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, Concord; GEO. E. JENKS, Esq., Concord, Auditors.

The Rev. F. D. AYER, Concord; The Rev. QUINCY BLAKELY, Campton; Dea. A. H. DANIELS, Manchester, Trustees for three years.

Adjourned to 7:30 P. M.

At 7:30 P. M. the President took the chair and introduced the public services of the annual meeting, and called upon the Rev. A. J. McGown to lead in prayer. In the absence of the Treasurer his report was read by the Secretary, Rev. E. H. Greeley, who also read the report of the Trustees. The President then addressed the meeting upon the crisis through which the Society, in common with the churches of the State, is passing, consequent upon losses by emigration, urging to the increased effort which a crisis involving consequences of so great moment demands. He was followed by the Rev. Samuel W. Dike, Secretary of the N. E. Divorce League, who spoke upon the problem of supplying the religious wants of the country towns, especially of that portion of the population living remote from church privileges. Short addresses were also made by Rev. Dr. Wallace and Rev. H. M. Penniman. On motion it was voted that the reports of the Treasurer and of the Trustees be accepted and printed as usual. After singing and benediction by the President, the Society adjourned to meet in connection with the meeting of the General Association in September, 1887.

EIGHTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-fifth annual report, it being for the year ending August, 1st, 1886:

THE TREASURY.

The remainder from last year's account was $1,532.61. The receipts during the year were, in donations from churches and individuals, $3,518.57; in donations from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $2,283.02; from legacies $2,846.25; from income of permanent fund, $2,871.51; and from miscellaneous sources, $42.43. There were also received in donations paid by direction of donors to the parent society at New York, $494.57, and in legacies, $110.41. In addition to this there were sent directly from the state to the treasury of the society at New York, in donations, $1,427.19, and in legacies, $3,229.64. The whole amount contributed from all sources in the state in aid of home missions for the year, aside from certain appropriations from the Whitehouse Fund, was $16,822.28. The amount expended within the state was $11,755.71.

The contributions from churches and individuals, while quite as numerous as in preceding years, were less in amount. The falling off in those intended for the state work was $771.79, and in those intended for the work on the frontier it was $1,142.68. The receipts from the ladies' Cent Society were $525.63 larger than last year, a most gratifying increase and of bright omen for the future. Reckoning this with the donations from churches and individuals, the falling off in contributions for the state work would be reduced to $246.16. The total amount received from legacies was $5,670.30 larger than last year, and the total amount from all sources, $4,147.10 larger than last year. The increase is a very gratifying one, but it diminishes our satisfaction to find that it is all, and more than all, in legacies, always a very uncertain quantity, and that if these had been no larger than in the preceding year, we should have been obliged to report a debt of more a thousand dollars.

THE WORK OF THE YEAR.

Sixty-seven missionaries have labored under the direction of the society during the year; twenty-eight for the whole year, and thirty-nine for a shorter period. Of these fifty-six were ordained ministers, and eleven licentiates. Sixty-nine fields were occupied, in four of which there is no church. Eighteen of these fields were "yoked" with other fields. The aggregate amount of missionary labor performed was forty-five years. The number of fields occupied was six greater than in the preceding year, the number of missionaries employed the same, and years of labor one and one half greater.

The aggregate work of the year was larger than any done by the society since 1837, and, with the exception of the years from 1835 to 1837, the largest in its history. If by diligent search men could have been found for other fields which were calling earnestly for them, the work done would have exceeded that of any previous year. New fields have opened more rapidly than at any time previously for many years, and there is every prospect that this increase will continue for some time in the future.

Sixty-three of the churches aided report an aggregate membership of 2,878, an average of 45 1-2 each. Of these 653 are reported as absentees. Sixty-seven Sunday-schools report an aggregate of 4,756, an average of seventy-one each. Sixty-eight congregations report an average attendance of 5,383—seventy-nine each. The Sunday-schools, as reported, average two less than last year, and the congregations one more. There were added to these churches, by profession, one hundred and one, and by letter, fifty-six. There were removed, by death, fifty-one; by dismission, fifty-three, and five by exclusion, making a net gain of forty-eight. Their contributions to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society were $602.90, and to other benevolent objects, $1,255.94, an advance upon those of the preceding year of ninety per cent. It would be safe to say that these churches have not been behind others in the amount, as tested by the Master's rule, which they cast into the treasury of Christian benevolence.

Perhaps the most significant and important of the developments in the progress of our work during the year is the rapid and even startling increase in the demands upon the resources of the society. In no recent year have so many new churches called for its aid. Taken in connection with the fact that a large part of our churches, now self-supporting, depleted as they are by emigration, are year by year growing weaker, and with the fact, also, that there is manifested some restlessness under the growing burdens thus imposed, on the part of those called upon to sustain it, this increased and increasing demand suggests questions of grave importance. Ought these churches, so many of them, at least, to be sustained by the charities of other churches? Are they all needed? Could not some at least of them sustain themselves by a proper amount of exertion? What has made and kept them so weak? Could they not in some cases be merged with advantage to the general cause, in some evangelical church of another name upon the same field? Is it not in some cases a sectarian rather than a Christian purpose that keeps them alive?

These are fair questions. No one can properly object to their being put, provided the inquiry is pushed to an intelligent and candid issue. We have often wished that a competent committee of those who doubt the wisdom of aiding these churches to so large an extent, could and would subject every appropriation made by the society to the most careful examination.

There are some facts bearing upon the proper answer to such inquiries, which should be known and should have their proper weight attached to them. There is, at least, this to be said that is worthy of careful consideration. These aided churches are surrounded by a population whose spiritual care devolves upon them, averaging more than 400 each, more than 25,000 in all. This population is almost exclusively of the old New Hampshire stock, energetic, enterprising, intelligent, full of the restless impulse which is always reaching out after larger spheres of activity. It is of that class from which, far more than from any other, have gone the ministers of the gospel, educators, professional men, leading men of business, men holding positions and filling spheres of honor and trust and influence, who have made the name of their native state honorably known throughout the land. There is not in the world a class that as a class are more highly endowed with those elements of character which fit for controlling influence in churches, communities and states. In no way can we more effectively touch and direct the sources of power and influence for the mighty future which is opening before our land and the world, than by giving the best possible training, intellectual and spiritual, to just this element of our population. Our churches cannot afford, the church at large cannot afford, the world cannot afford, to leave it untrained for the emergencies of the times that are before us.

But why do these churches not rely upon themselves? Why are they calling upon others for aid? Why are they so weak? Have they not been unfaithful, and so proved themselves unworthy? The answer is not far to seek. On some of these fields the population is and must be sparse and possessed of little wealth, and the burdens for those in the community, very likely a small minority, who are interested, is too heavy for them to bear alone. They must have help or the community must be left without the gospel. But this is not the principal reason. The towns in which forty-three of the churches aided last year are situated, depleted as they have been by emigration, have diminished in population within the last thirty or forty years on an average fully thirty per cent. This implies that these churches, with the congregations connected with them, have been depleted of their young life and energy to the extent of more than forty per cent. They have been compelled to see their children, the hope and future strength of the church, go down into the centres of business, and out over the country, becoming thus poor that others might be rich. They have, indeed, in this way made the richest of possible contributions to the larger churches, and especially to the work upon the frontier, but they have themselves been left too weak to carry their burdens longer alone. If any in our larger churches have any doubts upon this point let them look over the membership of their own churches, and ask where they come from, and what would have been the condition of their churches if they had not drawn their strength from the hills.

But do these churches cultivate as they should a spirit of sturdy self-reliance and of manly independence? It would not perhaps be safe to say that there are no cases of a disposition to rely upon the help of others when a truer spirit of Christian self-sacrifice would lead to self-support, but it is safe to say that such cases if they exist are rare, that in the great majority of cases the bitterness of dependence is felt quite as keenly as it ought to be. The fact that a large majority of our aided churches have less than $20,000 each of taxable property should be a sufficient answer to suggestions of this sort. Their inability is not assumed, it is real, and such as should make their sister churches glad to aid them.

As to the fidelity and success of their work in their home fields, in the midst often of great obstacles and discouragements, let this be said: A careful examination, extending over twenty-five years, reveals the fact that the ratio of members admitted to them upon profession of faith to the removals by death is fully twenty per cent. larger than in the stronger and more favored churches, and that the ratio of the number in their Sabbath-schools to the membership of the church, is fully forty per cent. greater. A more decisive test could hardly be applied. No one acquainted with the facts would think of suggesting that the Christian character of their membership may be below that of the larger churches. It is in fact above it.

But the most serious objection, in many minds, to sustaining these churches arises out of the supposed shameful and suicidal multiplication of rival churches in what is at best a very contracted sphere, leading to an unseemly struggle for the mastery, cultivating a sectarian rather than a Christian spirit, and scattering and wasting the religious forces of the community. The objection if well-founded is well taken. But what are the facts? Of the sixty-five churches aided by our society last year forty-two are the sole occupants of their respective fields. To these certainly the objection does not apply.

They are doing an exclusively Christian work, unless it is made to appear that no church is needed upon the fields they are occupying. Of most of the twenty-three others it is true that they were the first churches upon the ground. They are churches which have a history. They have struck their roots deep into the soil. They have, for the most part at least, the means of doing more than any others could do to meet the religious wants of the surrounding people. It would obviously be too much to say that a church, legitimately holding the ground, should give way simply because another church has been planted, with or without reason, by its side. It would be too much to say that such a church should not sometimes even stand firmly for its rights against unjust and unfraternal encroachment. We are not pursuing a course of sectarian aggression or aggrandizement. We are not planting or sustaining churches that there may be more churches of our own order. The cases are very few, if there is one, where our churches have not the clearest right to be and to be sustained as churches, doing in simplicity and in the observance of every just demand of denominational comity, the work of Christ.

It is not for themselves alone, or even chiefly, that these churches should be sustained. It is not indeed for itself that any church exists, but rather as a part of the forces which are carrying forward the redeeming work of Christ in the world. But this is, in some special sense, true of such churches as these. They are fountains of sweet waters, small indeed, but from which are constantly flowing streams to refresh and enrich far off valleys. There is, too, immediately around these churches, as well as around a large part of all our churches, a state of things which is more and more attracting the attention of those who are carefully watching the influences which are affecting the religous life of the time and shaping that life for the future. There is a portion of our population, large in the aggregate, living so far remote from any place of public worship as to make it practically certain that but few from it will be found in the sanctuary. This class is too large, and in all respects too important, to be safely neglected, while the question how succesfully to reach it presents at once one of the greatest and one of the most difficult problems for our churches to solve. The morals of this class are often fearfully low, and through them it is as really true that the country is corrupting our towns and cities as it is that our towns and cities are corrupting the country. However the problem of reaching them is to be solved, it would seem certain that the agency of our missionary churches, surrounded as nearly all of them are by this class, cannot be dispensed with. It must be reached by redeeming influences, if at all, largely through them.

The contributions of the churches of New Hampshire to the work upon the ever extending, receding and enlarging frontier of our country has been, and still is, very largely of men, not always perhaps given cheerfully, but yet given and of the best we have to give. Something we have done in the way of gifts of money. In the last ten years more than $65,000 have gone from the state into the treasury at New York for that work. It is not a large sum. We wish it was much larger, but yet, under the circumstances, it is large enough to express our estimate of a work whose importance every year is more and more developing and which already stands forth as unsurpassed in the magnitude of the issues depending by any other work laid upon the Christian church of our time. No churches have a better right to feel an interest in this work than ours, for none have relatively a larger number of sons and daughters in a position to be personally affected by it. Through them, and in all ways in which ability is given, our churches would have a part in claiming and holding this broad, fair land, with all mighty resources, for Christ, this land more than possibly the most effective of all the agencies which, under Him, are in coming days to carry forward His redeeming work in the world to its final triumph.

For the trustees:

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state (though some of them may be connected with Associations in other states), and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations in this state. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

N. B.—If your name is not correctly given in the following list; if the first name is not given in full; if your ordination date is not in its proper place; if your post-office is wrong, or if, before you receive the next Year Book, your post-office is changed, send immediate notice of the needed change or correction to Rev. Henry A. Hazen, Congregational House, Boston, Mass.

If your name is not found here, but should be given, write to Rev. Samuel L. Gerould, Hollis, N. H., on whose authority alone can names be inserted in the Year Book.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers, and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath in September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the Secretary, and be opened with a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The Secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the statistics of the churches and narratives of the state of religion, complete and arrange them for publication, and prepare from these several reports a narrative of the state of religion, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. The Statistical Secretary shall be the treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meeting of this body; and in addition the Statistical Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Statistical Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Statistical Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon, and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interest of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussions on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial Standing with the General Association entitling a person's name to appear upon its rolls, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some Presbyterian.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or will soon become, a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts of the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistent with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two-thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

TUESDAY, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committee, and business of the Association.

WEDNESDAY, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Reading of essay and discussion thereon.

10:30 A. M. Brief reports of delegates to foreign bodies, after which shall be a presentation of benevolent causes, only four of which, in addition to the state auxiliaries, shall be presented at any meeting. No cause shall be presented oftener than once in two years, and the order of rotation shall be: 1st year, American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Congregational Sunday-school and Publishing Society, American Congregational Union, New West Educational Commission; 2nd year, American Missionary Association, American Tract Society, Seamen's Friend Society. American College and Education Society.

2 P. M. Business of the Association.

2:30 P. M. Narrative of the State of Religion, with additional statements respecting revivals, and other facts of interest.

4 P. M. Discussion of question relating to Sabbath-schools, or a children's meeting.

7 P. M. Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund.

7:30 P. M. Anniversary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

THURSDAY, 9 P. M. Business of the Association.

9:30 A. M. Presentation of the Religious condition of Dartmouth College.

10:30 A. M. Discussion of questions.

2 P. M. The Association will attend religious services, in which a sermon shall be delivered by a minister previously appointed, and our Lord's death commemorated in the Sacrament of the Supper.

All sessions shall be interspersed with devotional exercises, with a morning prayer-meeting each day, at such time as the Committee of Arrangements shall deem best.

MINUTES.

The General Association of New Hampshire met, for its seventy-eighth annual meeting, in the Second Congregational Church at Keene, Tuesday, September 13th, at 7:30 o'clock P. M.

The opening sermon was preached by Rev. Willard G. Sperry. Text, John x, 10; Subject, "The Life which Christ Bestows."

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

8:30 o'clock. Devotional meeting led by Rev. Roderick J. Mooney.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Rev. Ebenezer G. Parsons.

Rev. Charles E. Milliken, Rev. Charles E. Havens, and Rev. Cassander C. Sampson were chosen Committee of Inquiry.

Rev. Moses T. Runnels was chosen on the Committee of Nominations to serve three years.

The Treasurer's report was read and accepted.

Voted, to assess at the rate of two and three-fourths cents per member, on the total membership of our churches, for the expenses of this Association, and for the sum called for by the National Council.

Voted, to print fifteen hundred copies of the Minutes next year.

Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D.D., Rev. Franklin D. Ayer, D.D., Rev. William A. McGinley, Hon. John J. Bell, and Hon. Joseph B. Walker were chosen to serve as a committee on the New Hampshire Journal.

Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D.D., reported on the religious condition of Dartmouth College, and in closing, submitted the following resolutions which were adopted:

Resolved, First. That we cordially approve of the movement for the introduction of thorough and systematic study of the Bible into our colleges and universities, as a part of the regular curriculum for a degree; and that we will heartily co-operate in promoting this movement so far as our personal influence may extend.

Second. That, recognizing the efficient service which the Old Testament Student is rendering in awakening enthusiasm in the study of the Bible, and in giving practical direction to the same, we cordially recommend it to all who desire a more thorough understanding of the Scriptures.

Adopted the following:

Resolved, that the General Association of New Hampshire recognizes and commends the honorable position held by Dartmouth College, in having maintained throughout its history the study of the Bible by all its students, and also in having established during the past year a still more complete system of Biblical instruction, thus anticipating a similar movement in other institutions; and the Association places on record the earnest hope that the College will unfalteringly persevere in the high stand it has taken and maintained.

Rev. Alfred J. McGown, delegate to Andover Theological Seminary, reported.

Rev. William H. Eaton, D. D., presented the salutations of the New Hampshire Baptist Convention.

Rev. Granville C. Waterman presented the greetings of the Free Baptist Yearly Meeting.

Rev. Stewart Shelden spoke in behalf of the American Congregational Union.

Rev. Willard G. Sperry addressed the Association in behalf of the Congregational Sunday School and Publishing Society.

Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., presented the claims of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Miss Bertha D. Robertson was introduced to the Association, and spoke briefly of her work among the Freedmen of the South.

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

2 o'clock. Prayer and praise service conducted by Rev. Charles A. G. Thurston.

2 : 30 o'clock. The Narrative of the State of Religion was presented by Rev. Samuel L. Gerould.

Rev. Thomas C. Smith spoke of his work in Ceylon, and introduced one of his pupils, who favored the Association with several songs in his native language.

3 : 30 o'clock. Rev. Charles S. Murkland read an Essay on "The Holy Spirit the True Conservator of Christian Doctrine and Life."

A discussion on "The present needs of our Sunday Schools," was opened by Rev. Gabriel H. DeBevoise.

Voted, that the Committee on the Family Institution be continued.

Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY EVENING.

7 : 30 o'clock. Prayer.

Hon. Lyman D. Stevens presented a report in behalf of the Ministers and Widows' Charitable Fund.

A collection for this Fund was taken, amounting to $41.58.

The Association then gave way to the anniversary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

Adjourned.

THURSDAY MORNING.

8 : 30 o'clock. Prayer meeting led by Rev. Charles E. Milliken.

9 o'clock. Prayer by Mr. Allen Folger.

Unanimously adopted the following:

Resolved, 1st, That in view of the rapid and terrible destruction now wrought by the liquor traffic on missionary ground, as seen in Africa, "a continent flooded with rum," in India, "found sober and made drunken" by civilized nations, and in view of the ruin wrought in our own country and state, we, the representatives of the Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New Hampshire protest against this traffic for drink.

2d, In view of the baneful influence of those in the liquor traffic upon politics, the social and religious life of men, we recognize it as the duty of Christians to do all in their power to withstand this cruel enemy of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

The Committee on Nominations reported the following, which was adopted:

Delegate to Andover Theological Seminary—Rev. John L. Merrill, Primary; Rev. Charles A. G. Thurston, Substitute.

Preacher before the Communion—Rev. Hervey G. Pillsbury, Primary; Rev. Albert Watson, Substitute.

Committee on Sunday School work— * Rev. Willard G. Sperry, to serve one year; Rev. Austin H. Burr, to serve two years; Rev. Gabriel H. DeBevoise, to serve three years.

Auditor—Virgil C. Gilman, of Nashua.

* This nomination was accidentally omitted by the committee in making their report, and is inserted here for information.

The place of meeting in 1888—was left to the secretary to fill.

The Committee of Inquiry reported, and the report was adopted.

Essay—The Bible the Standard of Christian Doctrine and Life. Rev. Franklin D. Ayer, D. D., Primary; Rev. Tilton C. H. Bouton, Substitute.

Discussion: 1. Present Methods of Work among the Young People. Rev. John M. Dutton, Primary; Rev. Henry M. Penniman, Substitute.

2. The Relation of Revivals to the Means of Grace. Rev. Geo. A. Mills, Primary; Rev. Albert Watson, Substitute.

3. Providential Indications in the present Missionary Revival. Rev. Edward P. Butler, Primary; Rev. William A. C. Converse, Substitute.

Rev. John W. Adams presented the fraternal greetings of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. Hervey Gulick spoke on "The Purity of our Churches, how maintained."

Rev. George I. Bard read a paper on the "Grounds of Obligation to keep the Christian Sabbath, and how to secure its observance."

Adopted the following:

Resolved, that the thanks of this Association be extended to the Church that has opened its house of worship for its sessions, to the good people of Keene who have received the members to their hospitalities, to the Choir for their excellent music, and to the railroads for reduction of fare to those attending the meetings.

11: 30 o'clock. Rev. Cassander C. Sampson preached the sermon before the sacrament from Rom. v, 8, "God commendeth his love toward us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

Rev. Cyrus Richardson and Rev. Henry M. Penniman officiated at the communion table.

Adjourned.

FRANKLIN D. AYER, Moderator.

ALBERT WATSON, Scribe.

ARTHUR N. WARD, Assistant Scribe.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

BY THE STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

Our annual walks around our Zion do not always reveal what we would be glad to see, yet the inspection is an important one, and one that should be used with profit. It is only as we see our mistakes that we can rectify them; only as we see the field that we know where to labor, and what to do. This survey should be for some other purpose than to awaken pleasurable emotions, or for giving us cause to congratulate ourselves that we have done so well. It is always well to be humble, and some of these surveys are calculated to bring us very far down into the valley. If they shall indicate the need of greater exertion in any direction, or if they suggest that unnecessary efforts have been made in other directions, the wise will govern themselves accordingly.

It is sometimes well to extend our field of vision over more than a single year, as this will give a better idea of our real condition. A somewhat noted discussion was carried on last winter in the columns of the New York Times in regard to the religious condition of our country towns. Of those who argued that religion was declining, most cited in proof isolated examples that had come under the writer's notice, but these happened to be, as some of us knew, exceptional cases. It is lamentably true that some few places, owing to a combination of circumstances, seem to be lapsing into a state of semi-heathenism. But this is hardly true of more than a very small minority of our towns.

Among the writers was a Christian lawyer of large practice, and with a judicial mind, who, before writing, took the pains to send to two hundred ministers in different parts of New England, asking the results of their observation and experience in the locality of their home. From these replies he showed that religion and morality were not on the decline, but were in a more healthy state than they had ever been.

These letters led me to make a little investigation based on the annual statistics of our churches. We are unfortunate in not having begun their compilation at an earlier date, and in their being so imperfect in the first years of their compilation. Very few then realized their importance, as some do not now, though there is a steady improvement from year to year. But in 1840 the churches had so far responded to the call, that their reports, for the most part, are reliable as far as they go. In that year the state had a population of two hundred eighty-four thousand. In forty years, or in 1880, it had increased to three hundred forty-seven thousand, which was a gain of a little more than twenty-one per cent. In 1840 we reported sixteen hundred church members, in 1880 two thousand—a gain of twenty-five per cent. Assuming that there has been no gain in the other denominations, we see that church members have increased about four per cent. more than the population. Doubtless other denominations could make quite as good a showing as ours. It is to be regretted that the gain was no more, but it is encouraging to know that, as a state, we are not yet in a decline.

I have selected a few typical towns with the result of finding there has been a similar growth in them. Take Hollis, for example, a town of farmers. It has five hundred less population than sixty years ago, and yet the church membership in all these years has not materially changed. Leaving out the hill towns where the emigration has been the greatest, and those others where manufacturing or business has invited imigration, the churches have more than held their own. It must not be forgotten that the former strength of the now very feeble churches is transferred to the larger churches, in business centres. Alstead, Chesterfield, Nelson, Stoddard, and other places in Cheshire county, are weak, but it is largely because their strong ones are now helping make the churches of Keene stronger.

It is true there are towns where our churches have become extinct, but in most of them there are other churches to take their places. In other instances the towns themselves are nearly extinct. Roxbury, which keeps up its church organization, and sustains public worship during the summer, has a population of only one hundred twenty-six. We still retain Surry on the roll, though our church in that place has not reported for some years. But it has a Methodist church, and the town has a population of only three hundred twenty-six. To offset the cases where the churches have become extinct there are as many where they have been organized. In 1830 we had one hundred forty-seven churches; now there are one hundred ninety-three. Taking the whole field into view the gain has been greater than the loss.

It is said that people do not attend church as formerly. Doubtless this is true, but in many cases there are sufficient reasons for it. Yet as the statistics in regard to attendance never have been collected there is no way of proving it except by the memory of the aged, and this is untrustworthy, as we all know. It is not impossible that if the statistics for the whole state had been kept, it would be found that as many persons during the year were now found in the house of God on the Sabbath as fifty or a hundred years ago. One has only to read the local church records of that period to have his idea of the Arcadian simplicity and purity of the people sadly shaken. The intemperance is generally admitted, and, if we could believe what we sometimes hear, we should suppose this was the only vice or failing of the people of a former generation. But their records show there was quarreling, and breaches of social purity that would startle one in these days.

The Manchester Mirror recently sent reporters to all the Protestant places of worship in that city, with the result of finding an attendance of three thousand six hundred fifty-one, and "in most cases the reporters were told that the congregations were not up to the usual standard." This is not as good a showing as we could wish, but if there were added the number who would have been present but for infirmity or needful duties elsewhere, it would make a very respectable showing.

I am persuaded it cannot be maintained with any show of justice that the old times were better than the new. The wheels of God's chariot are not rolling backward. We have reason for gratitude and courage, and for girding ourselves anew for the conflict, with more of faith, prayer and effort than ever before.

THE PRESENT STATE OF THE CHURCHES.

Coming now to the present condition of our churches, the words of pastor Haynes of North Hampton, in reporting his own church, so fittingly describes the state of things in the majority that I quote them. He says, "If we judge from the attendance at the preparatory lecture and the Thursday evening prayer meeting, we may say that many members of the church are under the influence of a spiritual narcotic. But if we judge from the attendance on the Sabbath, and what is better still, from personal conversation with believers, we are led to entertain a more hopeful opinion. The religious life of the church has been flowing on for the past year with little noise. The current has been manifestly slow, but the water is not wholly stagnant. The breezes of worldliness have been blowing quite continuously and strongly up the stream, but they have not wholly carried the tide with them."

The following churches report a quiet interest during the year, with more or less conversions: Charlestown, Epping, Exeter, Hillsboro' Bridge, Lebanon, West Lebanon, Meriden, Nashua First, Newport, Peterboro' and Rochester. Alstead Center speaks of three conversions, and Jaffrey of twelve. In Barrington eleven have united with the church by confession, in Fitzwilliam ten, in Gilsum four, in Hampstead five, in Hebron seven, in Lancaster fourteen, in Manchester First eighteen, in Meriden twenty-nine, in Orford five, in Piermont ten, in Stoddard six, in Sullivan eight, and in Wilton three. It should be borne in mind that some of these churches are among our smallest ones, and the accessions mean to them more than a much larger number in some of the stronger churches. I have noticed that our pastors hesitate to speak of religious interests in their fields as a revival, even when considerable numbers give evidence of having been born of the Spirit. Pastor De Bevoise of Keene Second speaks of a steady work of grace during the year, resulting in bringing into the church twenty-six by confession and sixteen by letter. Pastor Crane of Manchester, West, one of our recently organized churches, is rejoicing in the accession of twenty-five new members by confession. The church in Mason last summer called as her pastor a young man just from his studies in England. His coming was followed by a religious awakening such as the town has not enjoyed for a long time. Thirty have joined the church by confession, and the interest in the town has been awakened so that the church has been able to support its pastor without an appeal to our Missionary Society. At Northwood the holding of fellowship meetings, among other causes, resulted in a work of grace in which twenty-one were added to the church by confession, and seven children were baptised. Forty conversions are reported from Pittsfield. Twenty-two have joined the little church at Union by confession and six by letter, these last all being from a sister denomination. It is needless to say the church is greatly encouraged. Brothers Folger and Jackson helped in this place, as in others not specified, doing most efficient work. Several of our churches have employed evangelists. The results, in some cases were disappointing, through no fault of the evangelists, however, but because the churches were not ready to receive them. In other cases they were most helpful, as in Charlestown, Exeter and other places.

In this connection it is proper to say that a spirit of union is prevailing in several of our churches that have been racked by internal dissensions,—one of the surest of signs that the Lord is at work on the hearts of his people.

PROMOTING THE EFFICIENCY OF THE CHURCH.

The methods adopted for promoting the efficiency of the church are not especially novel, but they go to show that the Lord honors the efforts of his children, and rewards them according to their work. Several speak of finding very helpful the issuing in advance of topics for the prayer meeting. Hillsboro' Bridge, Keene Second, Lyme, and Peterboro', have been organized during the year for specific work, the members being assigned to different fields. Wherever Christians are put to work, a blessing is sure to follow. The prevailing coldness noticed by so many would be changed to a song of rejoicing if, as in Nehemiah's day, the people "had a mind to work." He is now the best pastor who knows how to set his people to work.

The organization of the Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor in many places is stirring up the churches to greater activity. A large number of these societies have been formed during the year, and in all these places the pastors speak of surprisingly good results.

In one church the exercise of discipline has proved a means of grace; perhaps it might in some others. In two places the parish society has been disbanded, and the churches have found themselves strengthened by it. It is coming to be a serious question if it be not better in all our churches to move toward this change.

ABSENT MEMBERS.

One of the Conferences desired the question sent out, "What do you do with your non-resident members?" The answers, for the most part, are what might be expected, but a few are extraordinary. One reports that it has non-resident members of thirty years' standing. Several of the churches have an annual roll call, in which they expect to hear, in person or by letter, from every member; a most excellent practice that others of us might do well to copy. Our non-resident membership constitutes about one-fifth of the total membership, and rests as a burden upon many churches. And the burden has developed the uncongregational method of dropping them after a certain number of years. In many cases no other course is open, perhaps, yet if these persons, when they went out from us had been followed by the christian counsels of pastor and brethren there would be fewer of these cases to trouble us. If these absent brethren could only realize how they were hanging as a dead weight upon us, and if the spirit of Christ was actually developed in them, we should soon shorten our list.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Our Sunday Schools are steadily gaining in influence and power, and are doing a work for our children that can be correctly estimated only when they have come upon the stage of action. To increase interest a few churches offer a Bible or other reward for constant attendance, or for committing portions of the Scriptures. A few report furnishing the school with Kittredge's "Sermon Text Book." In Kensington a banner is assigned each quarter to the class having the highest per cent. of attendance the previous quarter. In some schools general questions are asked at the close of the session, or essays are read by the teachers or some of the pupils. A few pastors report Normal classes; one meets the smaller children of his parish fortnightly, thus fulfilling the injunction, "Feed my lambs." Attendance has been largely increased in some places by the active efforts of the members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. Chautauqua Circles are proving a help to some. Prelude sermons have been adopted by a few pastors with encouraging results. A few schools have Harvest Festivals for the purpose of raising money for benevolent objects, and these have proved a means of good. The school in Lyme has a Home Department. In Hillsboro' Bridge much is made of singing, and a paid chorister is employed.

It will be found here, as in secular schools, that there is no royal road to learning. Hard work and devoted interest, even on the part of a few, will build up any school, but leaving one to run itself will soon destroy it.

MISSIONARY WORK.

The removal of so many of our families from the hill towns, and the influx of a foreign population in our manufacturing centers, is making this state emphatically missionary ground. If it shall be so recognized, and christian people shall come to feel their responsibilities as missionaries, and that such work at home is just as honorable as though performed in Dakota or Africa, we may hope for cheering results. But if the field be neglected, who can tell what the harvest shall be. The old method of one parish to a minister, and his work confined to his parish only, will hardly meet the demands of the present hour. The plan of yoking two churches may be unpopular with those churches that have always had a minister to themselves, but it may become necessary for some ministers to spread themselves over more than two churches, or many parishes be deprived of the means of grace. One small church speaks of losing twenty families in three years. I doubt if there could be a wiser expenditure of money than by the employment of one or more general missionaries for the state.

Our churches are doing a good work in reaching after the unsaved. Besides neighborhood meetings and Sunday Schools in out-districts, which are sustained by a good many of our churches, and where pastor and laymen are doing most faithful and self-denying work, I have noted the following methods of work, which cannot fail of proving a blessing to the laborer and those whom he seeks. The pastor at Harrisville has called on, and talked and prayed with, the Roman Catholic families in that town, and has been kindly received. In Hebron the pastor not only called on all the families in town, but thirty-six in adjacent towns. These he invited to church, and some of them have become regular attendants. One family of these has already united with the church. Another of them has said he now found it harder to remain away from church than he formerly found it to go. In Keene the city has been districted, and visitors call on those who do not attend church, and on those who have recently moved in. Substantially the same thing is done in Lebanon, with the addition that the committee, of ladies, look after some cases of need. The First Church in Manchester employs a lady as a parish visitor, who gives her whole time to the work, under the direction of the pastor. At West Manchester the neighborhood is canvassed for the purpose of bringing in those who do not attend church. Nashua, First, is working in the rougher parts of the city, where there have been several interesting conversions, and many gathered into the Sunday School.

TEMPERANCE.

From the reports I infer that the temperance work is advancing all along the line. The citizens generally are waking more and more to their responsibility. Bands of Hope and other organizations among the children, and town associations, are working for the rooting out the sale of strong drink. Temperance literature is distributed, and the children are taught in the public schools the danger of tampering with alcohol. In Plaistow a young lady has secured the prosecution of two saloon keepers, until the sale of liquor is virtually stopped. In at least two places the pastor has headed this movement. In Hampton, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has moved against five saloon keepers, causing them to close their places of business. They have also circulated the "triple pledge," securing two hundred fifty names; the Youth's Temperance Banner is put into every family in town where there are children—one hundred forty-four in all. The authorities were asked to close the saloons on town meeting day, and, as a compensation, they furnished hot coffee and a free lunch. In Greenfield the hotel keeper was visited by ladies, who were courteously received and assured they should have no further cause of complaint, and were invited to hold their prayer meetings in his parlors. In West Manchester three hundred seventy-seven children of the Sunday, and day, schools have signed the pledge. Cider continues to be the Gibralter of the enemy.

BENEVOLENCE.

About all I notice of interest respecting benevolence is the fact that one church speaks of changing from weekly to monthly, and another from monthly to weekly contributions, both with an increase in the amount secured, which shows there is no one method always best. Tracts on giving, especially those by Thomas Kane, have been found helpful. One pastor has taken strong ground against raising money for benevolence by entertainments. This has not, however, met the approval of all his people. Another has preached so often on the subject of benevolence that his people are coming to regard it as their minister's hobby.

RELIGIOUS READING.

Beyond providing books for the Sunday School libraries very little is done, so far as reported, in the way of circulating religious and elevating literature. The Second Church in Keene has a committee to see to the distribution of such matter. A few pastors have themselves, or through others, canvassed for various religious papers. In Wilton a provision is made for the exchange of the missionary publications. The pastor at Greenfield speaks of great good following the introduction of a religious newspaper into his families.

ENCOURAGING INCIDENTS.

Not a few speak of the work of the Society of Christian Endeavor under the head of "interesting and encouraging incidents." In Manchester, First, it became so large that a junior organization was effected for those between six and fifteen years of age. There are about sixty of these, officered by themselves, under the care of the parish visitor.

The church in Franklin found itself helped by its annual anniversary. The pastor at Lebanon meets some of his young men for ten minutes before the Sabbath service, and is greatly cheered by their prayers. One pastor speaks of the conversion of some of his church members of twenty years' standing, and of the conversion of a man whose pledge to his dying wife had been for twenty years unfulfilled. One church has had occasion to rejoice in the reception of a letter from a man and his wife who had been excommunicated, and had moved out of the state, confessing their sin, and rejoicing in a newly found Saviour. A young man in a manufacturing village in answer to the united prayers of several was brought to Christ, and now gives much of his time to Bible study and to christian activity. A college student, at home on a vacation, attended a neighborhood prayer meeting, which was the means of his conversion; he returned to his studies and started a class prayer meeting. A young lady witnessed a baptism which fixed her attention as nothing before had done; two years after she married, and invited her husband to begin a religious life, and together they have just confessed their faith. A young lady from another town was teaching in a district remote from church; under discouraging circumstances she started a Sunday School, which has since been kept up with much interest. All these things go to show how the Lord is willing to help those who will help themselves, and should greatly encourage us to sow beside all waters.

The year has wrought its changes in the ranks of our ministry. The only one in active service at the time of his death was the Rev. Josiah H. Stearns, D. D., for almost thirty years the faithful pastor at Epping. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him. Rev. James Doldt, who had been at Canterbury upwards of fifteen years gave up his work a few weeks before his death. Rev. William Clark, D. D., will be missed in many a home as well as in our religious assemblies. These all died in the faith, and have gone to their reward. Pastor Norcross of North Conway for many weeks was apparently near the grave, but is permitted to continue his work, though with impaired health. Our sympathies are extended to our brother in Ossipee whose home has been darkened by the death of his wife.

We report one more church than last year, Conway Second. This was a branch of the church at North Conway, and as such was cared for by pastor Norcross. It has now taken a separate life. The Presbyterian church at Londonderry which withdrew from Rockingham Conference some years since has voluntarily returned.

As we take up our pilgrim's staff for the journey of another year, we have reason for profound gratitude for the way we have been led the past year. We have occasion for humility because we have not been more faithful, yet God is faithful and he is patient with all our failings. Therefore we may go forward with courage, because He still lives who has promised that "all things shall work together for good to them who love God."

REPORT OF THE MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

The annual meeting of the Trustees was held at the rooms of Young Men's Christian Association, in Concord, May 27, 1887.

Meeting was called to order by the President, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Charles E. Milliken.

The report of the meetings of Trustees and Prudential Committee during the past year was read by the Secretary and approved.

The report of the Treasurer was read and accepted, and ordered to be placed on file.

The Trustees then proceeded to ballot for a Trustee to fill a vacancy occasioned by the death of Francis A. Fisk, and William P. Fisk was unanimously elected.

Next proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, and the following were duly elected, by ballot:—

President—Hon. Lyman D. Stevens.

Secretary—Rufus P. Staniels.

Treasurer—John C. Thorne.

Auditors—Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, Wm. P. Fisk.

Prudential Committee—Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, Rufus P. Staniels, John C. Thorne.

William P. Fisk was elected a member of the Finance Committee to fill a vacancy occasioned by death of Francis A. Fisk.

Upon motion of Rev. Edward H. Greeley, D. D., the Trustees voted that hereafter the fiscal year of this fund shall close upon the second Wednesday of May in each year.

There being no further business to be transacted the Trustees voted to adjourn.

A meeting of the Prudential Committee was held immediately after the close of the Trustees' meeting, and such sums appropriated to beneficiaries as seemed proper, and the Treasurer was duly authorized to pay the sums voted to the several persons named, amounting to $1,010 in all.

The names of the Trustees of the Fund are as follows:

Rev. Franklin D. Ayer, D. D., Concord.
Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, Concord.
Hon. John W. Noyes, Chester.
Rev. Moses T. Runnels, East Jaffrey.
Rev. Edward H. Greely, D. D., Concord.
John C. Thorne, Concord.
Rufus P. Staniels, Concord.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATION.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicate that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included. In the right hand tables, under "Contributions" the dotted lines indicate that there was no contribution to that object; a blank space, as before, meaning no report.

It is hardly possible but that errors shall be found. Will you be so kind as to call the Statistical Secretary's attention to them, as it is his desire to secure accuracy. Do not presume he will find them himself, or that another will notify him, but do it yourself.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ART. 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer shall be trustees ex-officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the society and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and to transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock, A. M., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed, the date at which his services commence, and the length of time for which aid is asked.
3. The number of resident members, male or female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? and is it included in the above statement?—and if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt?—and if so, to what amount, and for what purposes was the debt incurred.

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel held and practiced by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such reference as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property,—that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executivecommittee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regulary employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected.

The attention of churches asking aid, and of missionaries is respectfully but very earnestly called to these rules. Mistakes causing much perplexity and loss of time, and often great disappointment, are constantly made for want of attention to them. All church committees and missionaries have access to them and are without excuse if they do not consult them. Non-compliance with these rules, especially if repeated, is regarded as a sufficient reason for withholding further aid from the delinquent church or missionary.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary, annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasurer. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report definite answers to the following questions are required:

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid.
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount.
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to each church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete, and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interests of the society, may be addressed to REV. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞All remittances of money, and whatever communication relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregations contributes any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each doner of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Application may be made to the secretary, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, and a payment of $50 into its treasury to become a life member of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, in the month of May at the call of the secretary.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

FORM OF A BEQUEST TO THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purposes of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

Important legacies have been lost to the society through inattention to its legal name.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eighty-sixth annual meeting of the society was holden in the audience room of the Second Congregational church in Keene on Wednesday, September 14th, 1887.

The meeting for the choice of officers was called to order by the President, Rev. S. C. Bartlett, D.D., at 5 o'clock, P. M.

On motion it was voted that a committee of three members be appointed by the chair to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The President accordingly appointed Rev. G. C. Sampson, George F. Whitcomb, and Rev. F. A. Holden to constitute such committee. They reported the following list of officers who were duly elected:

For President, Rev. SAMUEL C. BARTLETT, D.D.

For Vice-Presidents, Hon. EDWARD SPALDING, Dea. E. P. KIMBALL, and Rev. WILLARD G. SPERRY.

For Secretary, Rev. E. H. GREELEY, D.D.

For Treasurer, Hon. L. D. STEVENS.

For Auditors, Hon. JOHN KIMBALL, and GEORGE E. JENKS, Esq.

For Trustees for three years, Hon. DEXTER RICHARDS, Rev. ALFRED J. MCGOWN, and Rev. GABRIEL H. DEBEVOISE.

The society then adjourned to meet in the same place for the public exercises of the annual meeting at 7 : 30 P. M.

At 7 : 30 o'clock the society met according to adjournment, the President in the chair.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Cyrus Richardson. A suitable selection was sung by the choir at the opening and also at the close of the meeting.

The Treasurer, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, read his annual report, and the annual report of the Trustees was read by the Secretary. These reports were accepted and ordered to be printed. The President then addressed the meeting on the favorable condition of the society and of the churches of the state as exhibited in the report of the Trustees and in the Narrative of the State of Religion. He was followed by the Rev. Walter M. Barrows, D.D., one of the Secretaries of the American Home Missionary Society in an eloquent and stirring address on the condition and needs of the great home missionary work of the country.

The society adjourned to meet in connection with the meeting of the General Association in September, 1888.

EIGHTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

There remained in the treasury from the account of the previous year, $1343.36. There were received into the treasury during the year, in donations from churches and individuals, $3434.14; in donations from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $2064.15; from legacies, $2534.63; from income of permanent fund, $3091.42, and from miscellaneous sources, $29.40. There were also received in donations sent by direction of donors to the national society at New York, $1292.17. In addition to this there were sent from the state directly, without passing through our treasury, to the treasury of the national society, in donations, $4662.29, and in legacies, $3982.52. The whole amount realized from all sources for home missions in the state during the year under review, apart from certain appropriations from the Whitehouse fund, and from the income of funds held in special trust for certain churches, was $21,139.95. Of this amount $11,202.97 were expended within the state, and $9936.98, 47 per cent. of the whole, were sent to New York. There were also contributions of very considerable value in the shape of "boxes" for the families of missionaries, and other contributions made in indirect ways, some through the Massachusetts Home Missionary Society, and possibly other state societies, but we have no means of ascertaining their amount. If all such contributions could be reported to the Secretary due credit would be given for them.

The analysis of these figures is interesting and significant. While the donations from churches and individuals for our home work was $83.43 less than last year, and from the New Hampshire Cent Society $218.87 less than last year, the amount sent, by direction of donors, from our treasury to that of the national society was $797.60 larger than last year, and the amount of donations, sent directly by contributors in the state, to the national society was $3235.10 larger than last year, making the aggregate received from donations for the national society $4032.70 greater than last year, and nearly double the aggregate of any preceding year in the history of the society. The amount received from legacies for the work in the state was $311.62 less than last year, and the amount received from permanent funds $219.91 more than last year. The amount received from all sources for the work within the state was $408.04 less than last year. The whole amount sent to New York was $4675.19 more than last year. The total for the year for both societies was $4257.87 more than last year. Of this advance upon the preceding year, $3729.40 was in donations from churches and individuals; the income from this source, $11,452.75, was materially larger than in any previous year in the history of the society. It amounted to an average of seventy-four cents each for the resident membership of our churches; not a large sum, not exhibiting such a style of giving as we are confidently looking forward to in the coming years, yet testifying to a growing interest in the cause.

The increase in contributions to the national society was no doubt due largely to the urgent appeal which came from it on account of its debt. Still it discloses something of the reality and depth of the interest—latent sometimes, like the spirit of patriotism which it required the exigencies of our civil war to kindle into a burning enthusiasm—which is really felt in the evangelization of our country. It affords an earnest of what our churches can do and will do when, in the developments of God's providence, they are set face to face with the demands of this work. It shows that the heart of the Church is sound, ready to respond to any just appeal for service and sacrifice that the cause of Christ may be advanced. We hail the omen with joy and gratitude, and take from it a new inspiration of courage and hope for the future of our country. It would have been a sad revelation of the spiritual condition of our churches if an appeal, urged by considerations so weighty, had not been heartily responded to. The magnificent possibilities of our country, the position of commanding influence of among the nations to which it has been brought through a series of remarkable providences; the pouring into it of vast armies of immigrants from the old world to be incorporated into the national life, and yet, for the most part, of a character to be a menace and a peril to our institutions; the rapid growth of our population, equivalent to the addition of four states like New Hampshire each year; the ever increasing unchurched masses, many of them as really heathen as the dwellers in Ashantee, who crowd our cities, affording at once a peril and an opportunity to which our churches are but just beginning to awake; our ever-expanding frontier, furnishing the most fruitful field for the planting and rearing of churches which the world can furnish, and where churches are to have put into their hands in the coming years an opportunity and a power given to no others, and added to all the wakeful, persistent, aggressive activity of all forms of pernicious error and wrong, putting in imminent peril this heritage of our children and hope of the world,—if considerations such as these, presented in an emergency of special need, considerations than which none more weighty or urgent could be presented for any enterprise of aggressive christian benevolence in this or any age, had failed to stir very deeply the heart of our churches it would have betrayed a lack of spiritual life and sensibility darkly ominous as to their future.

The concentration of attention upon the special demands of the work of the national society no doubt diverted to some extent contributions which would otherwise have come into our treasury, so much so as at one time to threaten serious embarrassment in our state work. But an awakened interest in the national work can hardly fail in the end to react favorably upon the work at home. The more the demands of the work upon the frontier and in our cities is appreciated, the more the importance of keeping our own churches vigorously and actively alive is likely to be felt.

THE WORK OF THE YEAR AND ITS RESULTS.

Sixty-six missionaries were in the employ of the society, thirty-one for the entire year, and thirty-five for a shorter period, performing in the aggregate forty-five years of missionary labor. Fifty of these were ordained ministers, and sixteen licentiates. Sixty-three fields were occupied, fifty-nine churches, and four fields in which there is no organized church of our order. Eighteen of these fields were "yoked." The number of fields occupied was six less than in the previous year, the number of missionaries employed was one less, and the aggregate of years of labor the same as last year, an aggregate that has not been exceeded in the last fifty years. Of the nine churches aided in the preceding year but not in this, four have been for the time, three it is hoped permanently, self-supporting, three have been supplied temporarily by ministers of other denominations, one is supplied for the summer by neighboring pastors, and one is unsupplied.

Fifty-seven of these aided churches report an aggregate membership of 3099, an average of fifty-four each. Of these 532 are reported as absentees, reducing the average of resident members to forty-five. Sixty Sunday schools report an aggregate membership of 4285, an average of seventy each, thirty per cent. larger, as compared with the membership of the churches, than the general average of the Sunday schools of the churches of the state. There were added to these churches, by profession one hundred seventy-two, and by letter fifty-six. The removals were, by dismission thirty-six, by death fifty-one, and by exclusion seven, making an aggregate gain of one hundred thirty-four. The additions by profession exceed the losses by death by one hundred twenty-one. The additions by profession were larger than in any year since 1839. Their benevolent contributions were, to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society $644.77, and to other objects $1222.16, nearly the same as last year.

The year has been, in several respects, one of unusual prosperity. The fact that the amount realized for home missions has been larger than in any preceding year with only one exception, the fact especially that the direct contributions of the living to this cause far exceeded those of any previous year, would seem to demonstrate very clearly an awakening and growing interest in the work, and a stronger determination to stand by it till the day of its ultimate success. But there is still more of inspiration and encouragement in the numbers that have been added to these churches in this favored year. These numbers have not been as large as we could have wished. It is certainly to be hoped that no one will be satisfied with what has been accomplished. We would fain regard these additions as the beginning of better days, the first-fruits of the times of larger refreshing from the presence of the Lord, for which the Church is praying and waiting in hope. But it is the largest in-gathering, so far as these churches are concerned, for forty-eight years, and in view of it we thank God and take courage. The labor expended upon these churches has not been in vain. They have more than a name to live. They have not ceased to exercise the functions of churches of the living Christ in the communities where they are placed. They are still lights holding forth the word of life.

The condition of the Sunday schools sustained by these aided churches is significant and quite worthy of notice. They are for the most part in the class of communities which have the fewest young people and from which a constant stream of emigration is flowing out, bearing away their young life to nourish communities and churches elsewhere. We should expect to find their Sunday schools smaller, relatively, than those of the larger and more favored churches. But they are in fact thirty per cent. larger than the general average. And this is not only true as a fact to-day, but for the last twelve years, certainly, there has been a large relative increase in this direction. In that period, while our churches as a whole have increased their membership $8\frac{3}{4}$ per cent., the members in their Sunday schools have diminished $8\frac{5}{6}$ per cent. Of the twenty-eight churches which have been aided during the whole period, the church membership has increased $2\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. while the numbers in their Sunday schools have increased $8\frac{2}{3}$ per cent. In the net increase of membership they have, for obvious reasons, not kept pace with churches for whose growth they have been drained to supply material, but they have gathered from less fruitful fields a relative number larger by seventeen per cent. into their Sunday schools. And this result demonstrates, what from other sources we know to be true, that there is no body of christian workers in the state more faithful and efficient than the membership of our aided churches.

We not infrequently hear it said, by some whose love for them makes them keenly sensitive to all that affects their welfare, by others perhaps more than willing that their sinister prophecy should come true, that our churches are many of them dying out, destined at no distant day to become extinct. But our past history ought to convince us that a Congregational church in New Hampshire is apt to possess a vitality not easily extinguished. So far as can now be ascertained, not more than twenty-eight such churches have, from the beginning, become extinct, and a large part of these were apparently untimely organizations which perished in their infancy, never having had a pastor or a rounded and complete living organism. In some cases the surrounding population had died out or gone to new centres, leaving nothing for the churches to build upon. In some cases a church of our order yielded, perhaps properly, to one of another order which seemed to have a stronger hold upon a community small at best. In a few cases churches have become extinct which apparently were needed and ought to have lived. In addition to these twenty-eight extinct churches there are fourteen which have become merged in other churches. But in most of these cases it seems at least doubtful whether the churches should ever have been organized at all, and their return to the churches from which they went out was a gain to the general cause. We are warranted in saying that Congregational churches once planted in New Hampshire live, and God willing, are going to live. They are not indeed to be planted where they are not needed, they are not to be obtruded where churches of another name are meeting, in a substantial way, the religious wants of the community, they are not to be pushed forward in any disregard of the just demands of denominational comity, or in any want of due recognition of what churches of other names are doing for the common cause. It is not our aim to plant or sustain churches in any spirit of sectarian pride or of arrogant ecclesiasticism. It is not our wont to seek to build upon other men's foundations. But these churches appealing to us for fraternal sympathy and a helping hand are churches of Jesus Christ, holding by the head, doing the Master's work, doing the special task that He has set for them. They have a right and more than a right to be and to continue to be. In the tokens of the divine favor upon our work which we find in the review of the past year, we recognize the voice of God saying, "Speak to my people that they go forward."

We are not oblivious of the fact that there are causes in operation likely to make the struggle for existence on the part of many of these churches an increasingly severe one, and the burden of sustaining them heavier as the years go on, causes likely to make it expedient if not necessary that some, not many, of them should die at no distant day. There may come a period when there shall be no more a place or a work for some of these churches, and some, too, it may be, whose noble history will be long cherished among us. But such cases are few. Nearly every one of them ought to live, for there is clearly a place and work for them for many years yet to come. And turning from the review of a year which God has blessed we renew the solemn purpose to stand by these churches with what ever ability God may give us, to the end that they may live and not die till they have finished the work given them to do.

For the Trustees:

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state (though some of them may be connected with Associations in other states), and preceded by  are those neither serving churches nor connected with Associations in this state. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

N. B.—If your name is not correctly given in the following list; if the first name is not given in full; if your ordination date is not in its proper place; if your post-office is wrong, or if, before you receive the next Year Book, your post-office is changed, send immediate notice of the needed change or correction to REV. HENRY A. HAZEN, CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE, BOSTON, MASS.

If your name is not found here, but should be given, write to Rev. Samuel L. Gerould, Hollis, N. H., on whose authority alone can names be inserted in the Year Book.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions; the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund; a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers, and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath in September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the Secretary, and be opened by a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The Secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed. He shall also secure through the Conference Secretaries, or otherwise, an account of the state of religion in our churches, and from these make up a report to the Association, to be read at the annual meeting, and be printed in the Minutes.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the annual statistics of the churches, complete and arrange them for publication, and annually prepare from them a report, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. He shall supervise the Minutes of the General Association, and distribute its publications as directed by the Association. He shall also be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secretaries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifteen dollars, and the Statistical Secretary an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year.

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places shall be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES. 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon, and no business shall be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:—

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interest of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussions on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be followed by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each,

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association.

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and, triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial Standing with the General Association entitling a person's name to appear upon its rolls, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some Presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council, or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or soon will become a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts of the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistant with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two-thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

SUBJECT TO CHANGE BY VOTE OF THE ASSOCIATION.

Tuesday, 7 P. M. Opening sermon, to be followed by organization, choice of committees, and business of the Association.

Wednesday, 9 A. M. Business of the Association.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

By the Statistical Secretary.

An unusual number of licenses to preach have been granted by our Associations. From this it must not be supposed that a larger number than usual from this state are entertaining the ministry, the fact being that many of the Andover students have sought one of our Associations, rather than those in Massachusetts where their predecessors have usually gone. This state reports twelve students in our theological seminaries, which is hardly enough to keep up the home supply, to say nothing of furnishing our proportion for the newer fields, and for the various missionary enterprises of the day.

Seven have been ordained to the pastorate, and one installed, against nine that have been dismissed. One only in active service—Rev. George W. Rogers, of Gilsum—has been called away by death, but Rev. Sumner Clark, Rev. Jeffries Hall and Rev. Daniel McClenning, without charge, have been called up higher. Of the acting pastors more have acceded than have retired, but the number of our churches supplied with constant preaching remains about the same from year to year. Forty-six are without a permanent minister, though some of this number are supplied by students for the summer, and others are in process of obtaining ministers. This number seems to be nearly a constant one with us, as we always have just about so many vacant churches. Of this number, so far as I am aware, eleven have had no continuous preaching, or other religious services, for years, while Canaan, Deering, Effingham, Moultonboro' and Surry, have hardly members enough to be reckoned as churches. I fail to understand what is gained to us, or to these churches, by longer carrying some of them on our rolls, as, virtually, they are extinct, and are so regarded by their few surviving members.

In membership we have gained four hundred eighty-four, or one for each forty-two of our members. Whether it is enough for forty-two disciples of Christ to be the means of bringing into his visible church only one new disciple in a year, is a question we do well to ponder. To state it another way, each minister has been the means of bringing into the church on an average about three souls, or, if we reckon the expense of maintaining our religious organizations, it has cost on an average four hundred forty-two dollars to gain a soul. If we rightly estimate the worth of a soul, surely this is not too much; but as ministers and laymen we may well ask ourselves if we have done all we ought and could.

There has been a slight gain in our charities, but when we give only about two dollars thirty-five cents, each, per year, for all benevolent causes, it would seem as if we prized our religion less than we should. The average amount given by each member of our churches in the United States, is three dollars eighty-four cents, so that New Hampshire falls short of the general average by one dollar forty-nine cents, or thirty-nine per cent. The state of religion in a place is fairly indicated, as a rule, by its benevolence. Nine churches confess to giving nothing for outside causes, while thirteen make no report. It is not unfair to believe that some of these give nothing. One hundred forty-five of our churches have given to the Home Missionary cause; one hundred twenty-eight to Foreign Missions; one hundred eight to the American Missionary Association; seventy-three to the Congregational Union; fifty-two to the Sunday-school Society; forty each to the College and Education Society, and the New West Education Commission; and twenty-five to the Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund. This will perhaps indicate the relative attachment of the churches to these causes. But, since the field is the world, the non-giving churches might well ponder the question if it be not their duty annually to give something to each of the causes recommended by the National Council.

The weekly offering plan, for strictly benevolent purposes, has not generally been adopted. Where practiced it is usually regarded with favor. A few churches circulate subscription papers, but more use the contribution box with public appeals. A few laymen complain that their pastors are timid about presenting the causes of benevolence. A few years ago one of our ministers, now in heaven, frankly reported that an "appeal for a contribution from his church had a very depressing effect on him."

I have compiled, from the latest official sources, the following table, from which we may get some facts of interest:—

Denomination.	Churches.	Ministers.	Church Members.	Population 1880.
Baptist,	80	85	8,789
Congregational,	189	176	19,616
Episcopal,	30	34	1,967
Free Baptist,	109	129	8,893
Methodist,	123	117	12,930
Presbyterian,	8	10	1,015
Total,	539	551	53,210	346,991

Besides these there are several Advent and Christian churches, a few Quakers or Friends, and, perhaps, representatives of other evangelical denominations which are not reckoned in my estimate. From the table it appears that we have one church in the state for each six hundred forty-three of the population, one minister for each six hundred twenty-nine, and one church member for each six and five tenths of the population. Although it indicates that there is yet much land to be possessed, I confess I was not prepared for so favorable a showing. And it is fair to presume that there is as large a number outside the church who attend and help support its services, and are well disposed toward it—many of them being secret disciples, and others almost Christians. This being the fact we can be glad that one in three of the population of New Hampshire are under the influences of an evangelical Christianity.

THE STATE OF RELIGION.

The state of religion in our churches is not all we would like to have it,—it is not what it should be—yet it is by no means discouraging. Numerous revivals would have made us glad, but there is room for gladness without revivals. The chariot of the Lord runs on more roads than one, and, it is possible that, as a state, we have made just as much progress, have accomplished as much, and satisfied the Master as well as though there had been more revivals. To gauge all religious growth by revivals is a mistake, as it is to measure a person's piety by the number of times he takes part in a prayer-meeting. As illustrating this, some of our churches which do not speak of conversions report a large increase in their benevolent offerings, and increased interest in missionary work. Surely this is a sign of health and of real growth. If the piety of more of our church members extended down to their pockets, the kingdom of God would advance far more rapidly than it has. Another church says it has been looking after the poor and needy around it, thus bringing great joy to itself, to say nothing of the blessing to the recipients. The Master said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me."

Pastor Haines, of North Hampton, quaintly expresses the condition of things in the majority of our churches in these words: "We have been watching the enemy, casting some shells into his camp, and capturing a few of his men. We think he has been made uncomfortable at times, although he has not been attacked all along the lines, and driven from his strongholds, as we believe he will be. Quite a large per cent. of our enlisted men and women have not attended the drill, and, naturally, have not been earnest for a speedy victory. This has occasioned us grief, yet we have reason to be thankful that the veterans have stood at the post, supported by a goodly number of the younger soldiers of the Lord."

Yet we are not without special tokens of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. A quiet work of uplifting and ingathering is noted by the churches in Atkinson, Concord First, Derry East, Dunbarton, Epsom, Hampstead, Hancock, Hanover, Hopkinton, Jaffrey, Lyme, Mason, North Hampton, Ossipee, Peterboro', Piermont, Rindge and Salem. In some of these places there may not have been many conversions, but the members have been quickened. Pastor Richardson, of Nashua, speaks of his prayer-meetings as being very large, and characterized by deep spiritual feeling.

At East Andover there has been a good state of feeling, and this rather unusual statement made, that "Family worship is common with us." I fear that is more than can be said of many of our churches. On the whole we can have no desire to go back to the old days, but we could wish that the old custom of family worship might be revived as, also, reverence for the sanctuary and the Sabbath. At Nelson sickness and death have proved a means of grace to the church. Pastor Stoddard, of Haverhill, reports that "brethren meetings" have resulted in good to them. This is the first time such meetings have been reported. Why would it not be a good plan to adopt them generally? Too many of our so-called social meetings are sisters' meetings, and excellent meetings they are, too, but the sisters would be greatly encouraged if the brethren would help them more in their praying. I can't help the feeling that if we had more men to give their love and energy to church and Christian work, we should soon see an advance all along the line.

Besides the churches already named, a quiet work of grace, carried on without outside help, has been enjoyed in a number of other places, among them Antrim, where thirty have joined the church by confession during the year. We somehow have got into the habit of expecting something of the kind every year from pastors Cochrane, E. P. Butler, J. L. Merrill and Watson, whose churches have been already mentioned. Canterbury has also been revived, under the faithful labors of pastor Kimball; fifteen, mostly young people, having expressed a hope—one of these being one of the leading men of the town. Concord, South, has received to its membership thirty-one by confession, sixteen of whom came from the Sunday-school; showing that pastor Dewey and his efficient helpers have been dilligently at work. Dover, First, has had a special refreshing, twenty-six having joined the church by confession. Epping, also, has received twenty-two, which the pastor modestly refers to as the harvest from the previous minister's seed sowing.

Nineteen have come into the church at Hinsdale, and thirty-one into the second church in Keene. There has been more interest in Portsmouth than for years, fourteen having joined the church the first Sunday in June. All these blessings have come, apparently, from the faithful labors of the pastors of these churches, supplemented by the sympathy, prayers, and labors of the Christians in these places.

Evangelistic help, in one form or another, has been sought in a few other places, and with what are believed to be the most happy results. Some of our good people are inclined to look with disfavor on such assistance, but the testimony of other good and practical men, is in favor of their employment. Bath, Langdon, and Union, each, speak of having had the help of Messrs. Folger and Jackson, whose labors with them were greatly blessed. Bath also refers to its local Young Men's Christian Association as being an efficient helper, while Union is sure that its minister, since retired, was one of the efficient instruments in the good work accomplished. Newport, for some months after, felt the impetus of the annual convention of the state Young Men's Christian Association, which met there in the autumn.

Four churches report the work of professional evangelists with them, and all rejoice in the results of their labors, none discovering any harmful results, which are feared by many. Pastor Heald says:—"Our parish has been unusually blessed during the past year. In the month of October, under the leadership of Evangelists Pratt and Birdsall, occurred the most powerful revival this town has ever experienced. Christians were quickened, backsliders reclaimed, and sinners converted. Since that time thirty persons have united with the church on confession of their faith. Great improvement in the morals of the town has been wrought through this work." Evangelist Mills conducted meetings in Exeter during the autumn, one result of which was the addition of a good number to both churches. His work seemed to be most successful with the young, though it commended itself to all classes. Similar meetings, with similar results, were held in Manchester, the First church uniting with the First Baptist and the Methodist churches in employing Evangelist Sayford, assisted by a male quartette. Marlboro' reports the conversion of thirty under the judicious labors of Evangelist E. E. Davidson. Quite as helpful as the conversions was the encouragement and stimulus given the churches, and the improvement in the moral tone of the community.

PROMOTING THE EFFICIENCY OF THE CHURCH.

Under this head the brother at Epping says some words that are worth repeating: "An endeavor on the part of the members has been made to demonstrate in their lives that religion means what they profess. Hence debts have been cancelled through labor and sacrifice. People have walked in the spirit of kindness, gentleness, and charity. Discord has been kept out, and the people have striven together in love." It is the exemplification of the gospel in the lives of its professors that is especially needed. With this we could put to silence the objections of very many. Do we not sometimes seem to place too much stress on what is called an active Christian life, and leave in the background the adorning the gospel of God our Savior by a well ordered life and godly conversation?

Many of our churches have adopted the plan of making the annual church meeting an occasion for bringing together as many as possible of the members of the church, the resident and non-resident; getting letters from those too far away to come, or those who are unavoidably detained; and spending a part of the time in conversation and social festivities, with a dinner or supper together. Besides the enjoyment gotten out of such an occasion at the time, it is believed that it cements the church together by giving the members an opportunity to become acquainted with each other, and learn of each others welfare. The social element in our churches doubtless requires more cultivation, receiving which it would yield large returns.

In Hampstead monthly consecration meetings have been introduced. The pastor says: "This meeting is held on Monday evening so as to bring it as soon after the Sabbath as possible; it is distinct from any other meeting of the church, being confined wholly to those who are Christians, and those who desire to enter the Christian life. None are expected to attend who do not wish to live more holy, devoted lives. Requests for prayer are presented, great freedom is allowed; we simply wait on the Lord together, and the Lord graciously smiles upon us, and gives us a spiritual refreshing. As all who attend this meeting feel themselves to be of one heart, and of one mind, there is greater freedom in speaking and praying than in a mixed meeting. It is a decided success, a positive means of grace." At Northwood similar meetings have been held through the year, and with a similar result.

At East Andover weekly meetings for social purposes, reading and singing have been held during a part of the year. Music has added to the efficiency of this church, as it has in other places. At Peterboro', and elsewhere, a canvass of the town has been made, for the purpose of ascertaining the number of non-church goers, and the denominational preferences of irregular attendants. The result of this canvass is not stated.

Pastor Butler, of Lyme, gets as many as possible of his young men to take the lead of the meetings of the church; he also circulates a church paper, thereby promoting the efficiency of his church. Pastor Ruland sets his church members to visit, and encourage to attend church, the habitual neglectors of the sanctuary. Pastor Mooney says, he takes pains to find out each person's gifts, and then instruct him how to use it.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

In some places a diminution of attendance and interest is reported; in others there is an increase. The little missionary church at Stoddard reports an increase of forty-eight per cent. At Canterbury almost every one at the morning service stops to the session of the school; at Nelson, "none feel themselves too wise to attend." To increase the interest in, and efficiency of, the schools, various methods have been tried. At Jaffrey, East, the teachers read short essays on points in the day's lesson at the close of each session. At Danbury the asking the "Seek further questions" has stimulated study. Normal classes are reported by a few churches. In Barnstead Parade, in the Bible class, an effort is being made to combine social prayer with the study of the Word. At Lancaster the chorister is making a special effort to teach the children the principles of singing.

In the way of training to benevolence, some schools give to each member of a part of the classes a small sum of money to trade upon, the avails to be given for missions. One of our largest schools gives its entire contributions for missionary purposes, and pays its running expenses by birthday offerings. Other schools make birthday offerings for missions. The school in Lyme supports a pupil in a mission school in India, and also pays a part of the salary of one of the western state Sunday-school missionaries. A few of our feeble churches, Sandwich and South Merrimack in particular, are deserving of much credit for sustaining their schools and prayer-meetings without the aid of a minister.

SOCIETIES OF CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

It would seem that this new organization has found favor in most of our churches. Yet from one comes the sad statement, "We have none, and not a young Christian in the church, nor one in the congregation as far as known." A few of our pastors do not speak of it with much enthusiasm, and one of the stronger churches reports a flourishing society abandoned about a year ago. This was very much to the pastor's regret, he says, though it seemed the wise thing to do, inasmuch as it detracted from the support and interest of the regular prayer-meeting, and the Sunday evening service. On the part of some a fear is expressed that this society, now almost everywhere so popular, may result in exalting it, in the minds of its members, above the church, or in dividing the church into two parties—the old folks and the young people—and doubtless a wise oversight must be had or this will be the result. One or more societies provide against this by receiving members without regard to age, the old and the young together.

But in a large majority of places the pastors speak of the societies as exceedingly helpful. These words from one of them seem to voice the opinion of most: "There can be no question as to the benefits of such an organization within the church. With us it is training the younger Christians in just that sort of work that will soon wholly rest upon them. A lively interest has been maintained since its organization, and this has been kept up, I believe, because all have something to do. If the members of the church generally would take upon themselves similar responsibilities, it is believed there would be a similar interest in the church. Our young people who are not Christians usually seem willing to join this society as associate members, and some of these have already become active members."

As showing what it does, pastor Odlin says that seventeen in his society have this year taken the pledge to the Christian life. In Epping, Hampstead, and Jaffrey East, and other places, its committees take charge of the monthly missionary concerts, also, in one or more places, of the monthly Sunday-school concert of prayer. In Keene, Second, it became so large that additional room had to be secured. In Manchester, First, twenty of its members have united with the church during the year, and the society has raised about seventy dollars, most of which has gone to outside charitable objects.

MISSIONARY WORK.

It would seem by the reports that more than usual in the way of aggressive work has been done. Besides school-house meetings in sparsely settled communities, not a few Sunday-schools are kept up. The little church in Conway sends out a delegation during the summer to sustain a school in the neighboring town of Albany, where there is no church of any kind. Portsmouth is arranging to build a chapel to accommodate its mission school. Nashua, First, employs a lady to visit among the destitute, supply their needs and hold meetings with them. Keene, Second, and Lebanon, have a visiting committee, and West Lebanon makes an effort to bring every home under gospel influences; if the people will not come to church, the gospel is carried to them. In a few places the Ladies' Benevolent Societies look after the needy, feeding and clothing them, and inviting them to church. In a few places conveyance is provided for those who could not otherwise attend. In Orford, the Sunday-school Quarterly is placed in the families of non-church goers. While there is so much effort to bring in the outsiders, in some places there is too much of a disposition to neglect them. One of the pastors, who had formerly labored in the west, notices the great difference between the practice there and here in the way of greeting strangers, and inviting those without a church home to the house of God.

TEMPERANCE.

"The mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small," some one has said. For upwards of fifty years the church has been arrayed against the sin of intemperance, fighting it in one way or another. Sometimes it has seemed as if God took no note of the bitter cries of the sufferers, and of the prayers and efforts of His people; but the fight has been kept up and the end is not yet, though it is nearer than a year ago. By temperance organizations among young and old, and particularly by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, a great deal has been done to keep the sentiment up to high water mark. The little town of Stoddard has circulated the temperance pledge in all its schools; in North Hampton it has been circulated through the parish, under the auspices of the Sunday-school, and two hundred seventy signatures obtained. In open town meetings in Marlboro' and Meredith Village the subject has been discussed; in the latter place such a union, Sunday evening, meeting has been kept up monthly for nine years. Portsmouth maintains a coffee house on the wharf, for the benefit of the sailors, that they may have a place for lunching and lounging without being exposed to the temptation to drink.

But in the execution of the state prohibitory law more has been accomplished than ever before. By an amendment to the law, passed at the last session of the legislature, the power seems now to be in the hands of temperance people, and the Law and Order Leagues, and citizens, are enforcing the prohibitory law to such an extent that the rum power has really been terrified. Our county solicitors, on petition of twenty reputable citizens, have not hesitated to bring the power of the law to bear on large as well as small dealers, so that some men who accounted themselves very respectable citizens have found themselves on the very threshold of the jail, if they have not seen the inside of the cells. This was so much more than they expected that they have concluded that discretion was the better part of valor, and so have ceased their nefarious traffic. What the next move of the enemy will be remains to be seen, but so far the state has seemed to prosper fairly well without its former allowance of stimulants. The duty of all good citizens is to keep their eyes open, and strike as sharply and powerfully at any time the enemy shall disclose himself.

HOME EXPENSES.

One of the Conferences desired that the churches be asked as to their method of meeting home expenses. I have not accurately collated the answers given the question, but it appears that a large majority, say seventy per cent., depend on the old method of carrying around the subscription paper. Twenty-five per cent. have adopted the "envelope plan," or a modified form of it, with weekly or monthly payments, and about five per cent. depend on the rent of pews. The latter are all our larger churches, though not all the larger churches pursue this plan. A curious result of the adoption of the envelope plan is noted in one place,—from which the wise can draw their own inferences. The church alluded to found itself at the end of the first year with a surplus of two hundred fifty dollars, and at the end of the second year with a deficit of the same amount. It appears that not a few of our churches have invested funds for the support of the gospel, which may be a good thing in a weak church, but liable to work harm in a church able to care for itself.

INTERESTING INCIDENTS.

Some items of interest are reported that are worth gathering up and preserving. Campton greatly mourns the loss of its pastor who, for almost twenty-five years, with his wife, did so faithful work in the place, and in the county, that they will long be remembered by the people. Greenland is heavy at heart because of the death of Joseph A. Holmes, long time the superintendent of the Sunday-school, and an efficient helper, always at the prayer meetings, and always ready to speak an encouraging word. New Ipswich has lost three of its best men —Dea. Leavitt Lincoln, Clark M. Obear, and Steadman Stoughton. Their vacant places can hardly be filled. Other churches are in sorrow for similar reasons, and because so many of their young people have gone out from them.

Peterboro' observed the thirtieth anniversary of its organization by appropriate exercises, among which was an address from its pastor for twenty-five of those years. Stoddard also celebrated the centenary of its existance as a church, with most appropriate exercises. These gatherings keep in the minds of the members their own history, and give them more interest in the present welfare of their churches.

Salmon Falls has formed a class of young people and put them in training for a future choir. The singing problem is becoming a difficult one in many places; may not the example of this church be a wise one for others to follow?

In the line of answers to prayer and interesting conversions there are some very encouraging reports. During gospel meetings held in one place a request for prayers was made "for a man of influence, that he might give his heart to Christ." The man for whom it was meant was not present, but the spirit of God found him. The next morning, one of his fellow workmen at the shop, not himself a Christian, said to him, 'they were praying for you at the meeting last night; there was a request for a man of influence.' By and by another said the same. He said at first that they could not have meant him; but the thought that he was possibly keeping some one out of the kingdom followed and troubled him, until he publicly announced that he had taken Christ as his master, and then to his joy he found that his wife, son, and others, were ready to follow now he had cleared the way."

A pastor writes:—"A man came to me to tell me he had given his heart to Christ. He was the son of a Christian man who had compelled him in youth to attend church. But as soon as he was away from home influences he forsook the church, acquired bad habits, and associated with bad company. For fifteen years he had kept aloof from all religious influences, having no thought or desire for a better life. One day during the past winter it came to him, all at once, that he must become a Christian, and at once he resolved, with the Lord's help, to lead such a life. He broke from his old habits and associates, and now his joy in Christ is very great. What makes the case more wonderful is his being unable to account for the change, except as the direct and sudden work of the Spirit on his heart, in answer to prayer."

Another pastor gives these items:—"A mother came to me after a Sabbath morning service, and with tears begged me to pray for her wayward son. He had gone so far in the way of evil that she had almost given up hope. I appointed an hour when I would pray for him in my study, and asked her to pray for him at the same time. The next Sunday the young man was at church, and in a short time he came out as a Christian, and is now a member of the church." "A father's heart was melted and he became a Christian, after he had lived sixty years without Christ, by one of his girls, who had been converted, throwing her arms about his neck, and saying, 'papa, why don't you love Jesus? He is so precious to me that I want you to love him too.'"

Another says:—"Among those who have become Christians, are six or eight boys from ten to fifteen years of age. Our senior deacon has been sick all the year, sometimes almost to death. One night I spoke of it in the prayer meeting, and of his wonderful nearness to the Saviour, and suggested that Christians visit him and catch, if possible, the same spirit which was with him. The next day, three of these boys visited him, and, before leaving, asked permission of the astonished deacon to kneel at his bedside and pray. Speaking of it afterwards, he said, 'I have been a Christian forty years, but I have never seen anything like the spirit and devotion of those boys. It did my soul good.'"

Another says:—"While we have lost four of our aged members, including one of the orginal deacons of the church, we have received seven to our number, among whom are some of our most devoted Christians, including a lad only eleven years of age who has faithfully taken his turn in leading the meeting of the Endeavor Society. One, who united by letter, is an aged brother nearly four score yers old, who, though called to occupy various homes in New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts, has alwa s promptly transferred his church membership to his place of residence, and, now, though living two miles from church, is one of our most constaant attendnts on services and on the Sunday-school."

CONCLUSION.

Surely we have reason to thank God and take courage for what we have seen of his work in our churches during the past year. Some fields have been dry and fruitless without doubt; but dare any one of us charge the responsibility on God? Had we been as zealous as we might have been, had we taken our Lord at His word, should not we have been as full of joy today as those whose churches have been revived? What shall the coming harvest be? is a question the Lord leaves us in large measure to decide for ourselves.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a town, the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, and before, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the Secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicate that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by the direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included.

The totals this year in Minutes and Year Book will not in all cases agree, as the latter gives the aggregate receptions, removals and baptisms for 1886 and 1887.

It is hardly possible but that errors shall be found. Will will you be so kind as to call the Statistical Secretry's attention to them, as it is his desire to secure accuracy. Do not presume he will find them himself, or that another will notify him, but do in yourself.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be trustees ex officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the societies and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries —sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock a. m., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agent.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be trustees ex officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the societies and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries —sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock a. m., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agent.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be trustees ex officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the societies and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries —sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock a. m., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agent.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the Society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer shall be trustees ex officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the societies and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society; to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its funds. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries —sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at ten o'clock a. m., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agent.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

by the committee, as thus amended, was then voted upon by ballot, and they were all duly elected.

Voted, That the Trustees be requested, at the earliest time, to consider the propriety, and if they find it expedient, to employ an Assistant Secretary, bearing in mind the necessity that, in the order of nature, it must soon come to us to fine a new Secretary.

The society then at 7½ o'clock gave way for half an hour for the annual meeting of Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund.

At eight o'clock it was called to order for services of the public meeting. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. T. Farrill; a hymn was sung at the opening and the close of the meeting.

The Treasurer, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, read his annual report, which was accepted and ordered to he printed. The annual report of the Trustees was read by Rev. J. M. Dutton, who moved that it be accepted and printed. Remarks were made by the Rev. C. E. Harrington, and the Rev. Cyrus Richardson, both urging strongly the claims of the weaker churches of New Hampshire, to a hearty, vigorous, fraternal support. The motion to accept and print was passed. Rev. A. T. Hillman then addressed the meeting with reference to his work as State Missionary.

The society after the singing of a hymn, and the benediction, adjourned to meet in connection with the meeting of the General Association in September, 1889.

EIGHTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-seventh annual report, it being for the year ending August 1, 1888.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

The amount in the treasury at the opening of the year was $1.247.55. There was received into it during the year, not including the income of funds held in trust for certain churches, in donations from churches and individuals, $2,852.07; from the New Hampshire Cent Society, $2,168.15; fron. legacies, $2,718.75; from the income of permanent funds, $4,018 89; from miscellaneous sources, $15.69; from sources unknown, $292.27; and in donations from churches and individuals, sent by direction of the donors to the treasury of the National society, $839.39.

In addition to this there appear to have been sent from the State directly to the treasury of the National society, in donations from churches and individuals, $3,312.14; and from legacies and income of permanent funds, $14.950.30.

The whole amount, for the year, received into the treasury as above, was $12,945.21, of which $839.39 was sent as directed to the treasury of the National society, leaving in our treasury $12,105.82. The expenditures within the State amounted to $11,761.06. The donations from churches and individuals were $582.08 less than last year, and less, so far as can be ascertained, than in any year since 1832. The gifts from the Cent Society, it is very gratifying to report, were $104.00 larger than last year. God bless those women, who for more than eighty years have stood by our feeble churches with their money and with their sympathy and prayers, worth more than money, and who intend to stand by them still whatever pressure may be brought to bear to induce them to turn a deaf ear to the call of churches at their own doors, needing their help now more than ever before. The income from legacies was $214.12 larger and from permanent funds $927.47 larger than last year. The donations, $4,151.53, sent to the national society, were $1,802.93 less than last year, and the legacies and income from permanent funds—$14,950.13—were $10.967.61 larger than last year. The whole amount for the year from donations, legacies and income of permanent funds, contributed in the State for home missions, was, so far as reported, $31,207.48, an increase of $10,067.53 over that of last year, and $9,274.83 larger than in any preceding year in the history of the society. Of this amount $18,262.27,—58½ per cent. of the whole, went into the treasury of the National, and 12,945.21,—41½ per cent. of the whole, into the treasury of the State society. Of the receipts from donations, including those from the Cent Society, amounting in the aggregate to $9,187.41, $4,151.50—more than 45 per cent. of the whole, went into the treasury of the National society.

It will be observed that the large aggregate increase in the receipts of the year was all, and more than all, from legacies and income of permanent funds. There was in fact a large falling off in donations from churches and individuals for both the State and the National societies. This was due, no doubt, very largely to a reaction from the preceding year, and was not unanticipated. Then the cry of distress from the missionary rooms at New York elicited in response a contribution much larger than our churches had ever before given. It is to their credit that they did respond so generously. It would have been a sadly ominous revelation if they had not heeded a cry so earnest, so deep and based upon such grounds. But it would have been far more creditable to ours, and to all the churches of the land, if an intelligent spirit of benevolent self-sacrifice had risen to the demands of the hour and prevented the need of such appeals. In this case as in so many others the special appeal was effectual in stirring a temporary gust of benevolent impulse rather than in lifting up the churches to a higher plane of permanent benevolent self-sacrifice. It led to a borrowing from the contributions for other objects of Christian benevolence and from the gifts of the future rather than to real sacrifices to meet the present emergency, as if, that emergency removed, the demands of the cause were met. But not so, not by pathetic appeal, or gusts of feeling, or spasmodic efforts is the great home missionary work, so grand and inspiring in its opportunities, so vast and glorious in its promise of results, to be carried to its consummation. The demands of that work, the foremost of all causes of benevolence in this age, are to go on increasing in extent and urgency through all the years for a generation at least to come, and will be met only by an intelligent conviction and a consecrated spirit of Christian self-sacrifice which shall become the permanent controlling forces in the life of our churches.

THE WORK OF THE YEAR.

Seventy missionaries, fifty-two ordained ministers and eighteen licentiates have labored under the direction of the society, in seventy-one fields—sixty-five churches, and six fields in which there is no church. Only twenty-seven of these fields were occupied during the entire year, a fact not due at all to the fickleness of the churches, but mainly to the impossibility of finding men satisfactory to them, willing to take the permanent charge of such fields. With the exception of three or four which expect a supply only for the summer months, every aided church would hail the coming of a permanent pastor with great joy Three pastors were ordained and installed during the year. In the aggregate forty-five years of missionary labor were performed. Three fields occupied last year have been dropped from the list of this year, and eleven new ones added. The aggregate membership of these aided churches, as reported, is 3,076, an average of forty-nine each. Of these six hundred thirty-six are reported as absentees, leaving 2,470, an average of forty each, resident. The reported average attendance in the seventy-one congregations is seventy-five each, and the number in their Sabbath-schools averages sixty-eight each. The reported additions were seventy-nine by profession and forty-five by letter. The removals were forty-eight by dismission, fifty-two by death and seven by exclusion, making a net gain of seventeen. The benevolent contributions of these churches were, for the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, $509.90; and for other objects, $1,599.89, a small gain over the preceding year. The average cost of a year of missionary labor to the society was $214, a considerable increase within the last fifteen years, but, notwithstanding the fact that it is largely due to the constantly diminishing pecuniary ability of the larger part of the aided churches, the increase is materially less than in some of the other States for the same period, and less than on the home missionary field at large. It is a simple necessity if these churches are to be supplied at all.

It will be observed that eight more fields were occupied, four more missionaries employed, and two more years of missionary labor performed than in the preceding year. Not for more than fifty years have so many churches been aided or has so much missionary labor been performed by this society. But this large increase is not to be regarded as exceptional. Our missionaries have not been building upon other men's foundations or intruding upon the fields of other men. If work of that sort is to be done we leave it to others, we have no call for it. In forty-eight of the seventy-one fields occupied, our missionaries have been alone upon their ground, and their right and call to be on the remaining twenty-three fields is not to be justly disputed. We have only been following the leadings of Providence in what we have done, and it seems very clear that Providence is leading us on to a work of steadily increasing magnitude.

The review of the year is in some respects highly satisfactory and encouraging. The large increase in the aggregate contributions from the state, the quiet and efficiency with which the work has gone forward throughout the year, the sustained interest generally manifested by churches and communities where our missionaries have labored, the eager desire, and the strong settled purpose on the part of nearly all of our feeble churches, hardly equalled at any time in the past to secure and sustain the preaching and ordinances of the gospel, give occasion for profound gratitude to God and an inspiration to renewed courage and hopefulness for the future. But in other respects this review is less satisfactory. The large increase in the number of churches calling for aid, and in the demands upon our treasury, an increase sure to go on enlarging in the coming years, and the marked falling off, both absolute and relative, in donations to our State society, and this falling off occurring just when the needs of our weaker churches are increasing to such an extent, suggest questions which cannot be considered without solicitude. Such donations, coming warm from the heart, bearing with them the assurance of fraternal Christian sympathy and hearty god-speed, are and always must be the main dependence for carrying on this work. · The inspiration and courage which they give is more often than the money, and is what no income of permanent funds can ever give. Better that permanent funds were sunk among the wrecks of mid-ocean than that they should occasion the drying up of this perennial source of kindly cheering help and hope. There have been sad, aching hearts among our struggling churches upon the hills over what has seemed to them the turning away of the genial face of some of the larger churches. Then these donations, more than anything else, disclose the will of the contributing churches, and that will is final and decisive. This work belongs to the churches and they are going to do just what they will with it and to take the full responsibility. Those temporarily in the immediate charge of the work are simply agents to do what they direct. If the contributing churches say cut off a quarter, a third, one half, of those aided, your trustees will cut them off. If they say cut down appropriations, they will cut them down, though they will know that this means death by slow torture. The will of the contributing churches once fairly made known must and will be done.

What then, your trustees and the aided churches ask, does this falling off and turning away to other channels of donations mean? Does it mean that our larger churches are growing weary of the cry of their poorer brethren for help; that they do not regard the weaker churches as of sufficient importance in themselves or in the work they are doing to be worthy of such an outlay? Do they mean that churches are helped which ought not to be helped, or more than they ought to be helped? Do they mean that their money is not wisely expended on such fields? Are they ready to say that churches that have been drained of their very life blood for others, the sources whence these larger churches themselves have drawn, more than from any others, their own numbers and strength; churches whose sons and daughters are over all the land the nourishing fathers and mothers of the churches of the future furnishing the very choicest and richest of all the contributions from any source to the great National home missionary work, churches that are making every year new contributions of this sort, whose congregations and Sabbath-schools are above the average of the missionary congregations and Sabbath-schools of the land, while they are asking and receiving less than the average amount of aid,—are they ready to say that such churches should be cast off now from the fraternal sympathy and help of those more favored? From the very highest authority in the land, from the watch-tower whence more clearly than from any other the whole land comes into view, comes the word, "Whatever else you in New Hampshire do, or fail to do, take care of your own feeble churches." Has the discovery been made that this is a mistaken view of the case, a false principle of action?

In the method of giving into which our churches have drifted so much goes exclusively to the National work, that what remains is, in most years, barely sufficient for the home work. Thus those who contribute to the home work are cut off from the privilege and inspiration of helping on the great National work, while those who send all their contributions to New York cut themselves off from any expression of fraternal sympathy and helpfulness towards the needy churches at home. The result is that, in the case of both, a broad, intelligent, sympathy with the great home missionary movement of the age fails to be fully cultivated. Both the State and the National work have suffered and are suffering from this cause. Less is done for either than our churches can and should do.

Is there not a better way? The time has fully come for emphasizing this question. Possibly the crisis that is upon us was intended to force it upon the attention of our churches.

When our State society, the older by twenty-five years, became auxiliary to the National society, a formal agreement was entered into and signed by the representatives of both societies to the effect that all contributions within the State to the cause of home missions, should in the first instance go into the treasury of the State society, the understanding being that all which could be spared from a careful and economical prosecution of the work in the State should be sent to the treasury at New York. That agreement embodies the judgment of the wisest, most farseeing men of the time, and our experience has abundantly shown that it has been a grave mistake, and one seriously detrimental to the interests of both societies, that it has not been fully carried out. A resolution, passed after some discussion at the annual meeting of the national society at Saratoga in June, 1887, will show the drift of sentiment to-day, upon this point, of those best qualified to judge. It was as follows:

Resolved, That, whereas the relation of the auxiliaries to this national society is so close and the conditions of that relationship require that all surplus money in auxiliary treasuries be forwarded to the national treasury, therefore it is desirable that all gifts from churches and individuals for home missions be made to the State societies, or through their treasuries by designation to the National society.

What now would be the result of the carrying out of this plan? The grand result would be this, that every contribution to home missions, however small, would carry with it a hearty, loving, fraternal sympathy and interest for the struggling churches among our hills, and at the same time enable the giver to feel that he too has some part in the great home missionary work of the whole country. It would bring to the noble company of Christian men and women who are striving, amid manifold discouragements, still to lift high the banner of the cross over the old altars, sacred with a thousand precious memories, whose light has shone and is still shinning afar over the land, it would bring to these to whom sympathy and the help of the more favored is so precious, the joy and strength of the assurance that they are not and are not to be forgotton, that they are still recognized as of the household, brethren beloved. It would bring the joy and the inspiration of a conscious part in that work fraught, more than any other with the mighty issues of the world's future, dearer than any other, to the heart of the intelligent American Christian, the making of our land Christian from shore to shore. It would bring the joy and the inspiration of a conscious part in such a work home to the heart of every giver, even a child, or a poor widow, able to add to a prayer only the gift of a penny. It would inaugurate a new, a broader, deeper, more intelligent interest in the cause, and bring to it larger and more willing gifts; it would bring new recruits from those now indifferent to the great army which is to bring that cause to its final victory.

Is not this the better way?

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state except, in a very few instances, some of them may be connected with Associations in other states. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.

N. B.—If your name is not correctly given in the following list; if your ordination date is not correct; if your post-office is wrong, or if, before you receive the next Year Book, your post-office is changed, send immediate notice of the needed change or correction to REV. HENRY A. HAZEN, CONGREGATIONAL HOUSE, BOSTON, MASS.

CONSTITUTION AND RULES OF THE ASSOCIATION.

I. NAME. This body shall be called the GENERAL ASSOCIATION OF NEW HAMPSHIRE.

II. MEMBERS. This Association shall be composed of delegates from the several District Associations of Ministers, and Conferences of Churches, in the following proportions: namely, one minister for every three members of an Association, and one layman for every three churches belonging to a Conference; and also of the officers, preachers and committees for the year for which they are chosen; the delegates who the preceding year fulfilled their appointments in person; the persons appointed to prepare essays and lead in discussions: the secretaries and treasurers of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, the New Hampshire Bible Society, and the Ministers' and Widows' Charitable Fund: a representation of the faculty of Dartmouth College; and the minister of the church with which the Association meets. Twelve members shall constitute a quorum. All other ministers, and members of the churches connected with the Association, who may be present, shall be considered as corresponding members, with the right to speak and serve on committees, but not to vote.

III. FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES. 1. It is ever to be understood that the system of Scripture doctrine contained in the Assembly's Shorter Catechism is the basis of our union in this Association. Hence every Association and every Conference in this state, receiving these doctrines as the Christian Faith, is invited to unite in this body.

2. This General Association wholly disclaims ecclesiastical power or authority over the churches or the opinions of individuals.

3. The essential objects of the Association are "to promote brotherly intercourse and harmony, and our mutual animation, assistance, and usefulness as ministers and churches of Christ; to obtain religious information relative to the state of our particular churches, and the general state of the Christian church in this country and throughout the world, and to co-operate with other similar institutions in the most eligible measures for building up the cause of truth and holiness."

IV. MEETING AND ORGANIZATION. 1. This Association shall meet annually, on the Tuesday after the second Sabbath in September, at such place and time as shall be designated at the preceding meeting, and notified by the Secretary, and be opened by a sermon.

2. At the close of this service, the preacher shall take the chair and preside until a moderator is chosen. The Secretary shall receive the certificates of delegates, and report the names of members, when the Association shall be organized by the choice of a moderator, a scribe, and, if necessary, an assistant scribe, by ballot.

V. PERMANENT OFFICERS AND STATISTICS. 1. The permanent officers of this Association shall be a Secretary, and a Statistical Secretary, each to be chosen by ballot for the term of three years from the close of the meeting at which the choice shall be made.

2. It shall be the duty of the Secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of this body, prepare an outline of business, preserve schedules and narratives of the state of religion, conduct the correspondence of this body, and notify all delegates to foreign bodies of their appointment, with the time and place of meeting of bodies to which they are appointed. He shall also secure through the Conference Secretaries, or otherwise, an account of the state of religion in our churches, and from these make up a report to the Association, to be read at the annual meeting, and be printed in the Minutes.

3. It shall be the duty of the Statistical Secretary to procure the annual statistics of the churches, complete and arrange them for publication, and annually prepare from them a report, to be read before the Association and published in the Minutes. He shall supervise the Minutes of the General Association, and distribute its publications as directed by the Association. He shall also be the Treasurer of the Association, and be empowered to receive and pay out such sums of money as the body may direct.

4. These Secre'aries shall be allowed their expenses for correspondence and attendance on the meetings of this body; and in addition the Secretary shall receive an annual salary of fifteen dollars, and the Statistical Secretary an annual salary of fifty dollars.

5. Each Conference connected with this body is requested to appoint a person to collect the narrative of the state of religion from the churches within its bounds, under the direction of the Secretary of the General Association, to whom these narratives shall be sent. In case any Conference shall fail to appoint such person prior to the first day of May, or there shall be a vacancy from any other cause, the Secretary may designate some person to act in this capacity for the year

VI. VACANCIES. In case of the decease of either of the permanent officers, or his removal from the state, the duties of his office shall devolve upon his associate. If there shall be any failure on the part of those to whom are assigned duties at the next meeting, their places sha l be filled by the Secretary.

VII. COMMITTEES 1. At each meeting of the Association, a Committee of Arrangements, consisting of three, of which the minister of the church with which the Association is to meet shall be chairman, shall be appointed for the succeeding meeting who shall prepare and arrange the business of the session including the selection of the preacher of the opening sermon, and no business shalt be introduced without their consent. But if the committee shall decline presenting any item of business requested by a member, he may appeal from their decision to the Association.

2. At each meeting shall be chosen a Committee of Inquiry, consisting of three, to report during the session, whose duties shall be as follows:—

(a) To designate three questions of religious doctrine or practice, one of which shall relate to the interest of Sabbath-schools, for the consideration of the Association, and to nominate three persons, with substitutes, to lead the discussions on each of these topics, who shall carefully prepare themselves for this duty, and shall be allowed ten minutes each, to be follow by a general discussion, speakers limited to five minutes each.

(b) To designate some topic respecting ecclesiastical polity and usage, or missionary and educational enterprises, and to nominate one person, with substitute, to prepare a carefully written essay, not to exceed twenty minutes, to be subject to the subsequent remark of the Association

3. There shall also be a standing Committee of Nominations, consisting of three persons, so constituted that one member shall go out each year in rotation, whose duty it shall be to nominate a place for the next meeting, the Committee of Arrangements therefor, the preacher of the sermon before the Lord's Supper, the persons to officiate at the communion, the delegate to Andover Seminary, and triennially, the delegates to the National Council, and to make all nominations not otherwise provided for. This committee shall elect a chairman, who shall keep a record of all appointments made by the Association.

4. The Statistical Secretary, the Scribe of the Association, and the Secretary of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society shall be a committee of publication. They shall revise and publish such extracts of the Minutes as they may deem proper, and order such number of copies printed as the Association shall direct. The Statistical Secretary shall send a copy of the Minutes to each church connected with local conferences, to each minister connected with a local association, both within the state, to other ecclesiastical bodies, and other copies to the churches in proportion to membership.

VIII. MINISTERIAL STANDING. Ministerial Standing with the General Association entitling a person's name to appear upon its rolls, shall be taken to mean,—

1. That one is a member in good standing of some orthodox Congregational church in fellowship with other sister churches, or of some Presbytery.

2. That one has been regularly ordained by a mutual council, or by presbytery or bishop, and is not under suspension, nor has been deposed from the ministry.

The fact that one has been regularly installed as pastor of one of the Congregational or Presbyterian churches of this state, by a mutual council, or by presbytery, shall be taken as evidence of ministerial standing.

We hold that every Congregational pastor or acting pastor within the state should be a member of the church to which he ministers, and that no mutual council should proceed to an ordination or installation service without satisfactory evidence that one is, or soon will become a member of such church.

While we hold that membership in a local Association, which is not an ecclesiastical body, is not essential to good standing, we deem it important that every Congregational minister be so connected; and the membership of a minister in such an organization in this state may be taken as evidence that one is in good standing. The names of all ministers serving our churches, not so connected, and not pastors of churches, shall be starred upon the roll, with a note in explanation of the facts of the case.

IX. RULES. 1. At the hour of meeting in the morning the moderator shall take the chair, call the members to order, direct the roll to be called, open the session with prayer, and cause the minutes of the preceding day to be read. Each session shall be closed with prayer or singing.

2. No motion shall be discussed unless seconded. No member shall speak more than twice on the same motion, without liberty from the Association. Any motion or resolution shall, at the request of the moderator or any two members, be reduced to writing.

3. The moderator may speak on points of order in preference to other members, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the house by any two members; but he shall not speak on the merits of the question without leaving the chair, and calling some one to preside while he speaks.

4. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except for adjournment, amendment, postponement, commitment, or the previous question, namely, Shall the main question now be put? The effect of adopting the previous question shall be to put an end to debate, and to bring the Association to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question.

5. If a question under debate contains several parts, any member may have it divided, and a question taken on each part.

6. Every member when speaking shall address himself to the chair, and shall be subject to no needless interruption. If he acts disorderly it shall be the duty of the moderator, and the privilege of the other members, to call him to order.

X. CORRESPONDENCE. 1. The Association will maintain a fraternal relation with other ecclesiastical bodies, so far as this shall be deemed consistant with the principles of our organization, by the appointment and interchange of delegates. Representatives from ecclesiastical bodies with whom we are in correspondence shall have the privilege of sitting with us and participating in our deliberations as honorary members.

2. The Secretary may also, in special cases, at his discretion, give credentials to any member of this body, entitling him to act as its representative at the meeting of similar bodies in other states.

XI. EXPENSES. The cost of printing the Minutes, and other necessary expenses of this Association, shall be defrayed by assessments, apportioned among the several conferences uniting in this organization according to the number and relative strength of the churches belonging to each, and the treasurer of each conference shall be responsible to the treasurer of the General Association for the amount so assessed.

XII. AMENDMENTS. Any of the foregoing articles, except the fundamental rules, may be amended or annulled at a regular meeting of this body in which two-thirds of the associations and conferences are represented, by a majority of the members voting.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

Rev. Charles F. Roper was elected Secretary and Rev. Samuel L. Gerould Statistical Secretary, each for three years.

Discussion—"The Social Life of the Church, how best Promoted".—Led by Rev. Edgar T. Farrill, followed by Rev. Cassander C. Sampson and others.

Adopted the following:—

WHEREAS, the Legislature of our state, at its last session, refused to put a license law upon the Statute book, Resolved, In view of the result, we thank God and pledge ourselves to renewed activity in the cause of temperance.

Rev. George N. Karner presented the following resolution, which was adopted by a rising vote:

Resolved, That the hearty thanks of the Association be extended to the people of Exeter, who have so hospitably opened their homes for entertainment; to the churches, which have spared nothing to make the session one of interest and profit; to the committee of arrangements, for the efficient discharge of their duties; to the railroads, for courtesies extended; and to all others who, in anyway, have granted us favors.

Discussion— 'The Duty of the Church with Reference to the Reforms of the Day" was opened by Hon. John J. Bell, followed by others.

NARRATIVE OF THE STATE OF RELIGION.

By Rev. S. H. Barnum.

At the request of the Secretary, who has been interrupted in his work by a trip to the World's Sunday-school Convention at London, the writer will endeavor to tell how the churches have been getting on during another year.

If the churches had reported in larger numbers, the material at command would have been more satisfactory. About two-thirds of them have sent in returns, but among the negligent ones are some of the largest and most prosperous. The writer is also without the latest statistics, and lacks that familiarity with the field which has helped the Statistical Secretary to prepare his most excellent narratives. Coming, without further preliminaries, to the first topic which we are to take up,

THE STATE OF RELIGION IN THE CHURCHES,

we find that a large number report it as "healthful," "very good," "encouraging," or "hopeful." It is pleasant to have such returns. While they do not indicate all the growth which could be desired, they do mean that some success has been attained, and that the members of these churches are not dispirited, but are looking upward and expecting better things. It is very agreeable to read of the Antrim church that it has been "a peaceful and happy year," and that the state of religion is "quiet and hopeful and good." Inasmuch as thirty united with that church by confession during the previous year, we can imagine that in the development of these young Christians there has been much satisfaction. Pastor Holmes, of Rye, says that "the past year has been one of general prosperity. Audiences are larger than ever. Men unused to the house of God now attend quite regularly; "and adds what some have been doubtful about, "we believe we have gained much by preaching vital truths at funerals, the place and the only place where certain people can be caught." Among the churches whose condition is reported as healthful are Derry First, Great Falls, Haverhill, Henniker, Lebanon, Meredith, Newport, Piermont, Salmon Falls, Wentworth. Others might be added.

Some churches are doing well under special disadvantages. Campton has been without a pastor for a year and a half, but has kept up its regular Sabbath services and weekly prayer meetings. The little church at Hebron is supplied during the summer by a student and the rest of the year by different preachers as they can be obtained, but last fall an interest developed, and, though they have not been in the habit of continuing their prayer meetings through the winter, the attendance was so large that they "could not stop." In another part of the town also meetings were held and several began the service of Christ. This church has added six by profession during the year, and in the last four years its membership has increased from thirteen to thirty-six. Truly a good record and a good home missionary argument. It is a token also of better things that the missionary church at Washington, which has not had a settled pastor for many years, now has regular service with "a fair degree of interest."

The new pastor in one neglected field pictures the state of things in a way which touches one's heart. Says he:—"The great majority of people here care nothing about religion and much prefer to remain in ignorance as to this vital subject. This unhappy state of affairs originated, partly, numbers of years back, in the errors and infidelity of Christians and also of ministers. The people have come to believe (at least they say so) that Christianity is a mere pretence and positively void of all reality. The old people will in all probability die as they live, but it makes one's heart bleed to see so many young men following in their footsteps. Notwithstanding this general condition, a good work is being done, and the prospect for the future is bright. The Spirit is with the few faithful followers of Christ and we hope to see numbers brought to the Lord."

There are some churches which report the state of religion as low, some as worse than last year, and probably some did not report at all because there seemed to be nothing hopeful to say. But hoping for better things from these, we notice a class of churches whose condition is spoken of as about the same as last year. They are holding their own among a declining population. They meet with losses which it seems as if they could not afford, and still, as pastor Berry says, "God has helped and the results have been much as in former years." He adds of his church, "We are anxious for the future of the kingdom of God among this people, but we are thankful for the grace that still abounds to us."

Many churches report no special interest, yet some of them can tell of good attendance upon public worship, and some of an increased attendance, a few conversions and various items of an encouraging nature.

We have not yet spoken of revivals, but a few of our churches have experienced blessed seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord. The First and Second Churches in Keene have shared with other churches of that city in the benefits of the special meetings conducted by Rev. B. Fay Mills. Both have made large additions to their membership, the Second Church having received a number equal to one-seventh of its former total. Pastor Aiken, of East Concord, writes:—"The Lord hath done great things whereof we are glad." Within a few weeks over fifty in that place have confessed a new love for Christ. The church in Warner has had a year of delightful harmony, and Evangelistic meetings conducted by Messrs. Folger and Jackson have yielded blessed results with promise of more to follow. Alstead Center and East, Barnstead, Bedford, Epping, Hill, Hillsboro' Center, Milton Mills and Peterboro' have been quickened. Dover First has received twenty-two new members. The revival at Merrimack has been a remarkable one, showing most impressively the power of the Holy Spirit. Many heads of families, some of them most stubborn opposers, have yielded to Christ. Cases of conversion of wonderful interest have occurred. Pastor Keep says that the revival was literally forced upon them and thinks it would have come in a large degree even without evangelistic help. Thirty-six came forward for prayers in the first two days of the meetings. Forty-nine were received into the church by confession in May, and seventeen more in July, while in June twenty-one children were baptized mostly from newly converted households. Pittsfield, Pembroke, Amherst and, since the close of the conference year, Hollis, have also been greatly blessed in connection with the labors of the Evangelists, Harriman and True and others. As a partial result, twenty-three joined the church at Pittsfield by confession in May and July, while Pembroke and Amherst received twenty-one and twenty-two respectively in July. Thanks be to God for these showers of blessing.

EFFORTS THAT HAVE BEEN MOST FRUITFUL.

Quite a number think that preaching the gospel from the pulpit has done the most good. Some particularize the Sunday evening service, the Sunday-school, prayer meetings, the Christian Endeavor Society, efforts for the young, district meetings, revival meetings. Sometimes two or three of these agencies are mentioned together. Others lay emphasis upon personal work. Pastor Curtis of Meredith says:—"Where the truth of God has been pressed home to heart and conscience in private the results have been most blessed." Many have not reported at all upon this topic, but, as far as has been ascertained, the preaching of the gospel and personal effort appear to be the leading forms of successful work. Not far behind these comes the endeavor to influence the young through the Sabbath-school or Christian Endeavor Society. We know that more of the young than of the old become followers of Christ, and probably those who believe that in their own parishes preaching and personal work have accomplished the most good, would say that by these means also more of the young than of any other class have been reached.

NEW METHODS OF WORK ADOPTED.

The usual answer is:—"We have tried no new methods." But many, no doubt, are trying to infuse into the usual methods as much life and efficiency as they can. And some have had for some time in operation methods which others are just taking up. It may be quite a new departure in some places when a Society of Christian Endeavor or an order of King's Daughters is formed, and be the means of arousing a fresh interest in the cause of Christ. The right time seems to have come in a number of churches for such organizations. Milford reports a new Junior Society of Christian Endeavor. In the First Church of Keene four devoted ladies, under the leadership of the pastor we infer, have been giving instruction in the Bible and practical Christian duties to boys and girls between the ages of ten and fifteen. Pastor Smith of Bedford conducts a children's class on Saturday afternoons.

New mission work in outlying neighborhoods has been undertaken to some extent, either in the form of preaching in school-houses or of Sunday-school instruction. In Candia union meetings at school-houses and the railroad station have drawn out audiences of seventy to eighty, largely from those who would not attend the churches. Winchester has started a mission school of thirty members, and Conway one in a destitute portion of Albany. Deerfield has established nine district Sunday-schools, which are heartily sustained by all denominations.

In one case a monthly church meeting is looked upon as a hopeful means of good, and in another an extra service of special prayer at the close of the social meeting.

THE WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

This has been in the main encouraging. Reports are quite frequent of an increased attendance; one school, that at Wentworth, having nearly doubled. Fully as many speak of their schools being in a good condition and doing a good work. It is to be supposed that all of them can report, as does that of Ossipee, that an increased knowledge of the Word of God has been gained, and it is to be hoped that, like that of Milton, they could speak of growth of character. Both these results will surely follow when, like that of Barnstead Center, they can say that they have devoted teachers. To the faithfulness of three of the teachers in Hill are ascribed several conversions. Other schools also report conversions. The Sunday-school of Hampstead is believed to be the nursery of the church, "and while," says its representative, "we cannot tell just what it has done, doubtless the spiritual condition of our church is largely the result of earnest work in the Sunday-school."

The education of the children in benevolence is a matter of much importance, both for their own good and for its bearing upon the benevolent work of our churches in the future, and consequently upon the spread of the kingdom of God. Many of our church members refuse to have a share in supporting any missionary work, even that to which our denomination is committed. It is, therefore, a good thing when any school can report, as some do, an increase in contributions. Perhaps none have done better proportionally than the school at Jaffrey, which has advanced from twelve dollars to forty-nine dollars, more than quadrupling its gifts. The Sunday-school at Rye pays the expenses of a student in a foreign missionary college. Probably others do the same. A feature of the year at Warner has been the missionary concert, whose effect has been a better knowledge of missions and increased benevolence. If churches would more generally pay the expenses of what they call their nurseries, instead of leaving them to do it themselves, there would be better opportunities for developing the giving spirit.

Among the scattered items are the division of the school at Rochester into adult and primary departments with satisfactory results; the successful working of a home department in connection with the Lebanon school; and the fact thatat Claremont several families have become constant attendants at church, because their children had been brought into the Sunday-school.

IN WHAT WAYS THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETY IS FOUND HELPFUL.

We do not recollect that any one in his report speaks against this society. The only criticism comes from a few places, that, while they have very good meetings by themselves, they do not help along in the church prayer meetings. The general testimony, however, from those who say anything about this doint, is quite strong in favor of its helpfulness in the various activities of the church. One says:—"We find it helpful along all lines of church work and in the development of spiritual life. It is a great blessing to us all." The benefits of these societies are stated with some detail by one brother who says:—"It takes under its care the inexperienced in Christian life and work. It binds them to itself by its pledges and helps them to walk in new ways. It affords an opportunity for timid workers and lays upon them responsibilities which tend to strengthen and develop them. It co-operates with the pastor in looking after the interests of the church, and affords the pastor the opportunity of standing with the undeveloped Christian on his own platform." It might be added to this that it draws in young people who are not members and exerts upon them a religious influence. In the church at Rindge the Endeavor Society is said to be "the principal instrumentality through which Christian work is done;" and, besides its usual meeting, another is held by a branch of the society in the East Village.

METHOD OF BENEVOLENT WORK.

The usual method is by collections, and perhaps the majority of our churches take them regularly, quarterly, bi-monthly, monthly or weekly. Some confess that they have no system and admit that it is unsatisfactory. About thirteen report the use of a weekly offering system, which is presumably by pledge cards and envelopes. One church, after trying the weekly offering for years, has changed to monthly contributions and reports a slight increase thereby. The returns are not full enough to enable us to conclude from them what is the best method, if indeed there is any one method which is best for all places. But that some system should be employed is an idea which we think commends itself to most pastors. One pastor thus sets forth his way:—"We have divided the year between eight different benevolent objects, giving two months each to Home and Foreign missions, and one month apiece to the rest, leaving July and August unassigned. The offering is generally taken the last Sabbath in the month. Our missionary concert always relates to the object we expect to contribute to on that month. On the day the offering is taken I do my best to present the cause, and at the close of the discourse receive the contribution." Some speak of presenting the cause and distributing literature before the collection. The Woman's Board, Cent Society and various mission circles raise a part of the contributions. Sometimes the work is partly or wholly entrusted to collectors for each object. Mite-boxes, birthday jugs and other supplementary methods are also mentioned. One pastor gladly reports a special gift of seven hundred dollars from two members, a husband and wife, to be divided among the three leading societies, a good example for others.

NATURE OF THE EVENING SERVICE.

In the cities and larger towns, so far as we possess information, it is the more usual way to have a preaching service, but there are exceptions. In smaller places it is common to have a service which consists of praise, prayer, and either remarks by various persons or what is termed an address, talk, lecture or short sermon by the pastor. The missionary concert in some of the largest churches as well as in many others takes place upon the first Sunday evening of the month. Sunday-school concerts make an occasional variety. In a few places the Christian Endeavor meeting is the only one on Sunday evening, but more often, when it is held on this evening, it is followed by a prayer meeting or preaching service. Some pastors report, and probably many really make it their object, to vary the evening service. One says that he endeavors to have no two alike. One church has an after-meeting following a preaching service. The Sunday-school lesson of the day, or in two or three cases of the following Sunday, is mentioned by not a few as the topic of the evening service, if it is a prayer meeting; and, when the talking is done wholly by the pastor, he sometimes takes up a subject suggested by the lesson. This evening service, varied according to the needs of different places, kept out of ruts as far as possible and made bright and interesting, is sometimes the most effective means of doing good which our churches employ.

PRAYER-MEETINGS—HOW CONDUCTED.

Generally the week-day meetings are led by the pastor. Some country pastors will not easily repress a feeling of envy when they hear what a force of helpers is available in the Hancock church. About twenty-five of the male members there take their regular turns as leaders of the prayer-meetings. Perhaps other churches will do as well when the Christian Endeavor movement grows older, provided that they can keep some of the young people whom they train up. As to topics several mention that they use those given in the Congregationalist Hand-Book; others besides announce topics beforehand. The social character of the meeting is made prominent by some. At times it is partially a conversation meeting. One church in particular makes it a prayer meeting. Pastor Street has asked three or four every week to begin the topic. "In this way," he says, "our ladies have taken part to our great profit." Two churches speak of the use of "sentence prayers." Several pastors are in the habit of making their remarks at the close of the meeting instead of at the beginning.

PREVALENCE OF FAMILY WORSHIP.

The usual report is insufficient knowledge as to its prevalence with the fear that it is much neglected. Some remark that it is less common than formerly. Others say, "It is the rule in a majority of Christian families;" "It is observed where the father is a Christian;" "It is general;" "It is a delight in many homes." Pastor DeBevoise remarks:—"We judge that family worship does not prevail to the extent necessary to the best Christian living. But we know that the altar fire never goes out in some homes; and we know that in some it has been rekindled and in some for the first time lighted." We judge from a majority of the reports that the practice needs not altogether a reviving, but a beginning in many homes whose heads are professing Christians.

COMPARISON OF THE AVERAGE CHURCH ATTENDANCE WITH THE NUMBER OF PEOPLE ENUMERATED IN THE PARISH.

This is the caption, but the answer is not forthcoming to any great extent. The question seems to have been misapprehended by many, but a little attention would have prevented that. A pastor ought to be able to find out with but little trouble how many people look to him for pastoral service an what his average church attendance is. Many of the answers appear to be guesses and range from one-tenth to nine-tenths. An average attendance of nine-tenths of the parish would surely be wonderful. No reliable conclusions can be drawn from our returns. Some report the attendance to be good or very good. One says:—"As a people our folks do attend church." Another speaks of Sunday religion as considerably above par. Several think it is much below. Perhaps the answers as a whole indicate that, among those who are to be considered in the parish, the attendance at church is fair, though it might be much improved.

INTERESTING INCIDENTS THAT WILL HELP OTHERS.

Very few for various reasons have been sent in, while there is no doubt that this narrative might have consisted of nothing else. We will relate two incidents in the words of the writers.

"One whole family (of which the father is a French Catholic) has been constant at church, coming through storm and sunshine three miles, parents and five children. The case is the fruit of an outside meeting and of personal effort on the part of one of our members. The mother is trying to live as a Christian and to train her children aright. Through this family a wild young man never before seen in church has frequently come. But we have other families yet to reach, many of them."

Says another:—"I was recently sent for to visit an aged man who thought he had not long to live. He had been a very wicked man, according to his own confession, and according to general opinion; he had been hard and cruel in his family, and bitter against religion and Christians. But he was tender now, and wanted to be prepared to die. What especially interested me was his confession that all along during his years of hardness, he had known his duty, and there had been times when he was on the point of submitting to God. When his son became a Christian, though he persecuted him, yet he said it made him very glad to feel that his boy was going to be a good man and was safe. I thought how little we know with whom the Holy Spirit is at work, and how easy it is to give up as hardened, beyond all hope, some who, by a word perhaps, might be won to Christ."

Every year our churches are called upon to give up most valued members and their loss is long felt. Among this number during the year past is Deacon Franklin Merriam, of Greenville, father of the pastor in that place and long prominent in church work, deceased in his eightieth year. New Ipswich has parted with two deacons, one removed to a distant part of the state, the other, Deacon John P. Clark, passed to his heavenly reward. Farmington has lost by death Deacon R. R. Hayes, and Goffstown Deacon Alvin Hadley. Around many others, doubtless, gather tender remembrances to-day.

Such is the story of our churches for another year, as far as we have gleaned it from the material at command. Doubtless there is much unwritten history, prayers and struggles, disappointments and victories, of which we should be glad to know. Were it practicable to report such things, they might bind us together more as a brotherhood of churches. But they are all known up yonder, and there is One to whom we can carry both joys and griefs, and obtain sympathy and courage to go forward.

REPORT

—OF THE—

STATISTICAL SECRETARY.

Our vacant churches remain about the same in number as last year. At least five of them, able to support a minister of their own, for more than a year have been looking in vain for the "right man." About a dozen of our churches arenot known to have enjoyed the continuous services of any minister for some years, while six others are dependent upon students during the summer vacation only.

Four young men have been approbated to preach the gospel. There have been three ordinations to the pastorate, four have been ordained without charge, and four have been installed pastors. Twelve have been dismissed from the pastoral charge, besides two others who have been dismissed by their respective churches, but whose action has not been reviewed by a council. A growing tendency is manifest to neglect installation. Six ministers have died within the state during the year; viz., Rev. Silas M. Blanchard, without charge, Hudson; Rev. Benjamin Merrill, acting pastor, Swanzey; Rev. S. Girard Norcross, nominally acting pastor, North Conway; Rev. Israel T. Otis, without charge, Exeter; Rev. Charles Tenney, pastor, Chester; and Rev. Lyman White, acting pastor, Wakefield. I have noted the death of thirteen others who had once served our churches, but who had removed without the state. Nineteen acting pastorates have begun, and fifteen have retired from this position, so far as reported. If the churches were more particular in reporting ministerial changes to the Statistical Secretary at once, instead of leaving him to find them as best he can, it would be in the interest of accuracy and promptness, besides the lifting of a considerable burden from the Secretary.

We report two hundred thirty seven fewer church members than last year, though there should have been but one hundred thirty one fewer, if we deduct additions from removals. Three hundred eighteen adults, and one hundred fifty two infants were baptized. We report nearly sixteen thousand families under the care of our churches, which gives an average of eighty two families to each church. A few neglect to make this report, and it is to be feared that some who do, estimate the number rather than make a careful canvass.

We number in our Sunday-schools one hundred and fifty two more than reported last year. Until 1888 there had been a steady decline for ten years, but last year the tide began to turn, and we will hope that it will continue to advance until it passes the more than twenty-five thousand numbered in 1878.

Our contributions show a gain of $7,916. Each of the last four years shows a material increase, which doubtless could be continued for several years to come without materially reducing the taxable assets of the state. Only twice in our history have we approached the contributions of last year: viz., $55,-393—never have we exceeded it.

The above reports embrace the Congregational and Presbyterian churches, of course, and hence will not correspond with what appears in the "Year Book."

REPORT OF TRUSTEES

—OF THE—

MINISTERS' AND WIDOWS' CHARITABLE FUND.

The annual meeting of Trustees was held at rooms of the Young Mens' Christian Association in Concord, June 21, 1889, ten of the Trustees being present, with the President, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, in the chair.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Cassander C. Sampson, after which the records of the Secretary were read and approved.

The Treasurer read his report which was accepted and ordered placed on file.

The Trustees then proceeded to election of officers for the ensuing year, resulting in the re-election of the last year's board, viz:—

President, HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS.
Secretary, RUFUS P. STANIELS.
Treasurer, JOHN C. THORNE.
Auditors, { WILLIAM P. FISKE.
DAVID E. WILLARD.
Prudential Committee, { HON. LYMAN D. STEVENS,
RUFUS P. STANIELS,
JOHN C. THORNE.

The interests of the Society and beneficiaries, also methods for increasing the usefulness of the Fund, were discussed by the Trustees, after which the meeting adjourned.

A meeting of the Prudential Committee was held July 16, 1889, at office of the chairman, Hon. Lyman D. Stevens, and appropriations made to such applicants for aid as come under the rule governing action of the board; only regreting that the annual income is not much larger in order that aid might be extended in larger measure to those entitled to the benefits of the Fund.

In behalf of the Trustees,

R. P. STANIELS, Secretary.

Concord, N. H., July 31, 1889.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a place the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, and before, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the Secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicate that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by the direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included.

It is hardly possible but that errors shall be found. Will you be so kind as to call the Statistical Secretary's attention to them, as it is his desire to secure accuracy. Do not presume he will find them himself, or that another will notify him, but do it yourself.

STATISTICS OF THE CHURCHES.

EXPLANATIONS.

The Congregational and Presbyterian churches are given separately; and the Presbyterian ministers are marked as such in the alphabetical list.

The towns are arranged in alphabetical order. When there is more than one church in a place the churches are given in the order of their age.

The full date of the organization of the churches may be found in the Minutes of 1875, and before, except churches since formed, which may be found in Minutes of the year organized.

The "Ministers" are those at the latest date the Secretary has been able to obtain information. A blank in that column signifies that the church named opposite has no regular supply, or none for a longer period than a few months. The column "Began" gives the date when the minister commenced his labors; the date of installation, if a pastor, may have been later, and will be found under the Ministerial Record of that year. The post-office address, which in a few cases differs from the name of the church, will be found in the alphabetical list of ministers.

A blank space elsewhere in the tables indicate that no report has been received. In no case is the report of last year copied, except by the direction of church clerks, but in the totals the last report received is included.

It is hardly possible but that errors shall be found. Will you be so kind as to call the Statistical Secretary's attention to them, as it is his desire to secure accuracy. Do not presume he will find them himself, or that another will notify him, but do it yourself.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

CONSTITUTION OF THE SOCIETY.

ARTICLE 1. This society shall be styled the NEW HAMPSHIRE HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

ART. 2. The object of this society shall be to assist churches and congregations that are unable to support the gospel ministry, and to send missionaries to destitute towns and places in New Hampshire, and also to co-operate with and aid the American Home Missionary Society in the work of home missions throughout the United States.

ART. 3. There shall annually be chosen, of the members of the society resident in the State, a president, three vice-presidents, a secretary, treasurer, auditor, and nine trustees, one-third of whom to be chosen triennially, at least one-third of whom shall be laymen, the seats of one-third of whom to be vacated each year and filled by a new election. All elections shall be made by ballot; and the president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, shall be trustees ex officiis.

ART. 4. It shall be the duty of the president, and, in his absence, one of the vice-presidents, and, in the absence of the vice-presidents, the oldest man of the trustees present, to preside at all meetings of the society and trustees, five of whom shall constitute a quorum.

ART. 5. It shall be the duty of the secretary to conduct the correspondence of the society and of the trustees; to keep a true record of the transactions of the societies and of the trustees; to fill out commissions for missionaries and certificates of life members; to draw orders upon the treasurer for all moneys appropriated by the trustees; and to make an annual report to the society of the proceedings of the trustees and of their executive committee.

ART. 6. It shall be the duty of the treasurer to receive and hold the property of the society: to lease and convey by deed any real estate belonging to the society, when directed by the trustees or their executive committee, and exhibit annually an audited account of the state of the treasury; and also to exhibit his books at other times, when requested by any member of the society or contributor to its fund. He shall give bonds to such an amount as the trustees or their committee may require.

ART. 7. It shall be the duty of the trustees to hold annual and semi-annual meetings, and also special meetings when called by the executive committee; to make appropriations of money; to appoint missionaries—sound, pious, able and discreet men; to adopt such measures as they may judge important to promote the financial and general interests of the society; and to make, through the secretary, an annual report of their doings to the society. Immediately after the annual meeting of the society, they shall appoint an executive committee of their own number, consisting of five, including the secretary. This committee shall have power to appoint its own meetings; to fill its own vacancies from the trustees, or vacancies in the board of officers which may occur between the annual meetings of the society; to appoint missionaries, make appropriations, and transact all other business which may be necessary during the intervals of the annual and semi-annual meeting of the trustees.

ART. 8. The society shall meet annually on Thursday, the third day of the meeting of the General Association, at 10 o'clock, a. m., or at such time and at such place as the society may have appointed at the preceding annual meeting. The society shall meet annually for business at some day and hour previous to the time of public exercises appointed and duly notified by the executive committee.

ART. 9. Any person may become a member of this society by paying two dollars as an annual subscriber, or a life member by paying thirty dollars. All ministers, whose churches contributes annually to the funds of the society, and all delegates to the General Association for the current year, shall be members for the time being. All members resident in the state shall have the right to vote in the meetings of the society.

ART. 10. Every minister of the gospel, statedly laboring in this state and in regular standing with the Congregational or Presbyterian churches, shall be considered as an agent of this society, to invite the attention of his hearers at least once a year to its objects, and to receive donations, subscriptions, and contributions to its funds, and transmit them to its treasurer or its authorized agents.

ART. 11. All questions before the society shall be determined by a majority of the members present, excepting amendments of the constitution, which shall require the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present, besides having been proposed a year beforehand for consideration, or recommended by the trustees.

RULES OF THE SOCIETY.

Every feeble church soliciting aid of the NEW HAMPSHIRE MISSIONARY SOCIETY should make application to the trustees by a committee (not by a minister) duly authorized. The application should be made as near as possible to the time when the contract for ministerial labor commences, should be certified by the local conference committee or by two or three neighboring ministers, and should answer the following questions:—

1. The full name of the church.
2. The name of the minister employed; the date at which his services commence; the length of time for which aid is asked, and the amount of his stipulated salary.
3. The number of resident members, male or female.
4. The number of families represented in the congregation.
5. The number usually attending public worship on the Sabbath.
6. The number within the limits of the parish who do not attend any public worship.
7. The amount of taxable property, railroad and other stocks, United States or other bonds, whether taxable or not, owned by members of the church.
8. The amount of such property owned by those who are members of the congregation, but not of the church.
9. The amount subscribed for preaching by members of the church.
10. The amount subscribed by persons not members of the church.
11. The amount of aid expected from funds, from friends abroad and from other sources outside of the above subscriptions.
12. Has the church a parsonage? And is it included in the above statement? And if so, at what rental?
13. What is the least amount of aid with which preaching can be sustained?
14. Are the church and society in debt?. And if so, to what amount, and for what purpose was the debt incurred?

The trustees will not be expected to continue aid to any feeble church or religious society that does not promptly discharge all pecuniary liabilities for the support of the ministry. No church or minister can enjoy the patronage of this society that is not essentially sound in the doctrines and ordinances of the gospel held and practiced by the orthodox Congregational and Presbyterian churches of New England, or does not practically favor the cause of temperance. No appropriation will be made retrospectively to feeble churches, to defray the expenses of ministers not in commission, nor for the support of ministers who do not devote their whole time to the work of the ministry for the benefit of the people to whom they minister. No missionary can receive his order on the treasurer until he makes a return of service for the full time of labor specified in his commission. Every missionary who shall neglect to make his annual statistical report by the fifth of August, without satisfactory reasons, shall forfeit his appropriation.

Every feeble church must renew its application for aid according to the above rules, so long as aid shall be needed.

Every renewed application for aid must report every particular above required, and not make any such reference as "the same as last year," &c. The failure to state all required particulars occasions great inconvenience, and often expense and delay.

No church shall receive aid that does not pay at least one and one quarter per cent. on the dollar of its ratable property, that is, $12.50 on $1,000. The trustees, however, will exercise discretionary power to vary this where circumstances shall demand it.

As the Missionary Society is a party concerned, no church under its patronage shall dismiss its pastor without the knowledge and consent of the trustees or the executive committee.

The trustees, at their annual meeting in Manchester, in 1864, added as a standing rule to the above, not to appropriate aid separately to churches so situated that they might conveniently unite in the support of one minister.

Every aided church is expected to contribute annually to the funds of the society.

Attention is called to the fact that appropriations are made, not to churches to expend at their discretion, but to aid in the support of a particular minister, regularly employed, and known and approved by the trustees; and also that his commission expires, and the appropriation ceases whenever for any cause he ceases to labor with the church so employing him. If aid is expected for another man a new application must be made, and this application must be renewed year by year, as long as he is employed and the aid of the society in his support is expected.

The attention of churches asking aid, and of missionaries is respectfully but very earnestly called to these rules. Mistakes causing much perplexity and loss of time, and often great disappointment, are constantly made for want of attention to them. All church committees and missionaries have access to them and are without excuse if they do not consult them. Non compliance with these rules, especially if repeated, is regarded as sufficient reason for withholding further aid from the deliquent church or missionary.

RULES FOR MISSIONARY RETURNS.

Missionaries are to send reports quarterly, and to transmit their statistical returns to the secretary annually, by the fifth of August. Those only who report quarterly shall be entitled to quarterly drafts on the treasurer. Those who fail to render an annual report on or before the fifth of August shall thereby forfeit the patronage of the society, unless sufficient excuse can be rendered.

In the annual report definite answers to the following questions are required:—

1. Your full name.
2. Name of the church or churches, and of all stations regularly supplied by you.
3. Number of families usually represented in each congregation.
4. Average congregation in each.
5. Amount of your stipulated salary, and is it promptly paid?
6. Has the church a parsonage?—if so, is the rent included in the above? and to what amount?
7. What proportion of the salary is paid by members of the church? What from funds or sources outside of the parish?
8. Number of hopeful conversions during the year.
9. Number of resident members in each church—male, female; non-resident.
10. Number added to the church during the year—by profession; by letter.
11. Number removed from each church—by death; by dismission; by exclusion.
12. Whole number in Sabbath-school.
13. Amount contributed to N. H. Home Missionary Society; to other benevolent objects.
14. Number of Sabbath-schools sustained, and meetings held in neighborhoods remote from the church, with a statement of attendance and results.
15. General remarks, including such topics as special encouragements and discouragements; peculiarities and special demands of the field; methods and results of labor, etc.

☞The attention of missionaries is very urgently requested to the importance and necessity of promptness, accuracy and completeness in their annual reports. The general report depends for its value upon its completeness and accuracy. It cannot be properly made out till all the returns are in. Every year the secretary is obliged to delay till the latest moment, awaiting the movement of tardy or delinquent missionaries, and even then to issue an incomplete and, so far, valueless report. Attention is invited to the rule, which it may be found necessary to enforce, making delinquency in this report to result in the forfeiture of the patronage of the society.

NOTICES.

All communications intended for the trustees, all applications for aid, returns of missionaries, and any correspondence relating to the general interest of the society, may be addressed to REV. E. H. GREELEY, Secretary, Concord, N. H.

☞ All remittances of money, and whatever communications relate to the pecuniary concerns of the society, may be made to Hon. LYMAN D. STEVENS, Treasurer, Concord, N. H.

The Home Missionary, published monthly by the American Home Missionary Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York, is sent gratuitously to life members, missionaries and auxiliary associations of either society; to all pastors whose congregations contribute any sum annually to either treasury; to all persons who serve as collectors; and to each donor of $10 annually, who signifies a wish to receive it. Applications may be made to the secretary, who is agent for the distribution of The Home Missionary for New Hampshire.

☞ All money contributed to the New Hampshire Missionary Society, which is not imperatively needed for the work in the state, is sent to the treasury of the American Home Missionary Society.

Applications for aid should contain full and careful answers to all the questions proposed, and should be renewed at the expiration of the time for which the missionary is commissioned, if his further services are desired. All applications should be promptly made. The trustees will not feel bound to make appropriations for services rendered before the application is made.

The payment of $30 into its treasury entitles the person named by the donor to become a life member of the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society, and a payment of $50 into its treasury, to become a life member of the American Home Missionary Society, and, in either case, to receive The Home Missionary, by signifying a wish to receive it.

Orders on the treasury to be drawn by the secretary.

The semi-annual meeting of the trustees is to be at Concord, in the month of May, at the call of the secretary.

Missionaries are reminded of the importance of making a prompt return of their annual report strictly according to the rules of the society. A simple delay embarrasses the preparation of the secretary's report, and often seriously impairs its completeness and value.

Benevolent societies sending boxes to home missionaries, within or without the state, will confer a favor by sending to the secretary the name and location of the society, and the direction and estimated value of the box, that it may be duly acknowledged and recorded.

Attention is called to the fact that all missionaries, all pastors whose churches contribute annually to the funds of the society, all life members, whether of the New Hampshire or the American Home Missionary Society, and all who contribute not less than $10 annually to either, are entitled to The Home Missionary, if they signify a wish for it. It is very desirable that this periodical should come into the hands of all who will carefully read it; but as it costs money to print and circulate it, it is also desirable to avoid waste by sending, for example, two or more copies into the same family, or to those who have removed their residences, or have deceased, or by sending it to those who do not want it and will not read it. All, therefore, who are entitled to The Home Missionary, and who desire it, but who do not now receive it, will confer a favor by notifying the secretary at Concord. Pastors and others will confer a favor by bringing this notice to the attention of parties interested, and also by notifying the secretary of any cases coming to their knowledge where for any reason copies now sent should be discontinued.

Form of a Bequest to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society.

I give to the New Hampshire Home Missionary Society the sum of dollars, for the purpose of said society, and for which the receipt of the treasurer shall be a sufficient discharge.

IMPORTANT LEGACIES HAVE BEEN LOST TO THE SOCIETY THROUGH INATTENTION TO ITS LEGAL NAME.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The eighty-eighth annual meeting of the society was holden at Exeter, September 4, 1889. In the absence of the President, Rev. W. G. Sperry, one of the Vice-Presidents, took the chair.

The meeting for the choice of officers, held in the audience room of the Second Church, was called to order at 4.30 p. m.

After prayer the Rev. Cyrus Richardson, D. D., in behalf of a committee appointed by the trustees, made a statement embodying certain recommendations of the trustees in regard to the appointment and work of a secretary for the ensuing year. It was voted to accept and adopt this statement.

It was, on motion, voted that the chair appoint a committee to nominate officers for the year ensuing, and the Rev. S. L. Gerould, Rev. C. S. Murkland, and Hon. John J. Bell, were so appointed. The committee reported the following list of officers, viz.:

For President, Rev. Samuel C. Bartlett, D. D.

For Vice-Presidents, Dea. E. P. Kimball, Rev. W. G. Sperry, and Rev. C. E. Harrington, D. D.

For Secretary, Rev. E. H. Greeley.

For Treasurer, Hon. L. D. Stevens.

For Auditors, Hon. John Kimball and Chas. T. Page, Esq.

For Trustees for three years, Rev. F. D. Ayer, D. D., Rev. Quincy Blakely, and Dea. A. H. Daniels.

For Trustee for one year, in place of Hon. Dexter Richards, resigned, Dea. Elisha K. Brown.

This report was accepted, and the persons thus nominated were duly elected by ballot.

On motion it was voted to adjourn, to meet at 7.30 in the audience room of the First Church, for the public exercises of the annual meeting.

At 7.30, met according to adjournment. After singing, prayer was offered by Rev. J. H. Bliss.

The annual report of the Trustees was read by the Secretary, and the Treasurer read his annual report. On motion, these reports were accepted and ordered to be printed as usual.

The Rev. A. T. Hillman, State Missionary, then addressed the meeting, going somewhat in detail into his work for the past year.

Resolutions, passed by the Hillsboro' County Conference at its meeting in June, calling the attention of this society to the needs of the Canadian French population in the State, were then presented and discussed at some length by Revs. C. S. Murkland, J. E. Odlin, J. M. Dutton, Cyrus Richardson, W. J. Sperry, E. C. Crane and T. S. Robie.

On motion, it was voted that the pastors of the churches in places where there is a considerable number of this class of people, be a committee with which the Executive Committee of this society shall consult with reference to any proposed work among them.

After the singing of a hymn, and the benediction, the society adjourned to meet, as usual, in connection with the meeting of the General Association in September, 1890.

EIGHTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The Trustees of the New-Hampshire Home Missionary Society respectfully submit the following as their eighty-eighth annual report, it being for the year ending August 1, 1889.

One of our missionaries has died in the year, the Rev. Lyman White, pastor at Wakefield. His death occurred on May 30th, when he had nearly completed the seventy-first year of his age and the fortieth of his ministry. He graduated at Dartmouth College in 1846 and at the Andover Seminary in 1849 and went immediately from the Seminary to Epping then one of our aided churches. Thirteen years of his ministry were spent under the commission of this Society. He was a minister of good ability, earnest, faithful and successful.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

The treasury exhibit for the year is an unusually favorable and encouraging one. There remained in the treasury at the close of last year $1591.31. There have been received into it during the year, in donations from churches and individuals, $5,400.99, an advance upon the preceding year of $1,401.12; from the Cent Society, $2,242.35, an advance of $74.15; from legacies $2,500, a falling off from last year of $248.75; and from income of permanent funds, $4679.74, making a total, $14,822.12, an advance from last year of $1,876.91; of this amount $1871.16 were sent by direction of donors to the National Society, leaving in our treasury $12,951.92.

In addition to this there appears to have been sent from the State directly to the treasury at New York, in donations from churches and individuals, $4,860, an advance upon last year of $1,749.86, and from legacies, $9,397.07, a falling off of $5,635.06.

The whole amount contributed in the State during the year for Home Missions, not reckoning the income of certain trust funds in the care of the Trustees of the Society, and not including the value, known to be very considerable, of missionary boxes, is, in contributions from churches and individuals, $612,297.5, a gain of $4,335.85; from legacies, $11,897.07, a loss of $5,801.98, as compared with last year, and from income of permanent fund, $4,679.74, making a total of $28,854 - 92. This is $2,381.96 less than the total of last year but apart from legacies is a gain of $5,286.44.

This large increase in the contributions of the living, bringing the aggregate receipts to a higher point than has ever been reached before in the history of this Society, is especially gratifying coming as it does in a year when the almost total failure of one of the most important crops of the State has seriously diminished the ability of many to give at all. All the more clearly on this account does it exhibit an awakened interest in the great cause of home missions.

The amount expended in the State was $12,794.78, a considerable advance upon the expenditures of the last, or of any preceding year, but occasioned wholly by the increased amount of missionary service. The average cost of a year of missionary labor was slightly less than in the preceding year. Whether it is to our credit or not there may be difference of opinion, but the fact remains that this cost to us is below that of most of the other State societies.

It will be seen that much the larger part of the amount contributed to home missions in the State has gone to the support of the work on the broad National field. Fifty-five and one-half per cent. of the whole has gone into the treasury at New York and forty-four and one-half per cent. into our State treasury. To the contribution of men and women which has gone to such an extent as to seriously cripple a large part of our churches, they have added what is, comparatively at least, a very generous contribution of money. Their hearts have gone after those who have gone out from the old home.

SURVEY AND SUMMARY OF THE WORK OF THE YEAR.

The number of different missionaries employed has been seventy-one, fifty-three ordained ministers and eighteen licentiates. These have labored in sixty-nine different fields, sixty-six with churches and three with no organized church. Thirteen of these fields are yoked. The aggregate amount of ministerial labor performed by them is fifty years. Forty-six of these churches have had a pastor for the entire year. The average appropriation to a church has been $171, and the average salary of missionaries has been $640, not including parsonage which in some cases has been furnished without charge. A comparison with the preceding year shows one more missionary employed, two less fields occupied and five more years of ministerial labor performed, five years more, so far as can be ascertained, than in any previous year in the history of the Society.

The decided advance in permanence of ministerial work which the reports of the year reveal is very significant as showing the strength of desire and purpose on the part of the aided churches not only to secure preaching but also a permanent ministry, a feeling that the church is there to stay and to be ready for any work that in coming years God may lay upon it. It is one too of numerous indications of a vital force in these churches, a strong determination to live, very remarkable when we consider the discouragements which they have to encounter, so remarkable that we can hardly mistake in referring it to a divine inspiration, pointing perhaps to a place and work for these churches in the future more important than we sometimes imagine.

The salary of missionaries reckoned in the currency of the time shows a considerable increase as compared with the earlier years, but if the comparative value of money and cost of living, and the compensation paid for other kinds of labor are taken into the account it will be seen to be a decided decrease as compared with fifty years ago. Then the average salary of missionaries was about $400, as against $640 now, while the cost of living and the compensation paid for other kinds of labor have fully doubled.

Six fields aided in the preceding year were dropped from the list of this year and four new ones added. The aggregate average congregation of the fields occupied was 5,347, seventy-eight each; a gain of three each over last year. The whole number in their Sabbath schools was 4,675, sixty-eight each; the same as last year. In the churches aided there are reported 2,473 resident members, 565 non-resident members, an aggregate of 3,085, forty-seven each; two less each than last year. Their reported contributions to our Society were $640.77; an advance of $140 upon those of last year; and to other benevolent objects $942.83; a falling off of more than $600 as compared with last year.

As the visible spiritual results of the work of the year there are reported 230 hopeful conversions, and 135 additions to the aided churches by profession, an unusually large number. The additions by profession and by letter, 221, exceed the losses by death, dismission and exclusion, ninety-six, by 125, making a net gain of four per cent. on the aggregate membership. The reports in these respects are much more favorable than usual.

A feeling occasionally finds expression, especially in view of the urgency of the calls from other parts of the country, that we are aiding too many churches in New Hampshire. It may be true, but it would be a great relief if those who think it is would, after a thorough personal examination, point out the particular churches that should in their judgment be cut off. Fully two-thirds of all that are aided are alone upon their respective fields.

Some of these fields are small but there is not one that has not a very considerable population which greatly needs the ordinances of the Gospel. It would be very difficult to find an instance of one of our aided churches in a community where there are those of other names, which could not and would not make out a very strong case showing its right to live and to be sustained in doing a work clearly pointed out for it in the providence of God. "Yoking," as our churches are situated, is not in most cases feasible, though there ought, perhaps, to be somewhat more of it. But the repugnance to it is in most cases so strong as to make it very doubtful how far it is wise to press it. The feeling which leads churches to wish each to have its own minister is one to be respected, though the half of a minister may often be much better than none at all.

It is greatly to be desired that pastors and laymen of the vicinity, or what would be much better, a committee of the local Conference, would personally examine any supposed doubtful case in their neighborhood and report. They would find those in charge of the work very ready to accept and act upon their judgment. Great care should be exercised to see that no church is aided from the funds of the Society which does not deserve to be aided, and that no church shall continue to be aided after it has become able to sustain itself.

The response of our churches to the very earnest and continued appeals of the National Society has been hearty and generous. Nowhere has it been more so. In no case has there been a larger relative increase in contributions. And it is believed that these contributions have, in proportion to ability, been quite as large as in any of the auxiliaries of that Society. It is a good omen for the future of our churches that this is so. No more weighty appeals to thoughtful, earnest, Christian men and women ever have been made, or could well be made. The mighty and portentous tide of foreign immigration, the rapid development of the country opening new fields of pressing urgency for the planting of Gospel institutions faster than all divisions of the whole church of America can supply them, the appalling problem of our large cities before which every intelligent lover of his country is standing today in dumb amazement and fear, these considerations and such as these give to such appeals a force that no Christian patriot who believes that only by the power of the Gospel can his country be saved and its future made secure, can resist. For years new and most inviting fields have been opening in large numbers before our National Society which neither the men nor the money at its command has permitted it to occupy. Again and again when the appeal from enthusiastic workers upon the frontier has come for the means to occupy new and most promising openings, the chilling response has gone back, "No more new work. The treasury is empty." This state of things must not be permitted to continue. It must not be permitted to continue though these demands of the work are increasing and are likely still to increase for a score of years to come, calling with solemn urgency of appeal for an addition of at least $100,000 a year to the resources of the Society. It must not be permitted to continue though the demands of the struggle to save our land should rise to the height of requiring something like real self-sacrifice on the part of our churches, a height not yet reached on any large scale. It is a good omen that our churches have become so far awake and responsive to these claims. It is to be hoped that they will continue so.

But we must not allow ourselves to be so far absorbed in the demands of work to be done beyond the borders of our own State as to forget that there is still work to be done in it, work that is specially ours and that no one else can or will do, and work no less important in itself than that called for in any other part of our country or the world. New Hampshire is still a part of our country, with influences still going out from it, as they have in the past, which are telling powerfully upon the well-being of the whole land. Churches in New Hampshire are as important as churches anywhere, and the very causes which are increasing year by year the difficulty of sustaining the churches among our hills afford the strongest reasons why they should be sustained. The attraction of the cities, of the great business enterprises of the day and of the new West are operating upon the youth growing up around these churches with the steadiness and almost with the resistless force of the attraction of gravitation. No Sunday schools in the world hold in them more of the latent energy and enterprise which are in coming days to be among the controlling forces in our cities and over the broad land than the Sunday schools of these churches. The future of the churches in our cities and towns is in them more than anywhere else. All that makes New England still the great base of supplies for all the leading benevolent operations of the day depends to a large extent upon the churches of the hill country of New England, many of which are calling for aid that they may still live. If we care for the churches in our cities and towns, if we care for the future of the State with the treasured memories which it holds in its embrace, if we care for the influences which are to control the destiny of our country we cannot afford to let these churches die. And if they are to be cherished and cared for we must do it or it will not be done. They are committed to our care and we cannot put aside the responsibility which this involves.

The project now somewhat widely entertained for bringing in a class of immigrants from the Scandinavian peoples of northern Europe to occupy the abandoned farms of our hill towns will, if successful to any considerable extent, give an added interest and importance to the churches in these towns. These immigrants are from an honest, industrious, intelligent and religiously inclined race and would bring a very valuable infusion of new blood into the State and some new hope to our depleted churches.

The question of duty as it respects the Canadian French population of which there are already some forty thousand within our borders, while the number is rapidly increasing, is exciting considerable new interest. This class is coming to constitute much the largest element among the operatives in our manufacturing establishments and their number is likely to be limited only by the limit of the demand on the part of these establishments. In any forecast of the future of our State, politically or religiously considered, this element must enter largely into the account. The question what can be done and should be attempted for their moral and spiritual well-being is in some aspects one of some difficulty and one which demands wise and careful deliberation. Of one thing however there can be no doubt and that is that churches living, earnest, aggressive, full of the Spirit of Christ constitute the most powerful force which can be brought to bear upon any class in the community, a force as resistless as the solar light and heat.

The course of the great Home Missionary work of the time, from whatever point of view it is regarded, is manifestly onward. Its field is enlarging, its demands are rising, its issues become visibly every year more and more vital and far-reaching. The increase in the contributions of the year show that our churches have felt this onward movement. But while they are to be congratulated on this increase, it is not a thing to sit down and rejoice over. It is only a step upward with heights still to be reached. We ought to do better another year. We can do better. It is hardly to be supposed that one-half of the members of our churches have as yet become at all fully awak to the claims of this cause, or have done anything considerable to sustain it. We can do more, it is a high privilege as well as a duty to do more. The contributions of the living to this cause for the year amounted to an average of seventy-five cents for each resident member. Shall it not be increased in the coming year to an average of one dollar per member? This would of course imply much more than that amount for some individuals and some churches. There are some churches so involved in the struggle to sustain themselves and with debt already incurred that they can hardly be expected to contribute largely even to such a cause. There are individuals by whom the contribution of a dollar would be seriously felt. And what is worse there are those whose names at least are on our church rolls whose purses no earthly power can reach for any such purpose. But making all such deductions abundant ability remains to secure the proposed increase. If all our pastors and the well-informed and interested among the private members of our churches, especially the ladies, will take hold of the matter it will be easily accomplished. Shall it not be done?

For the Trustees,

E. H. GREELEY, Secretary.

NAMES

OF CONGREGATIONAL AND PRESBYTERIAN MINISTERS, RESIDENT IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, IN ALPHABETICAL ORDER, WITH THE POST-OFFICE ADDRESS OF EACH, AND WITH THE NUMBER OF THE PAGE ON WHICH EACH NAME OCCURS IN THE STATISTICS.

The first column of figures gives the page where may be found the connection with an Association of Ministers; the second, the page where the relation to a particular church is given. Names preceded by a * are those serving churches, not pastors nor members of Associations in this state; some of them however may be connected with Associations in other states. The fact that these names are starred does not necessarily impugn the person's ministerial standing, but simply indicates what is stated above. See Constitution, Article VIII.
